Peter Ward's Ottawa viewpoint . . .

Who's inflating Canada?

By Peter Ward
OTTAWA (CEF)

As expected, inflation and the high cost of living were tabbed by all political parties as the main issue in the election campaign. Each party has its own formula for dealing with inflation, although there's a certain similarity in what the New Democrats are saying and what the Conservatives propound as their formula.

The Conservatives are in the awkward position of having to sell their idea of a price and incomes freeze, followed by controls. That's been their wicket for more than a year, and they'd very much like to moderate the stand because conditions have changed as inflation worsened, and because it's not an idea that sends wage earners wild with rapture.

Tory Financial critic Jim Gillies was telling me the other day, that the important thing which must be communicated on the price and incomes policy is the fact that a Conservative Government would allow no erosion of buying power for wage earners under a system of controls. That, of course, means that after the initial freeze period of up to 90 days incomes would be adjusted according to the cost of living.

The Tory object is to remove inflationary expectations from the economy, and thus control at least that part of inflation which originates within the economy. The Liberal stand is thated that almost all the causes of inflation come from outside the country, and hence are beyond government control. The answer, according to the Liberals, is to push for major expansion within Canada, keeping the economy moving ahead faster than inflation. The object of this exercise is to increase supply, and keep prices down by removing scarcities. The Trudeau Liberals were bitten once before with restrictive economic policies, which when applied to the inflation of the late 1960s, created a major unemployment crisis which dangled around the nation's neck like an albatross for years.

The Trudeau cabinet, particularly John Turner, is determin that this won't happened again.

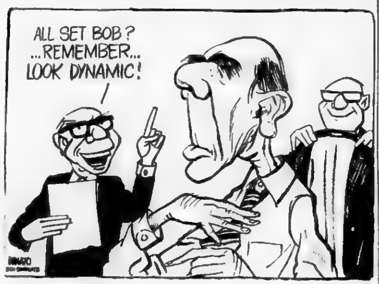
The Liberals also vow to protect those on fixed incomes and low wages from the ravages of inflation, by tax cuts and subsidies on essential commodities like oil, milk, and bread.

There are certainly holes in both arguments. Income and price controls will require considerable bureaucratic machinery, and can be much more effectively applied against those on salaries than against thos receiving investment income or professional fees — lawyers, doctors, dentists, and the like.

The Liberal policy of steaming the economy ahead full blast also has severe dangers, which we've been feeling already in the interest market and consumer prices. Any effort at a general stoking up of the economy to increase supply is going to have a large booster effect also on domestically induced inflation.

The trick is going to be a nice balancing act which uses the best parts of both policies, liberally laced with the sense of social justice which the New Democrats stress.

The planned approaches of all parties will become clearer as the campaign progresses. Let's hope that the resulting national discussion paves the way for more balanced treatment of the economy, no matter which party wins.



Not Bryce!

Maybe we should be hunting for signs hidden under bushes instead of looking for them out in the open, but we're absolutely at a loss to explain the action this week of Prime Minister Trudeau in appointing Bryce Mackasey to another ministerial position, this time in charge of the state department.

Mr. Trudeau must surely have been seeking to beef up his party, in enlarging to 31 the number of cabinet ministers, but surely this was not the time to reappoint Mr. Mackasey, and surely Mr. Mackasey is not the man for this job. We come away with only the conclusion that Mr. Trudeau must be more hard up for material of cabinet quality than we had imagined.

It will not be forgotten for some time that it was Mr. Mackasey who spearheaded the incredibly inept Unemployment Insurance Act changes of a couple of years ago, who introduced the generous, if not lavish, terms of payment of that time, completely devoid of reality in terms of the Fund's ability to pay, and then, when the Fund was in the red a matter of a hundred million dollars or more, rather weakly admitted they had slightly underestimated the shortfall through a series of miscalculations.

There was no way the government then could backpeddle, and it could only wait for a number of unemployment insurance "scandals" to develop, in order to back up slightly in the application of the Act.

Surely a man who has shown such capability in driving against heavy opposition through to such an unhappy and ill-considered conclusion is hardly the man to put in charge of a department requiring the finesse and the delicate footwork to be found in the diplomatic field of the state department.

Alberta
Gentlemen:

For those who are interested the following are items gleaned from around town.

The 1954 debenture for installation of water and sewer is now paid with still a year to go on the 1912 original.

The Town is going ahead with completion of the curb and gutter project with more sidewalk area being installed on 49 Street from 52 Avenue to the school on 58 Avenue. The paving program is scheduled for 1975 with a grant being obtained to help with the financing from the Dept of Highways. The local traffic signs will be updated for more efficient use of our streets.

Alberta Housing Corporation has indicated Tofield is on the 1975 priority list for a Senior Citizens Home which will require 3 and a half to 5 acres. Let's hope the 5 acres are allotted to allow the tenants small gardens to look after.

Because so many clubs have approached the town regarding buildings for each group, a Councillor reminded Council and those present that school facilities are available for club activities for nominal rental fees. This would, of course, provide better facilities than could be obtained elsewhere and for, perhaps, lower fees. With enrolment going down, perhaps a room or so will eventually be available in which crafts may be left between meetings.

Boulevard trees are not readily available from nurseries this year. Anyone interested in going with A. Klassen to obtain trees can contact him.

Yours truly,
Kathryn Karr

The Mercu...
Tofield, Alb...
Dear Sirs:

I would li... o submit a plea to the pu... from myself and the Ryl... and Tofield fire departments ... plea is "PLEASE STAY AWAY".

This was brought ... out by the house fire on ... 19th. There were appr... ately three times as many ... stat... ors as firemen. Whe... there are that many spe... tors, there is a very high p... ibility these spectators and t... eir cars and trucks will be in the way. These spectators and their cars run the risk of bodily injury or damage to their vehicles. One good example of this was at the fire May 19th. The Tofield fire truck had to come to an almost complete stop because one spectator was too stupid to move.

So for your sake, and ours, please stay away, and, if you are so obsessed with fire that you cannot stay away please, stay out of the way.

Yours truly,
Kenneth Reid

Dr. Walter Buck, M.L.A.,
204 Legislative Building,
Edmonton, Alberta
Dear Dr. Buck:

In response to your inquiry regarding the possible development of a Provincial Building in Tofield, I am pleased to provide the following information.

1. Several meetings have been held between Alberta Public Works' staff and the elected representatives of the town to explore the various avenues leading to the development of adequate facilities.

2. A survey of Government space requirements in the Tofield area has now been completed and the results forwarded to the Mayor, Dr. Freebury.

3. The town has decided to proceed to the consultation stage by contracting an architect to conceptualize the facility and proceed to the sketch stage only. At this point further discussion will take place respecting financing, long-term lease back etc.

I trust this information will serve to bring you up to date respecting this matter.

Yours sincerely,
Winston O. Backus, M.D.

To Whom It May Concern:

There is really only one issue in the forthcoming federal election: whether the government of Canada or the multi-national corporations are in charge of the Canadian economy.

The New Democratic Party is the only real alternative to the present government, since the Progressive Conservative Party showed by their votes in the House of Commons that they have the same tender regard for the multi-national corporations that the Liberals have.

I say this in sorrow because a number of years ago I helped to found the Battle River-Camrose Progressive Conservative Association.

In the forthcoming campaign I shall be doing all in my power to support the New Democratic Party.

Fashion show presented in Tofield School

By Grace Phillips

Under the direction of Home Economics teacher, Mrs. Marilyn Lehman, the girls in Grades Eight and Nine in the Tofield School presented a fashion show in the school gym on Monday June 3.

The girls modelled some of the garments they had made as a commentator described each garment

A very good crowd attended to admire the girls' work and to participate in the social period which followed the fashion show.

CARDS OF THANKS

Psalm 27:4-8: I have every reason to praise God for the grace provided in the pain He allowed in my body. (I don't deny personal benefits because of the experience). Thank you for the prayers of Salem congregation as I left one hospital to enter another, and all others who remembered me at the Throne of God. I felt very keenly my spirit being sustained in my need as it seemed so real. Thanks too, for visits, letters and cards from so many, and especially those who took time in the midst of regular responsibilities with jobs, that made it quite stressing. Thanks to all the doctors, the staff at both hospitals. I shall not soon forget the patience and concern you demonstrated in the service provided in your responsibilities.

Hastings Lake news

Irene Scott

HASTINGS LAKE, May 30— Alph and Hazel Cunningham, Sandy and Irene Scott accompanied Ken and Anne Oliver to Edmonton for supper one night last week before Cunninghams leave for their new business at Eaglesham.

On Wednesday evening, quite a few took in the showing at Hastings Lake Hall by Ray and Katheryn Peterson of pictures of their trip to Britan last summer. The accompanying tapes with narration by Ray, singing of appropriate songs by Katheryn or Holly made a very enjoyable evening. Lunch was served afterwards.

On Thursday, May 23rd at the Strathcona Field Day, Brenda Locktie won four out of four events, the 400 and 200 and 100 meter and the shot put. She set a new time record for the county in the first three.

On Friday Brenda was sick at school and when taken to the doctor her condition was diagnosed as extreme fatigue and she was sent home for a complete rest.

On Saturday, May 25th North Western Zone Field Trials was held at Centenial Park with winners from Jasper Park, Athabasca, Barrhead, Sturgeon and Strathcona counties competing. Brenda won the first three medals for the meter races. In the 200 meter race she was only two tenths of a second short of the Provincial time record.

On June 1st, at Centenial Park she plans to enter the Northern half of Alberta Field Trials

The last whist drive of the season was held last Saturday with the following results: Ladies first Barbara Ferguson; low, Katheryn Peterson; Gents first, Sandy Scott; and low Ron Ferguson

Three candidates set for the Federal vote

Three candidates have been nominated to contest the forthcoming Federal election in July for the Vegreville Constituency.

Over 350 people attended a convention in Vermilion and elected incumbent Don Mazankoswkik by acclamation to carry the Progressive Conservative banner. Mr. Mazankowski has been the sitting member since 1968.

A Mundare area farmer, Winston Gereluk, was named as the NDP candidate at a convention in Vegreville last week attended by about 60 people. It will be his first attempt in politics.

Running for the Liberals is Ronald Harris, a Lloydminster businessman. Mr. Harris was nominated a couple of weeks ago.

So far, no candidate has emerged for the Socreds. It has not been dtermined if Social Credit will attempt to field a representative in this election.

All candidates must officially file their nomination papers on Monday.

Cabinet will visit

Two groups of cabinet ministers will be touring northeast Alberta on Wednesday and Thursday, June 24th and 25th.

In all, six groups will be touring various sections of the province as the Conservative Government continues its movement of bringing the government to the people. One group, consisting of Dr. H. M. Horner, Merv Leitch and Dr. A. A. Warrack will visit Tofield, Lamont, Fort Sakatchewan, Mundare, Bruderheim, Lloydminster and Kitscoty. Holden and Ryley will be visited by a group consisting of Premier Peter Lougheed, Helen Hunley and L. D Hyndman. Other centres to be visited by this group will include Viking, Hardsty, Provost, Paradise Valley, Lloydminster, Two Hills and St. Paul.

The entire cabinet will meet in Vegreville on Thursday afternoon, June 25th.

Ryley leads in Powerline

Because of rain and wet grounds, action in the Powerline Baseball League has been rather limited in the past two weeks.

Three games were played on Tuesday.

Sparked by a game opening pitch home run by Wade Magneson, Ryley went on to whip the Roadrunners 7-4 in Camrose. Ralph Berke picked up the win.

In other games, Viking defeated Round Hill and Bardo stopped Tofield. No details were available on these two contests.

Ryley C.W.L. hosts "regional" conference

by Lena Bell

The Catholic Women's League Zone 3 regional conference was held n Ryley at the Legion Hall on Thursday.

Forty-four women from Tofield, Bruce, Vegreville, Ft. Saskatchewan, Skaro, St. Micheal, Viking, Sherwood Park and Ryley were in attendance.

The conference was called to order by the Regional chairman, Mrs. Terry Kallal of Tofield

Welcoming wishes were then given by the Ryley president, Mrs. Theresa Manderson and Ryley's director, Father Rataj

Mrs Kallal then introduced Mrs. Rose-Marie Hague, the guest speaker for the morning. Mrs. Hague's talk was on the theme of the conference which was "Renewal of the Christian Life". She also gave her views on how women can play a more important role in the church.

Following her speech, Mrs. Hague was presentd with a small token of the convention's appreciation for her most inspiring talk. The presentation was made by the Ryley president.

The ladies then broke for the morning and made their way to the church for mass. Mass was said by Ryley's director, Father Rataj and Father J. Leszcynski of Viking. An active part was taken by all during the mass as Mrs. Fife of Edmonton played the organ.

When mass was ended everyone returned to the hall to enjoy a simple but very delicious lunch which was prepared by several ladies from Ryley.

The afternoon session was in the form of a short business meeting. After introducing the Dioceson President, Mrs. Dot Keatis, Mrs. Kallal turned the chair over to her. Mrs. Keatis then thanked the Ryley ladies for allowing them to hold the convention here; and she also thanked them for the wonderful lunch.

Next on the agenda was a short talk from the Past Diocisan President, Mrs. Gertie Slavik of Killam

At the end of the business meeting elections were held for the position of Regional Chairman, Mrs. Terry Kallal was elected to serve another term.

A small work shop was to be held next; and Mrs. Joan Newington of Leduc, the Church Life Co-convener was introduced and proceeded to explain to the ladies what form the workskhop would take.

The ladies were broken up into groups of eight. Mrs. Newington passed each group a slip of paper with a problem on it. The ladies were given a short time to discuss the problem and mark down their ideas.

Mrs. Kallal then thanked all the ladies for attending this conference and making it the big success that it was.

Ryley girl wins contest

Jean Kast, a student at Ryley School won provincial honors in the 1974 farm safety essay competition, sponsored by the Alberta Safety Council.

Miss Kast took top honors in the grade seven competition. Her teacher is J. Voegtlin. The County of Beaver's representative in the grade five and six competition was Janice Keith of Holden.

Representing the County of Camrose in the provincial contest were Elaine Penner of Edberg for grades five and six, and Terry Pederson of Bawlf for grades seven and eight.

Barbara Ness of Sedgewick represented the County of Flagstaff in the grades five and six competition. The county was not represented in grades seven and eight.

Should cut both ways

Over a period of several months denunciations have been heard from Alberta Consumer Affairs Minister Bob Dowling over the practice in some retail outlets of increasing prices on goods already in stock when the wholesale price went up, although no new stock had been added in the store. And just about as consistently, we have said that the policy was unrealistic, even though merchants were told that fair trade laws might be invoked if the practice were discovered.

In a period of inflation such as we've seen, of course, most prices go up, and it's a rare occasion when prices ever drop, so there are few examples of this to use as a guide.

But it does happen occasionally, such as for instance, when a tax is cut from a number of items, as happened in the recent disastrous federal budget.

On this occasion, we had rather thought Mr. Dowling would maintain consistency, and advocate that merchants should not drop the price, either, on goods for which they had already paid the tax before the budget was introduced. Even though the law of business demanded the price be dropped to meet the competition of merchants whose stock came in tax free, the principle outlined by Mr. Dowling surely suggests the initial fair price tag should remain on the article.

It is quite possible we missed his statement in this regard, with so many other developments in the news. Is it possible he missed making it?

Law of the marketplace

Sooner or later, history shows, the consumer sets the price for commodities in the market place by indicating through his actions what price he's willing to pay for any particular item. Over a period of time, consumers will give in to rising prices, but eventually the time comes when, in effect, they rise up and say, collectively, "This is all we're willing to pay. If the price goes higher, we'll do without." And even if it's a necessity, they manage to find some substitute, or find ways to reduce the importance of the item until lack of sales brings the price into line again.

Similarly, it seems to us, the federal government found itself in this sort of marketplace in connection with the airport firemen across the country who were demanding parity pay with the wages of firemen in the communities in which they work. Bargaining with any government can be a pretty arduous assignment, we know, but given the situation which prevails, it seems to us the time has come for the federal government to simply say to the firemen "We don't care what the municipal firemen in your city are paid . . . are all we're willing to pay for this job is the rate established. If you want more, then go to work for the city fire department."

In 1974 it may sound heretical. But it didn't sound any more heretical in 1944 than the shopper who puts the meat back in the showcase. It wasn't heretical in the depression days of 1934, either, or just about any other decade in history. Nor is it today.

LEGISLATURE CLOSES

Thursday afternoon saw the closing of this spring's sitting of the Legislature. A large number of Bills were passed with many being rather of the house-keeping variety. Some of the most controversial being the North East Commissioner Act and the Alberta Energy Act. I will be summarizing the work of the Spring Session at a later date.

GRANT MacEWAN RETIRES

This was the last session that our beloved Lieut-Governor will preside over. Everyone in Alberta will miss him but his replacement, Ralph Steinhauer, whom I have known many years, will be a fine replacement. My congratulations and best wishes to the new Lieut-Governor.

ANOTHER BUSY WEEK

Monday morning I had the pleasure of being invited to attend the Regional 4-H beef competition at Andrew. Clubs from Lamont, Bruderheim, Chipman and Andrew were the participants. Congratulations to Grand Champion Gail Danchuk and reserve winner Miss Shacher from [illegible] Creek.

TOFIELD 4-H

Wednesday night I attended the banquet at Tofield for the wind-up of their beef show. The prices of the calves averaged 57c a pound which was exceptional considering the packing strike.

TOFIELD PROM

Mrs. Buck and I attended the Tofield High School prom last Friday night. The program and dance were most enjoyable. Our congratulations and thanks for a most hospitable time.

LIONS ANNIVERSARY

The Tofield Lions Club invited my wife and I to their Charter Night dance last Saturday. Lions Clubs from all districts were represented. The heavy rain did not stop the Lions from a "roaring good time". Cngratulations to a fine service club.

WEDDING, ANNIVERSARY

Congratulations to Bonnie Schlender and Kevin Dewhirst on their wedding last Saturday afternoon. The Schlenders are long time pioneers in New Sarepta. The wedding and reception were most enjoyable and my wife and I wish to thank Elsie and Eby Schlender for their kind invitation.

Mr and Mrs Reiny and Emma Hennig of Bruderheim, celebrated their 40th anniversary this past Sunday. It was a pleasure to stop and visit with them and their many friends. Congratulations folks.

100th ANNIVERSARY

The 100th anniversary of the coming of the Mennonite people to the Tofield area was celebrated. My congratulations and sincere thanks for the opportunity to be with you at your celebration on this happy occasion. I enjoyed the service and the fine hospitality.

Any problems, suggestions please write Box 1030, Fort Saskatchewan, or phone 545-3660, Fort Saskatchewan, collect.

Well-tempered candidate?

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA (CEF)

Two pieces of conventional wisdom in this election campaign maintain that inflation is the main issue and that Ontario is crucial to the party which hopes to form a government. Even Pierre Elliot Trudeau and Robert Stanfield agree on that.

It's also conventional wisdom that Prime Minister Trudeau at his best is more convincing, more appealing on the hustings, than Robert Stanfield at his best. Even Trudeau supporters concede that Trudeau at his worst is several notches below Stanfield at his worst.

Trudeau is an up-and-downer; Stanfield is not as spectacular but more dependable. In the campaigns of 1968 and 1972, Trudeau dem[illegible] [illegible] his skills as a politician [illegible] he also displayed a [illegible] lack of stamina, something [illegible] remarkable in a calling which requires the best of strength [illegible] even strong men. Friends who have worked with Trudeau on past campaigns tell me that he gets short-tempered and [illegible] when he doesn't get eight hours sleep. He cuts meetings and sometimes disappoints crowds of supporters to get the rest he considers necessary.

This time, Trudeau has said, he intends to campaign flat out all the way, and certainly during the first half of the marathon he's done just that. But can he stand the pace? Will he begin cutting meetings and become progressively more brittle of temper?

A leader on the edge of losing his temper in public is no asset to his party on the campaign trail, and a man like Trudeau who makes a virtue out of not suffering fools gladly, could become a political disaster.

Stanfield, on the other hand performs better in a campaign than he does in the House of Commons. He's better at stating his own policies than he is questioning the policies of others. He also has a remarkable amount of stamina packed into that wiry stooped frame — enough to totally exhaust journalists assigned to travel with him. Stanfield apparently can perform just as well on four hours sleep as he can on eight.

Recent Ga[illegible] polls have shown conclusive[illegible] that Trudeau outshines Stanfield in public esteem as a leader though, and if Trudeau can muster the effort to mainta[illegible] his initial campaign pace [illegible] keep his temper in check [illegible] the election w[illegible] undoubtedly be a close one.

If Trudeau [illegible] apart, the Liberals will [illegible] and likely elect a new [illegible] within a year.

If Stanfield [illegible] fails to win for the Conser[illegible]ves, he, too, will certainly [illegible] under the party's axe.

Hawkins - Fairholm

The wedding of Alta-May Fairholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Fairholm of Tofield, to Ray Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs Hawkins of Tofield, took place on May 18th at Tofield United Church with Rev. Bessey officiating. The newlyweds will reside in Edmonton. -Lyseng Studios Portrait.

Tofield Sports Day plans are finalized

Grace Phillips

Plans were finalized for the Tofield July 1st celebration at a special meeting of the participating organization on Monday in the meeting room of the Community Centre, with Bob Moss in the chair.

The parade will be under the direction of Bob Moss as it forms up on the road in front of the hospital. Numbers indicating the category to which each entry belongs will be distributed by Bob Moss and his assistants. Judges have already been secured. The parade will get underway at 11:15 a.m. The parade route will be the same as that followed last year: from the hospital to the Bank of Montreal to the Freebury Clinic on Main Street, turning right to the Shaw-Henriksen corner, turning south to the United Church corner, east to Conrad Patterson's and north to Dr. Price's corner, and here the prizes will be awarded and the parade disbanded.

This year, medallions will be awarded to adult winners and to the winning floats; ribbons will be given for second and third prizes. Children's entries, other than the youth floats, will receive a cash prize of $2.00.

T. W. Jacobs reported that the grounds will be in good condition for the day's events and that the Tofield Firemen will be in chrage of parking

As usual, a baseball tournament is planned. Five teams have entered, Bardo Athletics, Ryley Rebels, Round Hill North Stars, Camrose Roadrunners, and Tofield Lions. The first game will get underway at 12:00. The umpires are to be from the Alberta Umpires' Association. Little League baseball will also be featured. The gate will be in charge of the Tofield Curling Club. A gate prize will be given to the holder of the lucky gate ticket stub.

Tickets are now on sale for a $100.00 raffle to bedrawn for at 6:30 at the Exhibition grounds

Harold Schultz reported that the Tofield Historical Society will again welcome the Old Timers and former residents of the district in the foyer of the Tofield Arena. Mr. Schultz urges all who were in this area in or before 1924 to come in and sign the guest book. Free coffee will be served to those who do. The Historical Society will also have a collection of pictures of pioneer days on display. This display should spark a good many "remember when's".

The Tofield Branch of the Canadian Legion will be running a Bingo from 2:00 to 4:00 in the arena. The games will be 10 cents each with half the take of each game going to the winner. Last year, the bingo was a popular innovation.

The Beaverhills Light Horse Association, in addition to forming a specatcular entry in the parade, will hold a closed gymkhana on the exhibition grounds during the day. The gymkhana has been well attended in the past and this year's events will be no less exciting.

At 4:00 p.m., the Lion's Club will serve their usual delicious barbeque; and there will be seating in the arena so that the patrons of the barbeque can eat in comfort. The concession in the Curling Rink will be operated by the ladies of the Tofield Curling Club; the 4-H Club will have a booth for selling pop and ice cream, and this year there will also be a concession operating in the arena.

Crown Amusements will supply two major adult rides and two kiddies rides on the midway.

At present, plans for the annual dance associated with July 1st are to have it on June 29th in the Community Centre with Joe Dubuc's orchestra from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Herb Sware of Unifarm is in charge.

Global thinking

Alberta's lieutenant-governor, Grant MacEwan, was critical of Canadians who "brag and boast about our high standard of living when our neighbors and friends are going hungry."

Speaking in Calgary, Dr. MacEwan said that this was "in bad taste." He said the biggest challenge in the world today was to reduce the disparity in the way of life between the affluent peoples of North America and the world's starving millions.

Dr. MacEwan said that 1974 could conceivably be the most disastrous year in memory for the world-wide provision of food.

This is because the grain reserves of the "rich" countries are at their lowest for 20 years, the price of grain prohibitive for the poorer countries, and technologists already saying a drought period has begun to embrace a large part of the world.

He said the people of Canada were living well because of inherited good fortune. The country's grain production is able to provide each man, woman and child in Canada with two tons of grain annually, added Dr. MacEwan.

"We couldn't possibly eat all that if we tried," he said. "Instead, we feed the grain to our animals and then we eat the beef it has helped to produce."

"This is the kind of extravagance the majority of the world's peoples cannot comprehend. I don't really think they can forgive us for living so well."

"I believe the slogan for this year should be towards more global thinking — and more sharing," stated Dr. MacEwan.

Farmers are once again trying to get on the land following more rain storms last week. Any low spots in the fields are too soft and the farmers are having trouble getting their machinery stuck, so most are just working the higher parts of the land. Any hay sloughs or low spots where water can stand are full and unless it soon dries up there will be a shortage of hay and feed for stock this fall as most of the hay will be drowned and it is getting too late for seeding the early grain. Some farmers have been unable to get last year's crop off the land.

Recommendations wanted

Areas in which the federal government wants to receive recommendations include branch line abandonment and Crowsnest freight rates. These were outlined in Mr Otto Lang's address delivered by W. E. Jarvis, assistant deputy minister of agriculture, to the Canada Grains Council meeting held in Winnipeg recently.

Mr Lang said that the government was "eagerly" awaiting the results of studies being made by groups who were going ahead on their own. Weyburn district farmers studying the feasibility of locating a major inland grain terminal in the Saskatchewan section and the Alberta Wheat Pool studying the grain delivery and transportation system.

"Grain companies in the near future," said Mr Lang, "are going to be faced with the necessity of investing substantial amounts of capital to either renew the system in the present form or to fit a modified system which might evolve."

"Of course they are concerned about the uncertainty of what will happen to some railway branch lines and on which they have elevators which may need upgrading."

"Railways also need capital for modernization of track and fleet, but abandonment of branch lines is not necessarily desirable; in fact, there is really no incentive at the present time for the railways to abandon branch lines since they can collect subsidies for grain moved on those lines which they could not collect if the grain were moving on main lines.

"The present system cannot [illegible] as it did at its inception," stated Mr Lang. "We can no longer afford to keep [illegible] in this manner."

Mr Lang's warning came out loud and clear. The federal government may have to face the challenge of making decisions in order to assure a reasonable and effective grain handling and transportation system.

Robert Service: Bard of the north

The Yukon has been a cradle for many poets and story tellers but none captured the spirit of an era or country as did Robert W. Service, the bard of the north.

This year would have been the 100th birthday of the famous lyric poet. He might be dead and gone but his creations not only qualify him as the most luminous of Sourdough word painters but rank him with the great epic poets of all time.

In his younger years Service dabbled in rhyme with mild interest and was a great reader of verse. He was an ardent lover of Kipling, whose work no doubt inspired and influenced him. Be that as it may his "songs" of the North are written with a click and punch that no other poems have captured in spirit.

His lines reverberate with the feeling of Yukon and he tells best of the great Klondike Gold Rush, an event of history unfortunately missed by the young poet. He arrived ten years too late but managed to record, in his fashion and sometimes fantasy, the now legendary events of that era.

Service was born in England but raised and educated in Scotland. After spending time in a Glasgow university the wanderlust bug bit him and at twenty he hit the road. In his "Rhymes of a Rolling Stone" he says:

"There's sunshine in the Heart of me
My blood sings in the breeze;
With a love of the lowly things of earth,
And a passion to be free"

His path led to Canada. After a rather disappointing experience coming across country from city to city he ended up in British Columbia and made his way up and down the Pacific Coast from British Columbia to Mexico and back. This lasted for several years. He supported himself in whatever job that came along and finally landed a job as bank clerk in Victoria, B.C. The Klondike Gold Rush was in its heyday when Service was lured North. He secured a transfer to the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Dawson in 1909.

The environment of the Yukon inspired him and combined with the tales of the gold rush, the rugged romance of the land and the golden glamor of the times his pen flambouyantly recorded those times.

It was in a small cabin, on a hillside street in Dawson that this quiet, extremely modest clerk immortalized this great era of Canadian history. Few realized the genius of his works at the time.

He was "discovered" by a close friend who read his works and this resulted in the publication of his "Spell of the Yukon", "Songs of a Sourdough", "Ballads of a Cheechako" and other books of poems and a novel titled "The Trail of '98". No issues of verse of its kind have ever met with such popularity and demand. His poems have been dramatised, recited, quoted and sung all over the world.

His ballads have made famous such names as Sam McGee and Dan McGrew and all those boys "whooping it up", and of course the lady named Lou.

His portrayal of the Yukon wilderness is as true today as it was in his time:

"It's the great, big, broad land way up yonder,
It's the forests where silence has lease;
It's the beauty that thrills me with wonder,
It's the stillness that fills me with peace"

Ironicaly he left the Yukon after a few years never to return. He died in France in 1958 at the age of 84. He has been debated, praised and cursed. Some people detested him for stretching the truth and never experiencing the actual gold rush. His fame is not one gained as a historian but as a poet and no doubt his "songs" will be read, quoted and loved longer than the criticism.

Service and the Yukon are synonymous and in Dawson his cabin still stands.

Invasion of mice

Many rural residents are using mouse poison in an attempt to get rid of mice that seem to be everywhere in the country. The mice were sheltered under the snow all winter and had plenty of grain to eat.

A two and a half year old child lost her life at Peace River, Alberta, recently. It is believed that the young child had picked up a few grains of mouse poison that had apparently been spilled by her mother. The autopsy confirmed strychnine was the cause of death.

This tragic story should be related to other parents and their children. Caution should be used when distributing mouse poison. Not only are children in danger, but the family pet needs to be protected too.

It's up to adults to make certain poisons of any types are not within reach of children.

38 students graduate from Tofield school

by Heather Appleby

After weeks of planning and preparation by the high school students Friday, May 31st saw the Tofield gymnasium transformed and ready for the Spring Prom held that evening.

In keeping with the theme, "Wish Upon a Falling Star", selected by the graduates the stars and streamers used to decorate the gym made it appear as if it were a starlit spring evening. The color combination, chosen by the grade 12's, was orange, yellow and green. Also a part of the decorations was a mural sketched and painted by Sharon Haugen.

The evening began with a program organized by Colleen Walker and Laurel Erickson. Beginning at 7:30, the program consisted of a piano duet by John Clark and Colleen Walker, a performance by the Voice Three quartet a reading by Richard Little and Francis Dumberger and recorded characterizations of the grade 12's prepared by Mr. Whyte and Mr. R. Taylor. Emcee for the program was TSU vice-president, Randy Jones.

Following the program at 8:30 p.m., was a dance will music by "The Norsemen". Midway through the dance, the grade 12's assembled for the Grand March an. Student of the Year pres entations.

This award is presented to the students who are chosen by their fellow graduates as the outstanding members of their class. This year's winners as the Student of the Year awards were Sharon Haugen and Robert Appleby.

Carol Ann Francis was in charge of arranging the voting for the awards. Presentations were also made to Carolyn Chilkowich, social convener and organizer of the prom and to Joan Clark, pianist for the Grand March. During the evening a buffet lunch was served in the east end of the gymnasium with the aid of the grade 8 girls.

Following is a list of the 1974 graduates:

Hall of Fame looks for names

Nominations of Albertans for the Alberta Department of Agriculture's Hall of Fame award are being accepted until July 1st, recently announced Agricultural Minister Hon. Hugh Horner.

Any Canadian citizen who has made an outstanding contribution to agricultural life in this province, or in Canada as a whole, is eligible to be nominated for this honor, the highest bestowed on anyone by the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

The individual may be either professionally or voluntarily involved in agriculture, providing he or she has made an outstanding contribution in this field. Although preference will be given by the selection committee to people closely associated with the practical aspects of agriculture such as farmers, others who have made outstanding contributions such as businessmen and professional agrologists are also eligible.

Nominations, with supporting evidence of the nominee's achievements, can be submitted by anyone and should be sent to John Andrew, head, Communications Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Agriculture Building, Edmonton.

Nuclear pacemaker is implanted in a youth

Eleven - year - old Bradley Johnson, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Mike A. Komarnisky of Holden, youngest son of Marge and Ole Johnson of Calgary, is one of the 12 Canadians licensed by the Atomic Energy Commisson of Canada

In an hour long operation at Holy Cross Hospital, a nuclear-powered heart pacemaker was emplanted into Brad's body, making him the youngest Canadian and one of the youngest people in the world to receive this somewhat unusual form of heart locomotion.

This Aspirin tablet-sized piece of radioisotopic plutonium 238 in a pacemaker which weighs six ounces, Brad is now carrying just below his rib cage.

Why a nuclear pacemaker? Bradley, who was born with a heart defect which prevented his heart from beating at the normal 70 beats per minute while resting (this was 50 to 10) had had a battery-powered pacemaker implanted two years ago. With the conventional pacemaker he faced the prospect of having to return to hospital and undergo a surgical operation to have the "pulse generator" portion of the pacemaker replaced every two or three years This convinced Dr. George F. Miller, head of the Holy Cross Hospital Cardiac and Heart Surgery Unit that Bradley was an excellent candidate for the nuclear pacemaker, thus becoming the first Albertan to join the select Atomic Club.

This plutonium - powered pacemaker may last 20 years and will stand absolutely incredible impacts, extremes of temperature and erosion

The first person to receive one was a French woman in 1970, the first Canadian implant took place in October, 1973, at Toronto General Hospital, The nuclear powered heart device was developed in the late 1960's. Since then, more than 650 have been performed in 23 countries. Bradley's was the 12th in Canada at a cost of $5,000, with Medicare paying the bill. He is now home and in the best of spirits and busy with studying about prehistoric creatures and animals

Plans being set for Tofield's Sports Day

by Grace Phillips

The location of the dance associated with the July 1st activities has been changed by the committee in charge. Herb Sware, who is in charge of arrangements, says that the dance will now be held in the Tofield Arena, instead of the Community Centre as previously announced. The change is due to the large crowd expected

The charge for the dance will be $5.00 per couple. A buffet luncheon will be served at 11:30. Refreshments will be available. The dance will be played for by Joe Dubuc's orchestra from 9:30 to 1:30.

BASEBALL

All is in readiness for the July 1st baseball tournament.

Tofield and Camrose play game #1 at 12:00 o'clock. At 2:00 p.m. Ryley takes on Bardo in game #2. Round Hill gets the bye in this round.

At 4:00 p.m. Round Hill plays the winner of game #1.

6:30 will see the final game underway. All games will be 7-innings except the final which will be 9 innings.

The umpires are from the Alberta Umpires' Association.

John B. Baergen, one of the coaches of Little League Ball in Tofield reports that negotiations are underway for Little League games on July 1st. Jack Francis of Edmonton, formerly of Tofield, is arranging games between Tofield and Edmonton Little Leaguers. There will be at least four games; all three age groups are going to get a chance to play.

The first game will commence at approximately 10:30 a.m. on the northeast diamond. Mr. Baergen says that there is comfortable seating for several hundred spectators in the bleachers at this diamond. It is hoped that the Little Leaguers will have a good crowd to watch their games

There will also be a men's fastball exhibition game on the northeast diamond later in the day.

Four file nominations

The Vegreville Constituency will see a four-way battle when voting in the Federal Election comes on July 8th

Official nominations closed in St. Paul at three o'clock on Monday afternoon with candidates from four parties filing papers

Incumbent Don Mazankowski will again carry the Progressive Conservative flag and, this time he will be opposed by three men who are making their debuts in Federal politics.

Ronald Harris of Lloydminster will be the Liberal candidate while Winston Gereluk of Mundare will carry the NDP colours and Bob Summerville of Three Hills will represent the Social Credit Party.

new feed grains policy

The federal government has announced a new Feed Grains Policy, to become effective August 1, 1974. It is designed to meet the needs of both producers and users. Basic objective of the new policy are:

- an equitable pricing system for all grain growers and livestock feeders,
- expansion of grain and livestock production according to natural potential;
- order and stability throughout the grain and livestock sectors

PRINCIPAL FEATURES OF THE NEW POLICY:

- The Canadian Wheat Board will continue to pool its purchases of feed grain, pay initial prices, set quotas and make final payments on feed grain it buys and sells;
- the CWB will continue to be the sole purchaser and seller of feed grain for the export market.
- producers will continue to have the choice of selling their grain to the CWB or to other buyers of feed grain within CWB area and now buyers of feed grain in other parts of Canada will be able to buy feed grain directly in the prairies for the domestic market;
- to prevent congestion at elevators, the CWB will be able to set delivery quotas on non-Board domestic grains, the Board will also have control over cars for rail movement of non-Board feed grain for the domestic market
- a feed grain price guarantee system will be introduced to assure a fair return to grain producers. producers will continue to have guaranteed initial prices for all feed grains sold to the CWB, and a guarantee will also be provided on feed grain sales to the domestic [illegible]
- a new storage program, costing the federal government $40 million a year will be instituted to provide for security of supplies for Canadian markets, it will also lead to additional grain storage on the West Coast, at inland terminals, on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence and in the Maritimes
- cash advances will be increased to $[illegible] to ease pressure on producers to sell grain at distress prices. a western [illegible] stabilization fund will be created to offset sharp drops in producer incomes when markets or prices decline and will protect prairie grain income from rising costs of production
- steps as necessary to bring into balance freight rates between meat and grain will be taken progressively consistent with trends in grain and livestock [illegible] with interested [illegible]

Joyce Haydon from Viking (also in the Ryley 4-H Clothing) did the same, only she went as far as the seniors could, to the Regional Finals.

At a recent county delegates meeting, we were informed that 2 exchanges are being planned for this summer. First off, 4-H'ers from California will be coming down to our district, we have not been told to which county or when exactly.

The second is one to Vancouver. Money is being raised by 4-H clubs for this. The members must be over 14 and have been in the club for at least two years. Then, the eligible members fill out a form and the three are chosen.

PUT THOSE WATTS TO WORK ...WISELY.

A WIDE RANGE OF LOW-COST COOKING TIPS.

When you cook you can conserve energy in many ways. Plan your meals so you can cook all dishes together in the oven. And remember, roasts that you defrost before cooking will require one third less cooking time (and cost).

Save electricity dollars when cooking. Don't open the oven door too often. Each time you open it, the temperature drops and it must be re-heated.

When you cook on top of the range, use small amounts of water in covered, flat-bottom pots. It heats faster - uses less energy. Your vegetables will retain more vitamins too.

Energy is our business — conserving it is everybody's business."

Home run leader: Rich Kope (R) 3; Pitching, Rick Stotz (R) 3-1; Wilmer Dueck (T), Larry Olsen (L) 2-0.

The Tofield Toros moved into sole possession of first place during the past week's fastball action, although Lindbrook is still undefeated and has a game in hand.

On Wednesday, June 12th, Tofield's Wilmer Dueck and Ryley's Rich Kope staged a pitching duel at Ryley. Each pitcher gave up only three hits in the well payed contest that ended in a 1-1 draw. Ed Wiens drove in the Toro's lone run with a double to right centre in the top of the fourth. Rich Kope helped his own cause in the bottom of the fourth with a lead-off home run to left field.

Meanwhile, at Kingman, Ray Peterson pitched his club to a 25-14 win over Bruce. After falling behind briefly to Cooking Lake, Lindbrook came on strong behind the pitching of Larry Olsen to trounce Cooking Lake 32-8. Other details of these games were not available.

Sunday's action was rained out.

Here is a brief, but beefy little book written for men only . . . and the women who want to know how men think. It's message, delivered with good humor, will transform troubled homes into vibrant and exciting places, and make stagnant marriages come alive. Truly a "manual for men" who want to become what God intended.

June 20 — Mrs. Lorene Francis and son, Leigh and daughter, Pat of Viking were Sunday (Father's Day) visitors at the home of her parents, John and Mary Wood.

Quite a number of relatives and friends from near and far away attended the surprise party and open house at the Lindbrook Hall on Sunday honoring Bert and Alberta Tiedemann on their silver wedding anniversary

T. D. Ferguson and son, Lloyd were Monday evening visitors at the home of T. D.'s brother, Howard and Mae Ferguson.

Mrs. Isabel Rudzcki, Mrs. Mae Ferguson, Mrs. Lillian Fairholme and Mrs. Mavis Jacobsen of this district were Monday afternoon visitors at the home of Mrs. Vi Goeglein in Tofield, helping her celebrate her birthday Also there were Mrs. Agnes Haukedal, Mrs. Burtchard and Mrs. Alice Warner of Tofield

Altho weather has been very favourable in the district the past few days, farmers are having a very difficult time getting the fields ready for seeding, the difficulty being so many low spots are either still filled with water or so soft the machinery keeps getting stuck and on some fields, the swaths and stooked grain is too wet for burning and in places, the stooks are still in water. Tonight (Tuesday) at time of writing, an electric storm is in progress and more rain will further delay the seeding.

Mrs. Mary Moore returned Saturday after having spent the past two months as a patient in the Tofield Hospital. Also home from hospital are Mrs. Margaret Weatherill and Mr. Alphonse Fontaine.

A correction on your correspondents phone number should read 662-2253 and not 636-2253 as published last week.

Pioneers honored

Retiring teachers honored by ATA

On Monday afternoon, June 17th, in the school library, the Tofield Sub-local ATA hosted a retirement tea honoring Marjory Everitt and Florence Ingram. Each of these ladies has dedicated thirty years to the teaching profession and each has spent the latter years teaching in the Tofield community.

Those gathered in their honor, approximately ninety people from the Tofield staff and other school staffs in the Country, enjoyed first of all, strawberry shortcake and tea and then a short program conducted by Mr. Lampitt.

Charlie Sears, on behalf of the County of Beaver School Committee, presented Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Everitt with chime clocks, and Victor Petruk, president of the Beaver Local Alberta Teachers' Association, presented them with engraved silver watches.

A skit involving Carol Kurka, Gail Faushaug, Yvonne Allan and Helen Tiedemann, made apparent in an often humerous way, what has made these two teachers so worthy of the appreciation of their students, their colleagues, the School Committee and the Tofield Community.

Keith Robson, acting Superintendent, and Ken Eastlick, Tofield School principal, thanked the ladies for their services to the children of the Tofield community, and their co-operation and enthusiasm in carrying out their duties.

Mrs. Everitt and Mrs. Ingram in their replies, reminisced about the changes they have seen in the classroom over the past years and revealed openly the gratification they have derived from their work with children.

Some special guests at the tea were Mr. and Mrs. Mac Macdonnel, Mrs. Mollie Coon and Mrs. Eleanor Campbell, who have in the past taught with both the ladies being honored.

Both Mr. Ingram and Mr. Everitt attended the tea as did Lois Hammond, Mrs. Everitt's daughter, and Beth Kope, Susan and Annia, Mrs. Ingram's daughters.

Bible camp builds pool

Construction of a swimming pool at the Hastings Lake Lutheran Bible Camp, 30 miles east of Edmonton on Highway 14, is expected to begin in a few weeks.

The $38,000 pool, to be 30 feet by 60 feet, is scheduled for completion at the end of July and will be in full use in early August.

Run by an association of 20 Lutheran churches in central Alberta, the camp serves about 350 children each summer, as well as adult and senior citizen groups.

In addition, many cub and scout camp and youth retreats are held there from May to September.

Donations from church members will be sought to help pay for the new facility.

Planning to use metric in schools

Dr. Sidney A. Lindstedt recently undertook duties as a special Department of Education consultant to work on the introduction of the metric system of measurement into the Alberta school curriculum.

Dr. Lindstedt plans to develop a series of province wide inservice workshops for resource teachers. The teachers in turn will develop 'metricated' programs in Alberta schools. Dr. Lindstedt will also be responsible for providing information about the metric system to parents through a series of television presentations developed in cooperation with the Alberta Educational Communications Authority.

He is taking a 14-month leave of absence from his position as Professor of Education at the University of Calgary, and started his new duties on May 1. His office is located with the Calgary Regional Office of the Department of Education, 2nd Floor, 332-6 Avenue, S.E., 261-5026. Services in the Calgary Region may be obtained through the regional office serving that zone.

new feed grains policy

The federal government has announced a new Feed Grains Policy, to become effective August 1, 1974. It is designed to meet the needs of both producers and users. Basic objective of the new policy are:

- an equitable pricing system for all grain growers and livestock feeders;
- expansion of grain and livestock production according to natural potential;
- order and stability throughout the grain and livestock sectors.

PRINCIPAL FEATURES OF THE NEW POLICY:

- The Canadian Wheat Board will continue to pool its purchases of feed grain, pay initial prices, set quotas and make final payments on feed grain it buys and sells;
- the CWB will continue to be the sole purchaser and seller of feed grain for the export market;
- producers will continue to have the choice of selling their grain to the CWB or to other buyers of feed grain within CWB area and now buyers of feed grain in other parts of Canada will be able to buy feed grain directly in the prairies for the domestic market;
- to prevent congestion at elevators, the CWB will be able to set delivery quotas on non-Board domestic grains; the Board will also have control over cars for rail movement of non-Board feed grain for the domestic market;
- a feed grain price guarantee system will be introduced to assure a fair return to grain producers; producers will continue to have guaranteed initial prices for all feed grains sold to the CWB; and a guarantee will also be provided on feed grain sales to the domestic non-Board market;
- a new storage program, costing the federal government $40 million a year will be instituted to provide for security of supplies for Canadian markets; it will also lead to additional grain storage on the West Coast, at inland terminals, on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence and in the Maritimes;
- cash advances will be increased to $15,000 to ease pressure on producers to sell grain at distress prices; a western grain stabilization fund will be created to offset sharp drops in producer incomes when markets or prices decline and will protect prairie grain income from rising costs of production;
- steps as necessary to bring into balance freight rates between meat and grain will be taken progressively, consistent with trends in grain and livestock prices, and after discussion with interested provincial governments.

Competitive essays

Two County of Beaver students did exceptionally well in provincial farm safety essay competitions.

Jean Kast of Ryley finished in 1st place in grade seven competitions while Janice Keith of Holden won a berth in the provincial finals for grades five and six.

Following are the essays written by the two girls.

WATER SAFETY

By Jean Kast

One time, long ago, when I was a little younger than I am now, our family went for a day at a lake. As soon as we all got out of the car, my sister and I quickly changed our clothes and ran into the lake. Was that ever cold.

After a while when we got used to the water we were doing stunts and all sorts of silly things that we knew we weren't supposed to do. I guess we were trying to show off to each other. Well, I wanted to be the best show off ever and so I waded, very, very deep into the water - up to my chin. My sister gave me a shocking glance and told me to come into shallower water, but I just smiled and took one step farther. This step that I took, made the water go up to my mouth so I had to breathe through my nose.

I guess I was getting kind of scared at that time because just then I remembered my parents warning, "Do not go up above your waist - ever, in the water when we are not there." I was getting so frightened that I couldn't move. All of a sudden I heard a boat motor and it was getting closer and closer. I don't know why I stood there, but I just did.

I saw my sister running out of the water to get my Dad. The motor boat was about three yards away from me when it passed by. I was trying to get to shallower water, but I panicked and the harder I tried, the slower I went. Well, the waves finally caught me. They were very strong waves because the boat was going very fast. They went over my whole face causing me to fall down. The last thing I saw was my Dad running into the water, . . . then I fell, deep, deep into the water. I couldn't breathe at all and I was trying to get up to the surface, but I couldn't and I fainted.

I never woke up until late that night when I was in the hospital. My sister, Mom and Dad were looking at me. At that very moment I felt ashamed, very ashamed because I knew I disobeyed my parents and that I also tried showing off.

Well, when I got home from the hospital, I sure never got out of things easy. I thought my Mom and Dad were going to forgive me, but no siree! I got such a spanking that I'll never forget, and I know something that I'll never forget also. I will never go deeper than my waist in the water when I don't know how to swim and I know never to show off in doing stunts that are dangerous since it could make me drown.

I had luck in not drowning that time but I might never have that same luck again and I don't think I'd want to take chances in doing silly things in the water.

So now I know, I really did learn my lesson in Water Safety that day.

Water safety

By Janie Keith

Billy was one of the best swimmers in town. The other boys, who envied him, were always thinking up difficult tasks for him to do.

One day they dared him to swim across a lake. They agreed to meet at the lake that afternoon. When they got there the wind was blowing but this did not stop Billy. As he was wading into the water he stepped on a rusty can. He knew he could not turn back to the mocking boys. He started to swim across the lake. Due to the rough water and the pain in his foot he soon became exhausted. Every stroke seemed his last. When he felt he could go no farther he saw a boat. One of the boys had realized how foolish he had been and sent his father to look for Billy.

In this dare no damage was done and no lives were lost. Many careless people lose their lives and if you don't want to be one of them obey water safety and don't take dares.

Formic acid is effective in preserving silage used at the rate of eight pounds per ton. The treatment is economical if a farmer is growing a high quality crop. Formic acid sells at about 20 cents per pound. Compared to soybean and other protein supplements, alfalfa silage treated with formic acid is an economical source of protein.

Tofield School wants Library's books back

The Tofield School requests the help of parents in having needed reference books returned to the library. In the past few years it has been school policy that encyclopedia could be borrowed for overnight use. At the present, the following encyclopedias are missing from the library and have not been signed out:

World Book - Volumes 8,7,17,18
Merit Encyclopedia - Vol. 13
American - Vol. 11
Compton's - Vol. 1,5
Canadiana - Vol. 4

The following encyclopedias have been signed out but have not been returned:
Landa and Peoples - Vol. 4

Comptons - Vol. 8

There are no fines involved; we are only interested in having the books returned so that they can be used by other students. Our investment in reference amounts to several thousand dollars, and if volumes are missing from a set, it makes that set of little value for use.

If any parents are missing Volume 1 of the Illustrated World Encyclopedia, it has been left in the Tofield School Library and can be picked up there.

Again this year an inventory will be taken of school library books and we are asking that all books be returned to the library by Tuesday, June 18th. It would be greatly appreciated if parents and students would check carefully at home to see that all books stamped with the school stamp and belonging to the library are returned as at present there are several hundred of these books that are missing.

Students view Mother Nature

By Grade 5 A.
Tofield School

The grade 5 - A class has taken part in a very exciting science project.

We were able to watch the development of some ducklings and goslings from fertilized eggs in hatching.

On May 9th, we visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Huebert's farm and saw some eggs that were seven days old. We saw the heart and veins beginning to develop. This was done by holding the egg in front of a light.

By May 16th, when we viewed the eggs again, we could see the shape of the ducklings and goslings inside.

The highlight of the project occurred on May 20th when we watched several ducklings hatch.

It was most thrilling to watch "Mother Nature's Wonder."

Mrs. Huebert provided Kool-Aide and treats each time we visited.

Sunday School vans founder passes away

Word has been received of the death of Miss Eva Hasell, at the age of 87, born in England Miss Hasell was founder of the Anglican Sunday School Vans, which for over fifty years have travelled to all the isolated areas of western Canada bringing Sunday School classes to thousands of children otherwise deprived of the opportunity to attend Her own private money went into the venture and in addition all she could collect from wealthy friends in England. Whenever enough money was available a new van was purchased and equipped, and sent out in charge of two well trained young women, one a teacher and the other a driver-mechanic and general trouble shooter. Hundreds of young Canadian women have spent their summers travelling far and wide in these vans, living, sleeping, eating as well as teaching in them.

Miss Hasell herself has spent all her summers in this way. For a great number of years her driver was Miss Iris Sayles Their last visit to Tofield area was in August, 1968 when, although both were nearing the 80 year mark, they set up classes at North Cooking Lake for ten days. They attended the morning service at Holy Trinity, Tofield and gave a good description of their life as travelling missionaries and a sample study session for the children.

Miss Sayles died last year.

Hastings Lake

Mrs. Irene Scott

HASTINGS LAKE, June 27— The June meeting of the Hastings Lake Ladies Club was held at the Douglas Mason home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lindberg have had Pete's mother, Mrs. Hoover, visiting them.

Gloria, Fred, and Rhonda Walsmith and Betty Anne Scott called on Sandy and Irene Scott on Friday night to leave Rhonda to spend the weekend, and returned for her on Sunday.

The teen dance held at Hastings Lake was a big success with the "teens" reporting a very good time. There will be another one soon.

Archaeologists have been around the area viewing and taking pictures of Indian artifacts. They called at the Sandy Scott home on Tuesday.

1. To store fresh rhubarb in the refrigerator, cut into 2 to 3 inch pieces. Place in a plastic bag in the crisper.

2. To freeze rhubarb remove root ends after washing. Cut the stalk into 1 inch lengths and pack in freezer bags in the amounts required for favorite recipes, labelled and closed tightly. For best results use fresh, firm, well-colored stalks. Proceed as for fresh.

For more rhubarb ideas call or write for the publication "Rhubarb Recipes".

This is rhubarb season and I love it. Here are a few tips for using rhubarb.

Weed of the Week

By L. Weatherill
Agricultural Fieldman

The wild oat is the most serious weed of cropland in western Canada. It infests, to some degree, every acre of cultivated land, and if control measures are not carried out every year we may expect that the one billion dollar loss in yield, estimated to have occurred in western Canada in 1973, will increase.

The peculiar growth habits of the wild oat are the main reason why complete control is very difficult.

1. Many of the wild oat seeds fall to the ground early so they are not harvested with the crop. If they were harvested they could probably be cleaned out rather than infesting the soil.

2. The wild oat has two kinds of dormancy. Primary dormancy allows the seed to overwinter, rather than germinating on maturity and being winter-killed. Primary dormancy may break in the spring and the seed germinate. There may also be a secondary dormancy develop after the soil has been at 80 degrees for several days. If seeding is delayed until secondary dormancy occurs we may have a crop relatively free of wild oats. This secondary dormancy also allows wild oats to survive summerfallowing.

3. Wild oat plants possess inherent differences which are indicated by the production of seeds of a different color, different cycle of dormancy, and a different reaction to herbicides. Some seeds will survive one year - some another - a built in survival mechanism.

4. The wild oat seed plants itself. With alternate wetting and drying the awns twist and untwist forcing the seed into the soil and planting itself.

The wild oat adapts for survival - control is not easy, but if a farmer is to survive he must make some effort to control this pest.

1. Sow clean seed. There are enough wild oat seeds already in the ground so why plant more.

2. Carry out any possible cultural controls such as delayed seeding following an early June cultivation to kill the first flush of wild oat growth. The timing of this cultivation is quite critical - the majority of the wild oats should be in the 2 - leaf stage when the field is gone over with a cultivator. Some of the wild oats will only be transplanted, from one place to another so for best results about one week later the area should be gone over again with a spring tooth harrow.

3. Avadex, Carbyne, Treflan, Endaven, Avenge and Assign F are chemicals which may be applied to control wild oats in crops. For exact instructions refer to "Chemical Weed Control in Cereal and Oilseed Crops - 1974" available from your District Agriculturist or Municipal Fieldman.

4. If all control methods fail and your crop is infested with wild oats cut the crop EARLY for green hay or silage. EARLY cutting will prevent the wild oats from seeding and adding to the staggering numbers in the ground.

5. For further information on wild oats or any other weeds, contact the District Agriculturist Office, Box 200 Ryley (Phone 663-3553), or County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman, Box 140, Ryley (Phone 663-3730).

NEW CURLING BROOM

For those devoted to the game of curling, Joseph Semenchuk of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan has invented and patented a curling broom. He claims the broom has the action and feel of the conventional straw broom, and, at the same time, has better wear characteristics and other features through a novel arrangement of a pouch over the lower ends of the straw and a fabric cover over the pouch and head of the broom. Canadian patent number 930,980 was granted on July 31, 1973.

People before corporate profits

We believe that people matter more

In this campaign I have asked the question, who runs Canada?
Only the NDP is committed to challenging the power of the large corporations that own and run the country and thus in solving some of the major problems the Canadians face.

FEED GRAINS POLICY: The NDP is the only major party that opposed the new feed grains policy which removed the pricing of feed grains from the jurisdiction of the Canadian Wheat Board and threw it back on the open market. We believe that farmers want market stability; they don't want to be forced to gamble with their hard-won produce.

INFLATION: Every year corporations have been increasing their profits, the main factor in policies. Wages and incomes have not kept up to this inflation. The NDP would take action against this. The prices review board would decide when price increases are justified and demand a roll back of those that are not justified.

TRANSPORTATION: Deteriorating freight and passenger rail services, dependence on foreign shipping, contempt for real needs. These are results of national transportation policy geared to private profit. The NDP would end unfair freight rates and suspend rail line abandonments, improve passenger service, bring CP under public ownership and restrict coastal shipping to ships of Canadian registry.

Cattleman flays "history department"

"The History Department of Statistics Canada has just released its monthly cost of living index and once again misled the Canadian people," says Charlie Gracey, manager of the Canadian Cattlemen's Association

Mr. Gracey said a good example is the announcement that beef prices are up over last month, when for the past number of weeks beef prices have declined steadily.

He pointed out that the facts of the matter are that STATISTICS CANADA commits three errors, when they report beef prices and as far as he knows these types of errors are committed in reporting prices of nearly everything else.

The first and obvious error is that the figures are always out of date. For instance the figures just released on June 7th are for prices that prevailed in the first week of May — five weeks ago. It is understandable that STATS CANADA has to take time to compile and verify its data but, if they go to so much effort why not add an explanitory paragraph explaining clearly that the data is nine weeks old and since that time, the trend has been up or down or whatever.

It distresses an industry, experiencing declining prices, to hear a reputable Government agency announce that prices are rising.

The second error is that STATS CANADA only samples one week per month and takes no pains to explain so to consumers. Thus a down trend in the second, third or fourth week passes unnoticed Surely with its enormous resources STATS CANADA could collect data weekly and comment more authoratively on trends

And lastly STATS CANADA does not price all the cuts, but only a sampling of five or six cuts. A reconstruction of the carcass to price all the cuts is much more accurate and Mr. Gracey says that the Canadian Cattlemen's Association has been monitoring beef prices for the past four years. Every cut is priced each week and the data is then calculated out within one week. Naturally, the Cattlemen's Association does not have the budget to cover as many centres as Statistics Canada and so the job of informing the Canadian people falls properly to Statistics Canada. But the Association Manager said that it's better not to do it at all, than to mislead the public, and he called on the agency to immediately start to produce more current and more accurate data.

Junior high grads honored in Tofield

by Grace Phillips

On Wednesday, June 19th, the ninth nine classes of the Tofield School were honored with a banquet held in the dining room of the school.

The guests from grade eight under the direction of Heather Allen and Sheila Watson, welcomed the banquet Verley Aston of Dawn Twelo planned the decorations which illustrated the theme: "Sailing into High School."

J. C. Lampitt said grace and Barry Jones, president of the Boy Scouts, proposed the toast to the Queen. After the banquet had been enjoyed, Kathy Blades proposed the toast to the graduands to which Alice Villeneuve replied. Richard Pittet gave the toast to the School and John Blades replied. In his reply, Mr Blades made reference to the field trip taken by the graduands when they were in grade seven, making reference to the growth, physical and mental, of the students since then.

K. B. Eastlick wished the graduands every success, as did Keith Robson, acting Superintendent of Schools. Neil Gannon, who will be the superintendent in September, spoke to the graduating class.

Age of sail alive and well in Nova Scotia

The age of the windjammer is still vigorous in Nova Scotia, Canada, as evidenced not only by the growing number of yachting enthusiasts in Canada's Atlantic province, but also by the rising popularity of the Marine Museum at Halifax Citadel.

A group of rooms is jammed with models, photographs, and paintings of sailing ships, displays of tools, and artifacts. And a special course is offered to schoolchildren by the staff of the Nova Scotia Museum.

The historical part of the course fascinates the small fry, because in the story of Canada's Maritime Provinces, a major role involved the building of fleets of ships, both warships and cargo vessels.

Among them were the fastest sailing ships in the world.

The schooner "Bluenose", built in Lunenburg in 1921, and still portrayed on the Canadian dime, was one of the most effective fishing schooners and undefeated champion of the international schooner [illegible]

An earlier Maritime product was the square-rigged "Marco Polo". In 1867, the year Canadian Confederation came into existence, she covered the run from Australia to Britian in 76 days, beating by a week the time of the latest STEAMSHIP.

The tall square-riggers once built in Nova Scotia sailed best with following winds. Trade routes to Europe, South America, Australia, or Pacific Ocean ports, were planned to take advantage of prevailing winds.

A photograph of an old shipyard is surrounded by a display of tools used to build the wooden ships. A broad-headed axe, an adze, wood-block planes and other tools are on display.

A chart of ship silhouettes shows the different rigs used in the oldtime sailing craft. Visitors can see the differences between a fully-rigged ship, a barque, brigantine, or schooner.

Speaking on women's lib, one of our readers, upset by the increasing use of the term chair-person in news reports, would like us to warn our readers what this may lead to-a whole host of other concessions, such as "Woodperson, spare that tree!" . . . Rain interrupted the Lakes League schedule last week, however, by the weekend teams were again in action.

With the teams heading into the home stretch of the schedule Tofield has a slim lead for first place.

On Sunday, June 23 Ryley and Lindbrook staged a see-saw battle for seven innings until Lindbrook managed to edge Ryley 14-13. Larry Macleod was credited with the win, while Rick Statz was tagged with the loss.

Sunday, June 30, saw Wilmer Dueck pitch his Tofield team to an easy 27-2 victory over Bruce. Alvin Laibida pitched in a losing cause.

Tofield and Lindbrook used July 1st sports to play an earlier rained out league game. Both teams went into the game undefeated. Tofield was able to ward off a typical late inning rally by Lindbrook, and win the contest by a 7-3 score. Wilmer Dueck pitched for the winners, while Larry Olsen pitched a strong game in a losing cause. Dale MacMann for Lindbrook and Vic Wiens for Tofield each had home runs in the game, and are currently tied in the League's home run department with three each.

VOL. 57—No. 46—July 11th., 1974 PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA

PROVINCIAL LIBRARY EDMONTON DEC. 4

Mazankowski sweeps Vegreville

Don Mazankowski won his third straight election in the Vegreville Constituency with ease on Monday as he won all but five polls.

In picking up 72.2% of the ballots cast, Mr. Mazankowski saw to it that all of his opponents once again lost their deposits.

A total of 18,328 votes were cast for the Progressive Conservative candidate who is reputed to be headed for a bigger role in the party's operations.

Trailing badly was the Liberal candidate, Ron Harris of Lloydminster who picked up 3,457 votes, a slight percentage lower than the Liberal popular vote in 1972.

Despite a trend across the country which saw NDP support decline, Winston Gereluk increased the NDP support by 1.5% as he had 2,917 votes while Socred Bob Summerville picked up only 874 ballots, a slight increase over '72.

Harris managed to come out on top in five polls, winning Lafond 35-28, winning a St Paul poll 70-56, taking a Smoky Lake poll 9-8, winning at Mallarg 81-78 and topping St. Vincent 86-67.

Mr. Harris was not blanked in any of the polls while Mr Gereluk was shut out twice and Mr. Summerville failed to pick up a vote in a total of 19 polls.

Figures listed for all constituencies are unofficial as the official counts are being made today (Thursday) by the returning officers.

Due to a manpower problem, The Mercury was unable to have the poll by poll report set in time for publication. A complete report of all polls will be carried in next week's paper.

Checking wild plants in the Camrose area for their edible qualities is an Opportunities for Youth Project involving three young ladies. Examining the plants are Gance Helberg, Tofield; Cheryl Bartlett, Duchess; and Becky Erickson, Camrose. —The Mercury Newsphoto.

Testing

Holden's new complex is progressing nicely

After a late start due to the wet ground conditions earlier this spring, the Holden and District Agricultural Society Recreation Complex is steadily taking shape. The structural steel is erected and the walls are covered in, with the roof insulation and steel expected to go on this week.

However, when the shell is completed there is a great deal of work to be done in the interior of the building, such as cement floors, dressing rooms, plumbing and heating, etc.

The Board of Directors are still attempting to raise additional funds required to complete the building. Of the anticipated $37,400 Local Initiative Program, $16,800 has been received. This is being used for local labor in the construction of the new building and dismantling of the old curling rink.

Salvage lumber from the old rink is being used to build graneries and tool sheds, which will later be sold. Also to be offered for sale at a later date, is the skating house and any other salvage lumber. Piping for artificial ice and lighting fixtures are being salvaged and will be used in the new curling rink.

The Bonanza Club draw is adding $500 per month to the coffers and a Fall Carnival is being planned for November 15 and 16.

An Agricultural Fair is being planned for Saturday, August 17. Brochures will be distributed shortly and local residents are invited to participate.

The canvass for donations is about half completed, and the finance committee is making an appeal to local citizens who have not made their contribution, to do so by leaving their donations at the Royal Bank or the Treasury Branch Agency. To show appreciation to the donors the committee is planning to publish the names and amount to date in the local newspapers.

Electric plant meeting planned for Round Hill

A public information meeting, on the possibility of building a coal-fired electric generating plant in the Dodds-Round Hill area will be held on Wednesday, July 17th. The meeting, hosted by Calgary Power, in conjunction with the Counties of Beaver and Camrose, will be held in the gymnasium of the Round Hill High School, getting underway at eight p.m.

Representatives of Calgary Power will be on hand to outline the planning of the project to date, and all aspects of work, facilities, area and resources needed if the plant is to be built in this region.

Attending on behalf of Calgary Power will be Dick Wilson, Ed Barry, Dick Marshall, Shirley Johnson, Tom Cardwell and Brian Taylor.

Representing the two county councils will be councillors George Knudslien and Vern Grundberg.

Announcement of the public meeting was made at the regular meeting of Camrose County Council on Friday by officials from Calgary Power.

Prior to the meeting, or immediately after, members from both councils will tour Calgary Power's Sundance Plant to see the plant in operation and to view the reclamation program in effect in that area.

Calgary Power officials indicated that a decision as to the exact location of the plant would likely not be made until sometime this fall.

If constructed in the Dodds-Round Hill Area, water for the plant would likely be drawn from the North Saskatchewan River. A one mile square cooling pond would be constructed and a reclamation program would be put into effect in the coal mine area.

Complete details of the planning, to date, would be made available at the meeting in Round Hill.

Arthritis as it affects women

1. Rheumatoid arthritis, the most serious form of joint disease, affects women three times as often as men.
2. Most victims are housewives, or working women, between 20 and 50 years of age at time of onset, usually under 40.
3. Symptoms for heumatoid increase during the menses, and decrease in pregnancy.
4. From observation of certain characteristics of rheumatoid arthritis in women, researchers were led to the discovery of hormone drugs which often relieve the symptoms, though they do not cure.
5. Osteoarthritis, sometime known as degenerative joint disease, usually associated with advancing age, is found to some degree in 80 per cent of all women over 60.
6. Rheumatoid arthritis sometimes appears in the young mother after her first child is born. Fatigue and worry may be contributing factors.
7. Osteoarthritis often appears after menopause, is often found in women who are overweight.
8. Doctors advise doing housework by instalments, relaxation, avoidance of strain, overwork worry, cold and damp conditions to minimize the effects of rheumatic diseases.

Cabinet Tour

I am pleased to see that the present government is continuing the policy of taking cabinet tours throughout the province. This is a continuation of the Socred government's policy of taking government to the people. However, there is one very large difference between the two approaches. The Socred policy was low key, do the job type of approach, as compared to the new costly full-page newspaper, radio, and TV advertising "tour" but, I guess that's progress"" All that new found oil wealth has to be spent!' Enough said and down to business!

Highways Meeting

A delegation of "Highway 36" people asked me to accompany them in a delegation to ask for upgrading of the Waskatenau Bridge, Chipman - Tofield and Round Hill Road.

The answer was not too positive but the Minister of Highways did assure us that the problem would be studied next year.

Dow Picnic

Doug Rankine and his people at Dow were fine hosts for their Family Day last Saturday afternoon. My family enjoyed the fine hospitality in addition to the excellent, interesting tours and displays.

Josephburg Picnic

We try never to miss a chicken supper at Josephburg and this year was no exception. The community spirit in that area is something to behold and if anyone can complete their Recreation Complex Josephburg will do it.

Kinsmen Wind-up

Last Saturday was a rather busy day but, we did make it out to the Gene Lupul spread for the Kinsmen year-end windup. The steaks were excellant, the hospitality and fellowship "super". A special thanks to a hard-working service club and their wives.

Bi-Weekly Column

The Legislature is in recess so my column will be every other week or there abouts during the summer.

Do you wonder why I go to so many things?? The answer is very simple. The better people get to know me the easier they will feel about contacting me with their problems and that, folks, is what you elected me to do.

Any problems or engagements you want me to attend. Write Box [illegible] Fort Saskatchewan or phone collect [illegible].

Report on Smartweeds

By L. Weatherilt
Agricultural Fieldman

Smartweeds belong to the same group of plants as buckwheat. There are two species which are serious weeds of field crops in Alberta: the green smartweed and lady's-thumb smartweed. The flowers are small and borne in thick spikes, those of green fountail are green or greenish white, while those of the lady-thumb are pink The leaves are alternate, fairly long and borne on short stems The plant is an annual, quite branched and somewhat spreading at the base. The stems are fairly stout with a thin papery sheath or collar about ½ inch high at the base of each leaf or stem The seed is black and shiny about 1/10 inch long and somewhat three sided.

Smartweeds are a problem in cropland and in waste places. They became a more serious problem as many of the more common weeds were removed from crops by the widespread use of 2,4-D and MCPA. Smartweeds are not controlled by these chemicals and with the reduced weed competition the smartweeds became a serious pest, and caused substantial yield reduction. The large plants take a long time to dry in the swath and can cause delays in harvesting, particularly in a wet season The seeds of smartweed cannot be removed from flax and their presence in flax is responsible for downgrading of dockage

Spraying with Banvel or with Bacteri M or Bromitac M as recommended will provide control of smartweed.

Always sow clean seed.

For further information on Smartweeds or any other weeds, contact the District Agriculturist Office, Box 388, Ryley. (Phone 663-3535 or 663-3506), or the County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman, Box 148, Ryley. (Phone 663-3720)

Swedish royalty loses tax right

Sweden's royal family —whose role is steadily being downgraded by the Social Democrat government here — will soon lose the privilege of not paying income tax

In a late-night decision following a long and heated debate May 27, the Parliament voted to end the royal family's exemption from income and inheritance tax and customs privileges.

The new law makes King Carl Gustaf immediately liable to pay inheritance tax and his present income of about $1 million will be taxed starting in January, 1978

The young monarch acceded to the throne last September after the passing of his grandfather Gustaf Adolf.

Earlier this year the Parliament adopted a new constitution lessening the monarch's role to that of a ceremonial head of state.

Ryley 4-H Beef Club has Achievement Day

By Vanesa Maaren

Ryley 4-H Beef Club had a successful Achievement Day.

The Ryley 4-H Beef Club held its Achievement Day on July 3. The club showed 14 well trained and well groomed calves.

Before showing the calves the club had to judge 4 calves. Cheryl Magneson won first and Garry Mizer was second in judging (Trophies were donated by Ryley Motors and McLeod, Tofield). Before the members showed their calves, they were each presented with a showstick by their leader, Lyle Bratrud. They were bought from donations given to the club. L. Kallal judged the calves while Showmanship was judged by D. Holthelm and Miss Ann Kallal judged the grooming.

M. Zowtuk again auctioned the calves.

In the evening, there was a lovely banquet prepared by the mothers and some of the members. It was opened by the M.C., Marlene Magneson by asking Marwa Maaren to say the grace.

The guest speaker, John Moore gave a talk on the many responsibilities a leader had and the many decisions he had to make. He told the parents how they could encourage the young people with their record books and other responsibilities. He also said to keep the community interested and let them know what 4-H stands for.

Vanesa Maaren gave a talk on the many activities and social functions the club held through the year.

The trophies were then given to the members as follows: Grand Champion, Rick Bratrud, donated by Brown Fertilizer; Second to Karen Magneson, donated by Ryley Food, Third place went to Garry Mizera.

First in showmanship was won by Dale Bratrud and second by Cheryl Magneson. Dale got a trophy from Kast Hotel while Cheryl got a halter from Ryley Hardware.

Best groomed calf was owned by Rick Bratrud and he got a trophy donated by Mrs. Anna Kongsrude. Second in grooming was Marlene Magneson. She got a grooming kit from Tofield Tire and Battery. Best grain went to Rick Bratrud who got a trophy from Eric's Meat.

Public speaking was won by Marlene Magneson, a trophy from Ryley Variety. Marwa Maaren was second. She got a cash donation from Camrose Power Equipment.

Vanesa Maaren won first in Junior Public speaking and won a trophy from North West Utilities. Karen Munkadal was second and got cash donation from G. Kline.

Moira Hiesey won a trophy from Dick's Service.

The show sticks were donated by Fred Loads, Vern Lickness, Bob Westmancoat, Vegreville Veterinary Clinic and Crump's Lucky Dollar Store.

M. Zowtuck gave a donation to the club for next year's functions.

The record book winners will be announced at the wiener roast party on July 13, at the Ryley Sports Grounds.

Crops need more "sun"

Wheat has reached the "shot blade" stage in growth although many areas report that crops are nearly two weeks behind their usual development for this time of year.

All crops in Tofield and Meeting Creek areas are reported in excellent condition with crops ranging from six to ten inches in heights.

Rapeseed is the only crop in Hay Lakes to be considered to be perfectly normal while wheat, oats and barley are 5 to 10% below normal. Rye and rapeseed are normal in Holden with other crops about 5% below normal.

Young Voyageurs leave for visit to Quebec

This summer, for the third time since the inception of the Young Voyageur Program in 1967, the County of Beaver is participating in the travel and exchange project sponsored by the Federal and Provincial Governments. Designed to help young people to know their country and their fellow-Canadians, the program provides an opportunity for groups of students to travel to another part of Canada where they live with a family for a week.

On July 8th, ten girls and ten boys, selected from across the County, accompanied by their escorts, Miss Shirley MacKay of Viking, and Mr. Robert Lyslo of Tofield, left by train enroute to St. Georges, Quebec. They are: Heather Appleby, Joan Clark, Janis Gara, Connie Heben, Sheila Hiney, Lynne Hissett, Wendy Kryzanowski, Marie Nielsen, Anne Rozicka, Susan Sorken, Darcy Edwards, Daniel Golka, Algar Grinde, Randy Jones, Allan Manderson, Carl Pederson, Eugene Petruk, Wesley Romanuk, Jackie Semeniuk, Dean Wiens. They return via Nordair Charter on July 24th 1974.

Ten girls and ten boys, students from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, accompanied by their escorts, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Crait, will arrive at the Edmonton International Airport on the evening of Monday, August 5th, 1974, and will be billeted for the night at Lister Hall on the University Campus. Early the next morning, they will be joined by the twenty host students from across the County of Beaver for a tour of Edmonton City prior to being bussed to Ryley for a welcoming banquet sponsored by the Ryley Lions Club. Attending this banquet, in addition to the visiting and host students, will be the forty host parents and members of the County of Beaver Host Coordinating Committee.

The proposed itinerary for these youngsters includes: trip to Elk Island Park and the Ukrainian Village, sponsored by the Holden Elks Lodge; Gymkhana, weiner roast and dance, sponsored by motels in the Bruce Stampede Association; tour of Kinsella Farm, visit to Irma Hutterite Colony, and evening banquet and movie, sponsored by the Kinsella and Viking Elks Lodge, and a visit to Al Oevning's Game Farm, and picnic lunch, sponsored by the Tofield United Church Ladies' Aid.

Early on the morning of Wednesday, August 14th, 1974, the County of Beaver host students will accompany their guests to the International Airport and witness their departure for Yarmouth.

$800,000,000 electric plant is planned for Dodds-Round Hill

Fine horses

Much of the motive power that helped to develop our nation was provided by the fine animals such as these Clydesdales shown during an early edition of the Edmonton Exhibition. This year, Edmonton's Klondike Days pays tribute to both the past and present role of the horse in a feature display, the Wonderful World of Horses, July 17-27.

Officials of Calgary Power speaking to a meeting in Round Hill last night (Wednesday) outlined plans to locate Alberta's largest power plant in Dodds-Round Hill.

The meeting attracted approximately 150 farmers and other interested persons from the area concerned.

The total cost of the project planned could be in excess of $800 million, The Canadian has learned. The whole project will be spread over a period of about seven years.

Camrose are hosting a public information meeting in the Round Hill school auditorium tonight at which time Calgary Power officials will outline details of the proposed project.

Although the power company was hesitant to release details in advance of tonight's meeting, The Canadian has managed to piece together some of the major aspects of the complex.

The Canadian has learned the company is not firm on the actual site for the plant, but it has narrowed down the selection to two possibilities. The site and the mine are subject to approval of the Energy Resources Conservation Board and an application is expected to be filed this fall.

BIGGEST IN ALBERTA

The size of the project will be the largest ever undertaken by any utility in Alberta. With five units planned, the plant will generate 2.1 million kilowatts by 1983 or 1984. The first unit will be on stream by 1980. This unit, and the following two that will be built in 1981, are 375-

The promises to be almost [illegible] this month.

Power plants are enormously expensive, of course, and a huge proportion of the money will never be seen in the community.

But something like two permanent jobs will be created in the region, and that figure translates to a good deal the number of permanent jobs the community saw either from the oilfield development a little over twenty years ago, or from the more recent pipeline development.

One of the interesting aspects of the development will be the way the power company and the farmers in the area will have to work together with advance planning for the happiest [illegible] of each. [illegible] the surface [illegible] have [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Weed of the week

By Laurie Weatherill

WILD MUSTARD

Belongs to a fairly large family containing many of our common weeds. It is an annual plant with watery juice with a rather sharp, peppery smell and taste. Leaves are alternate on the stem, lower ones larger with short stout stems, upper leaves are smaller, toothed with no stems. The whole plant is somewhat hairy. The flower is yellow with four petals borne on the ends of branches which lengthen as the latter flowers mature. The seeds are borne in pods which are 1 to 2 inches long with a flat beak which is about half as long as the seed bearing part of the pod. The pods have enlarged parts that show the location of the seed. The seeds are about one sixteenth in diameter, black and resemble small shot.

Prior to the general use of 2, 4 - D and MCPA for weed control in cereal grains, wild mustard was one of the very serious weeds in grain fields, causing substantial seed reduction by robbing crops of water, nutrients and growing space. One mustard plant can produce untold thousands of seeds which remain viable in the soil for twenty years or more. Any reduction in the battle against weeds and wild mustard will again appear in serious proportions.

Spraying the crop with 2, 4 - D MCPA Tropotox, Trupoint or Plus Embutox Estaprop Mecgroup or other chemicals as recommended will provide excellent control of wild mustard.

Always sow clean seed

For detailed control recommendations for specific crops consult the appropriate Alberta Agriculture publication, available from your District Agriculturist, Box 200, Ryley (Phone 663 - 3555) or County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman.

CONSUMER'S PROBLEM OF THE MONTH

DEAR SIR: "Recently, at a local Exhibition, I signed a contract to purchase a set of pots and pans. At the time, I felt I needed them and that signing was the only way I could get away from the salesman. Now, I am unable to make the payments and wish to cancel the contract and have my deposit refunded."

"Is this possible?"

ANSWER: The Direct Sales Cancellation Act applies only to Direct Sales - those contracted at a place other than the Seller's normal business premises. A booth set up at a Fair or Exhibition is exempt under the Act. Therefore, the four day cooling off period does not apply to a sales contract signed at a Fair or Exhibition REMEMBER!!! Before you sign, read the contract carefully. Make sure the salesman is properly licensed. Ask to see his license or check with the Department of Consumer Affairs Licensing Branch.

OH, MY ACHING BACK.

How many times have you said this to yourself as you struggled with a case of cramp in from gardening Some people consider it a part of aging and soreness in the back or an infrequent twitch of a sharp pain. Others are plagued with severe back pain and the grunts and groans of people then over are afflicted with back trouble. Severe back pain requires a doctor's treatment.

Avoid back trouble by following these suggestions:

1. Exercise daily and maintain proper weight
2. Practice good posture.
3. Always bend knees when picking up heavy objects.
4. Avoid sudden twists and turns of the back.
5. Provide an outlet for tension.
6. Avoid chairs with low, soft seats.
7. Sit with legs crossed or with one foot higher than the other.
8. Learn to get out of bed correctly by pushing up one arm and then sliding legs over to the side of the bed.
9. Sleep on side with one leg drawn toward chest.
10. Sleep on a firm bed.

In bedding the ideal combination for comfort as well as back health is softness on the surface and firm support inside. Proper bedding will gently cradle all body contours, thus helping to relax muscles and relieve tension. It will also provide enough inner firmness to give a comfortable feeling of passage while supporting natural body posture alignment

Back ache? Check your bedding Replace your sleep equipment before your bad bedding helps you develop a bad back.

AGT

Warm weather is a crop need

Warm, dry weather is rapidly becoming a necessity if the present crop year is to be a successful one.

In some areas, heavy flooding conditions have caused crop damage while others show crops suffering damage from too much moisture in the ground, and in all areas, crops are slow in reaching maturity because of the weather.

Crop conditions in New Norway and Meeting Creek are near normal, conditionwise with cereal heads filling out in good condition. Crops range in heighth from nine to 21 inches.

Rye is in excellent condition in Holden, but other crops are just slightly below with medium sized cereal heads appearing. Rapeseed is okay at Hay Lakes with other crops from 10 to 15% below normal while all crops in Tofield are considered to be normal although damage is being caused by flooding.

All reports were received from the Alberta Wheat Pool.

Farmers voice concern over power plant site

A proposal by Calgary Power to construct an $800,000,000 electric power plant in the Dodds-Round Hill Area will be discussed in complete detail at a meeting in the Round Hill School Gymnasium tonight (Wednesday), called by the Round Hill local of Unifarm. Tonight's meeting follows closely on the heels of one held last Wednesday when officials from Calgary Power outlined their proposals for the plant to a crowd of nearly five hundred farmers and interested spectators. Officials of Calgary Power will not be in attendance at tonight's meeting which will get underway at eight o'clock. Representatives of the Provincial Government are expected to attend tonight's session which is predicted to attract another large crowd.

Last week's meeting was late in getting underway when Calgary Power officials, and representatives of the Counties of Camrose and Beaver underestimated the number of people that would be in attendance and had to send for more chairs.

Farmers generally sat quietly through the presentations by the spokesmen for Calgary Power who outlined the need for additional electrical production and the company's planning in obtaining land, construction and operation of the proposed plant.

During their presentations, and in the question period that followed, spokesmen for the power company stressed that, to this point, construction of a power plant in the Dodds-Round Hill area was still in the planning stage, and had not even been submitted for government approval.

The meeting livened up during the question period as farmers expressed deep concerns in four major areas.

(1) That clubs, churches, organizations and even the community as a whole might collapse as a result of people moving out of the area with many farms becoming empty after their owners sold to Calgary Power.

(2) Dissatisfaction over the price to be paid for farms.

(3) Possibility of farmers on fringe of the power plant area losing their water supplies after coal-mining operations commence.

(4) That the reclamation program being planned might not do the job of bringing the land back into useful production.

Over 40,000 acres of land will be needed (not all at once) for the plant, cooling pond and for coal mining. Taking this amount of land out of farm production would mean that many families would be leaving the district, causing population problems when it came to operating schools, churches, keeping clubs and organizations going with the danger that even the Round Hill community might cease to exist with so many people leaving.

Farmers had been told that Calgary Power would be prepared to pay the market value of the farms they needed. [illegible] people seemed to feel this was unfair, feeling they should be compensated for having to move to other areas. Others suggested that farms of equal size in other areas might be more costly, preventing many from operating similar farms in other regions. Some of the younger farmers were concerned, that after borrowing money, working hard to get farms established, they were now being uprooted and forced to start all over again.

Farmers on the fringe of the proposed plant area were worried that mining operations might interfere with their water supplies. Some noted, that in the past when mining was being done, their water supplies dropped considerably or, dried up completely. One farmer said that, when mining operations were going in the past, he had to haul water for his cattle.

Some speakers indicated they were not happy with reclamation programs they have seen in existence in other areas and were concerned that farmland used for mining might never be put back to farm use. Others were worried, that if reclamation was successful, the price of buying this land might be many times the price paid for it by Calgary Power.

Officials of Calgary Power took notes on all comments made by farmers, and as well, taped all questions and concerns.

A vote of those present indicated favour for the holding [illegible] information meetings as the planning for the proposed plant continued. Power company spokesmen were in agreement with holding more meetings.

On June 23rd, Miss Suzanne Marie Jackson graduated from the Misericordia School of Nursing in Edmonton.

Suzanne is the eldest daughter of Donald and Joyce Henderson of Tofield. [illegible] graduated from Tofield High School in 1971, with her earlier schooling taken in Edmonton.

The occasion was marked by many celebrations commencing with a "white formal" at the Royal Glenora Club on June 21st, sponsored by the Misericordia Hospital. A banquet at the Macdonald Hotel sponsored by the Students' Union honoring the graduates and their parents on June 22. The highlight of the weekend was the formal graduation exercises held at the Jubilee Auditorium in Edmonton on June 23rd. This was a very impressive ceremony with the graduates in white uniforms, all carrying bright red roses. As a conclusion to the many events, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson held an informal supper in Hastings Lake Hall for 80 friends and relatives from near and far. Suzanne was feted with many gifts and congratulations from all.

The evening was concluded with dancing to Ebertz Old-time Trio, followed by a lovely lunch prepared and served by the Hastings Lake Ladies' Club.

Relatives and friends attended from Calgary, Edmonton, St. Albert, Forestburg, Mannville, Tofield, Spilstead and Hastings Lake.

Tofield Toros win in fastball tourney

Saturday, July 20th was the big day of fastball tournament action in Tofield.

Eight teams competed for the $100 in prize money, with the Tofield Toros coming up with the championship of the day.

It took three consecutive wins to take the tournament championship. In the first game, Tofield Toros met the Kingman A team. After a slow start, the Toros pulled themselves together to take a 22-3 win.

The next game saw the Toros meet Lindbrook. The Lindbrook team threatened Tofield with six runs in the bottom of the first inning. The Toros came back strong, allowing Lindbrook only one more run and came out on top with a 12-7 victory.

The final game saw [illegible] and Tofield fight it out in a very exciting, action packed ball game. No runs were scored throughout the first six innings of play, with the pitching and fielding very strong on both sides. Several errors for [illegible]sey, and a few hits for Tofield scored one run which proved to be the winner. Vic Wien[illegible] the Toros to their first win, while Wilmer Dueck pitched two strong games to lead the Tofield Toros to the victory of the day.

Other teams in action that day were the Vegreville Imperials, Bruce Brewers, Kingman B, and the Viking Coyotes. The consolation final was quite easily taken by the Viking Coyotes.

The first surprise shower by the teaching staff of the Ryley School for Jane and Miss Gail Powers, both members of the staff, was held at the home of Mr. Marilyn Lehman.

The United Church Social Room was the location of the second, a community shower embracing Ryley and district.

The room was decorated with shades of yellow and white. Centering the head table was a heart-shaped cake decorated with yellow and white icing, a gift from Mrs. Ruth Jacobson. Flanking the cake on either side were tall white candles in yellow candelabra. On the wall back of the table in large yellow letters on blue was the greeting, "Best Wishes, Jane."

Seated at the head table were the bride-to-be, her mother, Mrs. Anne Chorney; Mrs. Ethel Pepper mother of the groom-to-be; Mrs. Edith Pepper, grandmother of the groom-to-be; and Mrs. Gretel Pepper.

Mrs. Anna Kongarud was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Harriet Ruddy was M.C. The elementary school choir, under the direction of Mrs. Beth Kope and accompanied by Mrs. Olive Zwierschke rendered two songs with lyrics altered somewhat to suit the occasion. Soloists were Treva Nordby and Wallace Helunan. A medley of songs by [illegible] Weikstrom accompanying herself on the guitar was also enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Ruddy welcomed Jane to a very friendly community and expressed the good wishes of all in presenting her with numerous community and individual gifts. The gifts were brought to Jane by little Misses Leanne Reil and Deanna Pepper beautifully dressed in long pink and blue gowns. On their wagon was a large building designed and constructed by Miss Celi Heyen, to represent the Ryley School and the County of Beaver office.

Miss Chorney very sincerely thanked the ladies for their good wishes, their friendliness, and the many beautiful gifts.

Concluding the evening the hostesses Mrs. Anna Kongarud, Mrs. Thelma Kathan, Mrs. Eileen Romaniuk, and Mrs. Audrey Knudslien served a delicious lunch assisted by the ladies of Bathgate community.

The case for censorship

By Larry Henderson

The mass murder of possibly 30 boys in Houston, Texas raises a question about the influence of the media on crime which must be answered here and now, without further delay. The public has been hoodwinked too long about the cause of rising violence - particularly sadism - among the young.

The Houston case is typical of many similar cases which have very recently come to light. It involves a 33 year old electrician and two teen age "assistants." Together they lured an estimated 30 boys to their deaths, which were perpetrated with the utmost atrocity. In the end one of the "assistants" ratted and revealed the crimes.

The first question: is there any connection between the increase of depravity among the young and the enormous increase in films depicting violence? The answer is yes. Dr. Fredric Wertham, author of A Sign for Cain, says: "We are confronted in the mass media with a display to children of brutality, sadism and violence such as the world has never seen before. At the same time there is such a rise of violence among the young that no peace corps abroad can make up for the violence corps at home."

"The test of science," Dr. Wertham continues, "is prediction. On the basis of my studies I predicted 15 years ago that more and more brutal violence would be committed by younger and younger age groups. This was met then with disbelief. Now it is common knowledge. We are raising a generation of violence worshippers."

Liberal critics say there is no such connection, claiming that exhibition of excessive violence has a "cathartic" effect, purifying the mind, rather than debasing it. (This incredible assertion was actually made in such films as "A Clock work Orange" which depicts just such sadistic murders as those committed by the Houston gang.) Is it true?

The answer is no. The report of the Eisenhower Commission on Violence on Television (Conducted by Dr. Milton Eisenhower) stated: Some defenders of violence on television contend that viewers "drain off" aggressive tendencies by their vicarious participation in violent media programs - Laboratory experiments on the reaction of adults and children to violent films provide little support for this theory. In fact, the vast majority of experimental studies on the question have found that observed violence stimulates aggressive behavior rather than the opposite."

In these circumstances, the final question is: is censorship just? The answer is yes. The claim put forward by liberals that this will destroy our freedom is poppycock.

After all, liberals do not permit bear baiting and cock fighting. They believe it is right to forbid publication of "hate literature" and racist propaganda. They agree with laws restricting the promotion of alcohol, drugs and tobacco. Why are they so sure that a total prohibition on films of violence will destroy freedom?

The fact is that if you want real freedom to survive, you must be for censorship. The United States has finally realised this with the new censorship laws permitting each community to set its own standards in accordance with local community values. Canada has yet to make up its mind. Does it require a mass murder such as in Houston for us to see the light?

Canadian owned industry

"Fortune Magazine" recently published a list of the 300 largest industrial companies outside the United States. Stimulated by this action, the "Budget" has examined Canada's entry into such a list and discovered some rather interesting things about it.

No petroleum companies appear in the list because Canada does not own its petroleum industry. Of the 17 industrial giants which do make up the list, five are devoted to metals and mining, one is a farm equipment producer, one produces electrical equipment, and four are pulp and paper specialists. That leaves six whose main reason for being is concerned with agricultural products of one kind and another. Three of these are alcoholic beverage manufacturers for which international trade makes up a large part of business, two are packing plants — Burns and Canada Packers, and the last one is a tobacco and food products company, Imasco, which we know better as Imperial Tobacco Co.

Canadian industrial development by companies which are mostly owned in Canada, is obviously dominated by the extractive or long term renewable industries — mining, pulp and paper, and two metal users. The renewable resource industries make up the remainder of Canada's modest contribution to the big 300. Noticeably absent from Canada's list are categories prominent from other countries, such as petroleum, automobiles, chemicals and transportation.

Turning garbage into a good thing

The White Owl Conservation Awards Committee has given Natural Recovery Systems of Moncton a $2,500 grant to mount an information campaign to promote recycling. And they are just the people to do the job.

Founded in 1973 by the New Brunswick division of the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded, the non-profit company provides vocational rehabilitation for handicapped adults. Their business is recycling.

Staffed by 24 people, 18 of whom were considered unemployable, the plant recycles newsprint, glass, cardboard and mixed paper. Metal cans will be next, if a guaranteed supply can be worked out.

Contributions from government, private foundations and local industry have equipped Natural Recovery Systems to handle and sell 4,600 tons of recyclable material this year.

Where do they get all this garbage? They collect it (free) from local businesses, and they have set up five strategically located depots manned by handicapped individuals who help the public unload their recyclable materials. Seven more depots are planned, and it is hoped that the City of Moncton will soon provide special collection services along with its regular domestic garbage pick-up.

"Attitudes towards our project are very positive," says Tim Mahoney, general manager of Natural Recovery Systems. "But to get the volume we need in order to be self-sufficient, and to make the maximum contribution towards saving resources, we need full citizen participation. What we need is a comprehensive information program to explain solid waste problems and the importance of saving resources by recycling."

The people at Natural Recovery Systems are optimistic: they are already studying the feasibility of setting up similar recycling centres in Fredricton and Saint John.

Afro-American heritage traced at world's fair

The Afro-American Pavilion at Expo '74 approaches the World's Fair theme of "Celebrating Tomorrow's Fresh, New Environment" in human terms.

"Environment relates as much to man's attitude toward his fellow man as it does to physical aspects of the land, air and water that sustain him," said the director of the exhibit, Preston H. Russell of Tacoma, president of the Pan-African Foundation, a nonprofit corporation which sponsors the pavilion.

"We believe experiences among people create the true environment we live in. The concept of the pavilion is to show the Afro-American's contribution to this society.

"Attendance at Expo is expected to be about 4.8 million, and about 80 per cent of those visitors will be non-blacks. This is a unique opportunity to provide a better understanding and appreciation of the Afro-American heritage among them - a real chance to build a better human environment."

The Afro-American exhibit is believed to be the first to occupy a major pavilion at a world's fair. It is funded by a $200,000 grant from the Washington State Legislature and matching funds raised through private contributions, with administrative and financial support from Expo '74, Inc.

"We hope that much of this exhibit will become a permanent facility in Spokane - a cultural center for other minorities as well as blacks," Russell said. "Both Washington State University and Eastern Washington State College have shown interest in providing a permanent location for it, although much will depend on continuing funding."

The pavilion occupies a 6,000 sq ft site landscaped and heavily planted with trees, shrubbery and flowers in keeping with the natural setting of the first environmental world's fair, which is being held in Spokane from May 4 to November 3.

During that time black artists, sculptors and musicians will display their talents in a setting of exhibits that trace the history of Afro-Americans from pre-slavery times in Africa, through the slavery period and into their continuing struggle for legal and social equality.

"Besides exhibits of finished paintings and sculptures we will have artists at work which people can watch as they move through the pavilion," Russell said. "And along with the music and dancing you might expect in the theatre section, we will present poetry readings and contemporary drama by black writers.

The pavilion is divided generally into four areas, Russell said. The first is a "Heritage Tunnel" that traces the history of Afro-Americans from [illegible] Africa to the present day. It contains [illegible] of audio-visual presentations, including 16 mm films made especially for this event.

Hail news

By Interim Weather Modification Board -- July 18, 1974

Hail activity throughout our hail target area was rather sparse from last Thursday to Wednesday, July 11 - 17th. The storm that dropped three inches of water in the greater Edmonton area July 11th produced some pea size hail near Rocky Mountain House. This was a "no seed" day consequently, the storm was not seeded.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the 12th, 13th and 14th respectively were completely inactive and no flights were made.

Late in the afternoon of the 15th a storm developed about 70 miles west of Penhold, was seeded and dropped some pea size hail at Rocky Mountain House. This storm tracked northward and produced hail at Grande Prairie.

No storms occurred on the 16th and 17th.

The Interim Weather Modification Board has completed arrangements for the ground generator study referred to in a previous release. A fluorescent particle generator will release zinc sulphide at ground level. An aircraft with a fluorescent particle counter will determine the number of particles reaching cloud base. Plume studies have indicated that zinc sulphide will rise at the same rate as silver iodide which is the material used for hail suppression. The silver iodide is not fluorescent and these particles must be counted with an ice nuclei counter. Said counters are not available this year. Plans are being made to use silver iodide as well as the zinc sulphide during 1975.

Weed of the week

By L. Weatherill, County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman.

Hemp Nettle is an annual plant which spreads by seeds. It is a common plant of pastures and waste areas from where it has spread into cultivated fields and is now a fairly serious weed in many areas.

Hemp Nettle has square stems, it may be erect or spreading depending on where it is growing and stems and leaves are covered with bristly hairs. The flowers are purple in colour and rather inconspicuous and are borne in dense clusters in upper leaf axils. Flowering begins in July and continues through till September.

Hemp Nettle is a very aggressive plant which robs all cultivated grain crops of water and nutrients. Once established eradication is very difficult because of the many dormal seeds in the ground, just waiting for suitable conditions to germinate.

Hemp Nettle is completely resistant to 2,4-D so spraying with this chemical will not control Hemp Nettle. Fortunatley Hemp Nettle is quite readily killed by the potassium salt formulation of MCPA - sold as Velcan MCPA K64 or Co-op MCPA K64 -- when applied as recommended.

Always sow clean seed.

For further information on Hemp Nettle or any other weeds, contact the District Agriculturist Office, Box 200, Ryley, (Phone 663-3555 or 663-3556) or the County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman, Box 140, Ryley (Phone 663-3730)

Are you ready for metric?

Conversion of different types of measurement into the metric or SI system (Systems International d'Unites) is on the way in Canada. Most major industrial countries (with the exception of Canada and the United States) use this method of measurement. Based on the decimal system, it follows a consistent name scheme and makes calculation easier. The seven base units of measurement are: meter for length, kilogram for mass, kelvin for temperature, second for time, ampere for electric current, candela for light intensity and mole for the amount of substance.

AN EXCELLENT OUTING

Tofield July 30

Dear Sir:

Again the Tofield Golden Club had an enjoyable trip, this time to tour "Fort Edmonton."

This was very interesting to us as Senior Citizens to recall the early days how men and women lived

In the old Fort we see what they used, in bedding there was Indian blankets, sheepskin and buffalo robes, the furniture homemade table and chairs, cut out of stumps and planks. Along with crude utensils Wonder how many people of today would be willing to go through pioneer life after living in our modern days now.

I really think we should be so thankful, we have no reason to strike for higher wages these days but thank our forefathers that settled in our free land of Alberta and gave us a chance they never had. I am happy to be one of a pioneer family, and looking back I can truly say with the song writer "This Land is our land" and happy we should be from toil and sweat and hard times they worked their way to progress so the on coming generation can enjoy better living, so smile and be happy.

We the Seniors of today are realy treated well. We now have a chance to see things of interest that we never saw before, so lets make use of the opportunities.

From there we went to the Edmonton Museum and Archives and saw the wonders of so many historical displays. It's a real tour for anyone to take and real educational. There are so many places we can go to enjoy in our summer months when the country is in its beauty.

On July the 17th we met at Bob Berrecloth's home for a pot luck dinner and enjoyed the beauty of their place and old time music of the Fontaine's.

So thanks to our driver, Jim Ingram, who can put up with us and the Lions Club, for the use of their bus. Thank you all.

Sincerely, Petra Stauffer

One in twelve-after ten

After conducting a Roadside Traffic Survey over two months, from mid-April to mid-June, Transport Minister Jean Marchand last Friday commented that he was concerned about the continuing seriousness of the problem of the drinking driver in Canada.

Conducted in eight provinces, between 10 p.m. and 3 a.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week, the preliminary results of the survey show that about a quarter of all drivers providing breath samples had been drinking. Worse, approximately one in three of these drivers had blood alcohol concentrations at or above the legal limit of .08 percent.

This means that, in this nighttime survey, about one in every twelve drivers tested was legally impaired.

Many local drivers have enjoyed the practice of "counting cars" they meet on the road home from Edmonton, sometimes as a method of keeping the young fry absorbed. And in heavy traffic situations counts over two hundred are not uncommon, although we'll agree it's usually not that high.

But just think about that for a few minutes. The figures from the survey mean that at least fifty of those drivers had been drinking enough to register in the the test. Additionally, it means sixteen or more had so much to drink they're legally considered impaired.

We tend to pilot our vehicles down the road secure in the assumption we're safe if only we stay on our own side of the road, and keep under control. Yet the knowledge that one in every four drivers isn't quite as competent as he could be should make our hair stand on end.

Future bright

Forecasts of both General Motors and Ford Motor Co. for the 1975 year are bright, according to reports coming in, athough the two companies seem to have different views in 1974.

General Motors reports this has been its third best year ever, which doesn't sound like any kind of recession, although Ford admits to sales being down significantly during the year.

Probably the reputed energy shortage last year had something to do with cutbacks in sales levels, and possibly the uncertainty waiting for new engine requirements to sort themselves out had something to do with any lag in sales, and in certain areas they contributed, at least for a time, to a marked preference for smaller cars, rather than the big "gas guzzler".

Recent conversations with representatives of both companies, here and from the East, indicate that big car sales never did fade in the West, and that they're on the comeback in the East. As a matter of surprise, some western dealers reported they just couldn't get the big units fast enough. The worse the fuel scare became, the more interest the West seemed to show in the Big Units for Big Country.

CEMETERY COMMITTEE

HOLDEN, August 1 — A meeting of the Holden Cemetery Committee was held Wednesday evening, July 24th, at the home of Mrs. Beth Campbell. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by secretary Mrs. Campbell after president Lyle Grosland called the meeting to order.

Various aspects of the cemetery were discussed and it was decided to order and purchase another mower so that two could be used. Mr. Grosland and Algot Hultholm will take charge of seeing to this. As there is still quite a lot of water around the lower part of the grounds and the tool shed it was decided that a Cemetery Day would not be held until some time in the early fall if and when suitable. At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Campbell served lunch.

Surprise visitors last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Beth Campbell were Mr. and Mrs. Ross and three boys of Vancouver, B.C. They had been on a month's holiday touring across Canada to the eastern provinces and were on their way home. Mrs. Ross (Peggy) is the daughter of a former old-time resident of the Holden district, Mrs. Eleanor Williams, nee Eleanor Weir. The Weir family lived south of Holden when first coming to the district, the late Mr. Weir being one of the original trustees of Holden Drainage District No. 1. They then lived north of Holden before moving to the Coronation district where Mrs. Weir resided before her death with her sons. The Ross's were on their way to Ponoka to visit with relatives there and then to Coronation to visit Peggy's uncles before returning to their home in B.C.

Mrs. Marjorie Campbell of Leduc was a Saturday morning visitor with her mother, Mrs. Beth Campbell, taking her back to Leduc where she was visiting with her family and her grandson Bill and wife Pat for several days. The Campbell's were holding a family gathering at the home of Ken's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Campbell, in Edmonton on Sunday to celebrate the birthdays of the three brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tiedemann left Sunday for Boyne Lake to spend a few days there relaxing and doing a little fishing.

Art Kashman of Edmonton was a Friday visitor with his family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kashman, who drove back to the city with him and were planning to spend a few days holiday driving to points around the mountains.

Miss Wendy Hooper and her brother Timmy with Greg Komarnisky and Marlene Danliak have returned from a week's camping holiday at Jasper. Wendy is taking her two weeks holiday and has been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hooper.

Mrs. Speidel of Blums Nursing Home at Viking was visiting for a few days the past week with her daughter and husband, Bertha and Alex Stienwand.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pooke, who have been residing since last fall in the living quarters of the former egg-grading building, have [illegible] late Andrew Tkaczyk house, which they have purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Weiss were Edmonton visitors on Tuesday, and their wee son stayed with grandma, Mrs. Bertha Stienwand, for the day.

Mrs. Mary Hooper is still a patient in the Tofield Hospital, having a bad ankle treated which she hurt a few weeks ago.

Jerry Schissler, postmaster, who has been at Fort Chipwyan for the past several weeks relieving at the post office there while the postmaster was taking holidays, returned home at the weekend, bringing with him a bride.

SENIOR CITIZENS MEET

The Holden Senior Citizens Group held their monthly meeting on Thursday evening, July 25th, in the Holden Community Hall. A short business meeting was held with president Mike Komarnisky chairing the meeting.

Various recreational affairs were discussed and it was thought that a number of the members would like to take the four day trip to Spokane in the latter part of August to visit at Expo. This would include one day travelling there two days touring Expo, and a day for the return trip. This would be finalized when the necessary information is received.

At the conclusion of the business meeting several games of bingo were played with winners being given small prizes. Lunch was served with Mrs. John Romanission being lunch hostess.

Alone, friendless, penniless, she travelled across Siberia, fighting to reach a remote mountain city in China. First she penetrated the court of the powerful Mandarin ruler and converted him to Christianity. Finally, after falling in love and engaging in spy activities, she led 100 homeless orphans back across the wild mountains in an epic trek to safety at a time when all China was a battlefield. A Meal Without Cooking

Hearty cold salads are a delicious way to keep the kitchen cool They provide an easy and relatively quick meal to prepare while they can be as nourishing and satisfying as a hot meal.

A main dish salad can be prepared from a variety of foods. Leftovers come in handy.

The first decision to make is to choose the protein ingredient. This might be canned fish, cheese, cottage cheese, leftover chicken or beef, hard-cooked eggs or any source of high quality protein. Allow a half cup of one or more of these ingredients per person to assume and adequate protein supply in the meal.

Crisp salad greens are the key to an appetizing salad Shread, tear or chunk the greens and toss them in the salad or use greens as a bed for the rest of the salad.

All fresh and canned fruits can be used in mixed salads. Most canned vegetables are suitable Many vegetables can be used raw. Here's a good palace to use up leftover vegetables Allow at least a half cup per person of fruits or vegetables.

Complete your salad with a garnish to add variety and eye appeal to salads. For a main dish salad, try to include a starchy ingredient to make the meal more satisfying. Pasta, rice, potatoes, croutons, or cereals are good choices

Chill all the ingredients in advance. Consider the shapes of the foods involved Aim for a variety of shapes, flavors and textures but think as you select ingredients about what could be added to the salad to make it look and taste better.

Choose an appropriate dressing Generally a mild dressing is used for salads that have very flavorful ingredients and a spicy dressing is used when ingredients are more mild in flavor.

Try this

Macaroni and Ham Salad

1½ cups macaroni (elbows, shells, bows, wheels, etc.)
1¼ cups diced cooked ham
1 cup shredded carrots
1 cup thinly sliced celery
¼ cup thinly sliced green onion tops
1 small clove garlic, crushed (optional)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until just tender Drain and run cold water through macaroni to chill and separate pieces, then drain thoroughly Combine macaroni, ham and vegetables and toss lightly Chill

Sprinkle with salt and pepper, add salad dressing and toss to coat. Serve on lettuce and garnish with hardcooked or deviled eggs and tomato wedges. 6 servings

MOUNTIES' FAMED MUSICAL RIDE

World renowned for its perfection, the Musical Ride of the RCMP will be seen in Camrose next week, when two performances are scheduled at the Fairgrounds as part of the Central Alberta Summer Games program. Most viewers would be impressed if the Mounties alone learned the intricate steps and movements necessary for the series of patterns like the circle above, but when they see the horses also in perfect step, and just as aware of every move, it's almost unbelievable. Admission to any of the performances is just the regular dollar plastic button for the games generally. Rides take place at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Airstream trailer rally thrilled with Tofield

By Sally Gerdes

Airstreams from the Alberta-Saskatchewan Unit of the Wally Byam Caravan Club International Dinner began rolling into the grounds of the Agricultural Building at Tofield on Thursday afternoon. Dr. Plenty and Joe Majskey of Edmonton had made all the preliminary arrangements and now the advance party had arrived to set all in readiness for the holiday weekend.

For those who may not be familiar with the club a few words of explanation. The club is named for its founder, Wally Byam, who designed and made the first Airstream trailer. Its membership is limited to Airstream owners and their immediate families There are members from all parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico. Its purpose is to open a whole world of new experiences where travel, adventure and good fellowship are constant companions; and to play some part in promoting international goodwill and understanding among peoples of the world through person-to-person contact. It has a high code of ethics.

The theme of the rally was, "Have fun in Tofield" and that is just what they did, and at the same time learned much of the interesting history of the community.

A tour of the Kalal Hereford Ranch gave an insight into modern methods of farming. The barbecue and campfire at the home of Johnny and Gloria Wood was enjoyed by young and old alike, a perfect ending for a wonderful day. Sunday morning was a time of fellowship and worship in the various churches of the community. During the afternoon the children were thrilled with a visit to the Round Hill Wild Game Refuge and each came back to the camp proudly displaying a peacock feather.

Among the special guests attending the dinner, catered by the Hastings Lake Ladies Club, were the deputy mayor of Tofield, Mr. Mechtegal and Mrs. Mechtegal, Mr. and Mrs. Kalal and the very charming "Petra, Centennial Queen of Tofield" Her talk on pioneer days was delightfully interesting and

The Alberta - Saskatchewan Unit of W.B.C.C.I. are grateful to the people of Tofield for a very pleasant weekend — even the weathermen co-operated! They are also proud and happy to have in their membership a native daughter of Tofield, Mrs. Joe Majskey, nee Esther Wood aunt of Johnny and Gloria Wood.

A sincere thank you to the Courtenays, Jajskeys, Plentys and all others who helped make the Tofield Rally one to be long remembered.

Rent canoes at Miquelon

The concession is privately owned and operated.

July is great month for Tofield playground

The Tofield Playground, under the direction of Michael Warner and his junior leaders, have finished off the month of July with very good results. The playground has averaged 30 - 35 children attending each day.

The main events in which most of the 80 registered children participated in were: a scavenger hunt, wiener roast, an overnight camping trip to Alan Warner's, an overnight trip to Camp Lake, a very successful penny carnival, a tasty hobo supper, and a trip to Edmonton, which consisted of swimming at Mill Creek Pool, and bowling at Bonnie Doon Bowling Lanes.

A big thank you would like to be given to:

Macleod's, Super-A foods, Everitt's Food Land, Verner's Bakery, Elizabeth Shop, The Bank of Montreal, Link Hardware, Robinson's Stores, The Country Squire Boutique, Dykeman Confectionery, Lizzie Billiards, Tofield Pharmacy, Swift Garage, Tofield Realty Agents, Tofield Tire and Battery, Tofield Hotel and Diamond Cafe, for their donations to the penny carnival

Also a special thanks would like to be given to Mrs. Petra Stauffer and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Murray for supplying water. A very special thanks to Donna Friesen for faithfully helping Mike daily.

In the course of August Carolyn Chilkowich and Debbie Miskew will be the leaders of the Tofield Playground.

Second look needed

We continue to be in conflict with the attitudes of the Alberta Human Rights Commission, which recently charged a Calgary taxi company for violating the human rights of a prospective employee by refusing to hire him because his hair was too long.

The company said the man looked like a mass of hair and pointed out the Calgary Taxi Commission urges that drivers be clean-cut and well-groomed when dealing with the public.

So either the company was missing out with the Taxi Commission or the Human Rights Commission. It's a complex situation faced by many an employer.

But basically, we feel the Human Rights group is pushing too far in its insistence on no discrimination in just about every field imaginable. There is such a thing as common sense in the application of the principles involved, and we feel too many of the examples we've heard about offend this good common sense.

Employers (and landlords, who also are favorite targets of the commission) are also humans, and it seems to us that they, too, should have some of the "rights" ascribed to others. We feel they should have the right to select the person they feel they want to earn the money they're willing to put on the line. We don't think that every person has an automatic "right" to a job, like being next in line at the union hiring hall. We're old fashioned enough to feel that getting and holding a job is a privilege which usually comes about through adequate training or preparation and mental outlook or approach, which might be expressed as the ability and willingness to serve. And it has always been axiomatic that privilege brings obligation ... in this case the obligation to be acceptable in an employer's customer field.

Why should a firm be forced to hire someone it feels will not be acceptable to many of its customers? This is like asking it to consciously undermine its own best interests.

The corporation viewpoint has often been unreasonable and unsympathetic but this is no reason for the commission to be equally narrow and immoderate in its application.

Grain delivery puzzle

Every grain producer has the responsibility to look after his own interests. In doing so he often complicates the planning procedure of the industry as a whole. He delivers under the quota if it suits his purposes. He reports his stocks on hand according to his views of what information should be shared. He bases his grain deliveries to suit his own financial convenience and personal judgement.

There can be no argument about the producer's right to run his own business and to keep his own counsel. These are rights for which we would all go to fight. However there can also be no disputing the fact that producers of grain in Canada have a mutual responsibility as well as a personal family duty. No complex marketing system can operate in the [illegible] national [illegible] without a [illegible] use of cooperation from the individuals it serves. The 150,000 grain producers in Western Canada must balance these two duties.

through a questionnaire to growers in order that maximum sales at high prices could be arranged. A number of producers under-estimated their stocks. Record setting deliveries during recent weeks from districts already drained of marketable grain, according to that survey, have confounded the most earnest planners.

Some districts will likely be disadvantaged this crop year, unable to participate equally in grain sales opportunities. Especially hard hit will be those areas where the crops lay out over winter, and roads, along with railroads, were snow blocked. It is to these districts that plugged elevators have been the rule. Many are congested today.

No one intends to damage his neighbor but self-motivated actions have often resulted in just that. There is need for the mutual working together which made all pioneers akin to one another. This was the spirit which built greater farmer-owned institutions. It need not remove the right of individual action, but it can make a sys-

Washed up

There's no doubt that Richard Nixon will go down in American history, but doubtless not in the fashion he would have liked. There is no question now but that his career as president is all washed up ... the only problem is how best to terminate his term and [illegible] get the [illegible] back on track.

After the [illegible] disclosure over the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] confidence [illegible] the man [illegible] whatever [illegible] stances, he is worse than useless in the administration ... he is an encumbrance.

The tragedy is not that the whole burglary and cover-up affair was so needless ... the real tragedy lies in the fact that senior administrators in the government could stoop so low. [illegible] many ways ... such as calling [illegible] the FBI [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] As Shakespeare said there is something [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] running the country.

Dog care

An oral contraceptive for dogs. ... This new product, to be included in a canned pet food, will be fed to several thousand unsuspecting bitches in homes throughout the U.S. this summer. According to researchers who developed the contraceptive, regular use of the product prevents the female dogs from coming into their heat period. A year-long test will be taken to determine the contraceptive's effectiveness in the typical home situation. More than 700 bitches of various breeds and ages have already been tested under controlled conditions. If no adverse effects are revealed, U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval will be sought, probably in 1975, to combine the product with canned dog food for sale in supermarkets and other retail outlets.

FOR PETE'S SAKE!

A full-length dramatic motion picture filmed in brilliant Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, will be shown in

RYLEY LUTHERAN CHURCH

AT 8:00 P.M., on—Sunday, August 18th.

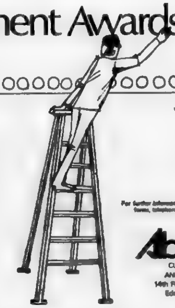
Filmed on location in Denver and the Colorado Rockies, FOR PETE'S SAKE! is the story of Pete Harper, a family man and service station owner, who is knocked flat by unexpected problems, but finds strength in Christ to stand up again to face life anew. It's a family film filled with laughs, tears, action, and some truly genuine people.

Invite another family to attend with you.

You don't have to be famous to be somebody.

Alberta Achievement Awards



Think about the people in your community [illegible] who deserve special recognition for their outstanding achievements, professional excellence or voluntary service.

Are they [illegible] famous? Probably not. They are pretty [illegible] people who stand tall in the eyes of others.

Men and women who have made [illegible] contributions to sports, education, the arts, [illegible] or science. Individuals or groups who [illegible] honour to themselves and to the Province [illegible] outstanding achievements or performance [illegible] or international competitions. Albertans who have played a vital role in the life of the Province.

Each year, the Government of Alberta presents Achievement Awards to outstanding Albertans. To ensure that no one deserving of an Award is overlooked we need your assistance.

The three annual Award categories are Performance (Competition), Excellence, and Service.

Think of the people — individuals or groups — you know who have — won competitions or awards at a national or international level during the past year (Performance (Competition) category)

— gained national or international recognition in a professional, occupational, or voluntary capacity during the past year (Excellence category)

— been noted for outstanding service of Provincial impact (Service category).

Then let us know. They could qualify for an Alberta Achievement Award. But don't delay — deadline for receipt of applications is September 3rd, 1974.

Let's Quit Fighting About the Holy Spirit
—PETER E. GILLQUIST.
A call to unity and understanding of the most controversial spiritual issue facing Christian churches today. Against the background of the author's personal struggle this book delineates clearly in a gentle manner why misunderstandings concerning gifts of the Holy Spirit exist and how they can be cleared away by love and truth. Peter Gillquist does this with a kind and compassionate spirit arising out of his deep love for Christians on both sides of the issue.

Reils celebrate golden wedding

By Mrs. Lena Reil

Mr. and Mrs. John Reil celebrated their 50th anniversary on August 11th, in the Tofield Community Hall. About 300 helped to make it a most happy occasion.

The head table featured a three tiered wedding cake and was decorated by Edith Widman, with candles in gold on each side of the cake, and a lovely mixed bouquet.

Seated with the honored couple were the two bridesmaids, Mrs Annie Brubaker and Mrs. Harold Lauber, Mr. Brubaker and Mr. Lauber, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Stutzman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roth, Joe Reil, Fannie Lyslo, and Ezra and Lena Reil.

Joe Roth was master of ceremonies, the afternoon was spent in songs by their sons and daughters and their husbands and wives, a song by the grandchildren, a reading by granddaughter Tracy Reil and daughter-in-law, Louida Reil. Milo Stutzman gave a little talk, Mrs. Stutzman recited a poem, and Mrs. Harold Lauber gave a talk on the wedding.

John and Elvera's daughter Dorothy and husband sang two numbers accompanied by guitar. Their daughters Dorothy and family of Lincoln, Nebraska, and Vivian and family of Thomas, Okahoma, were able to get home for the occasion. Other guests came from Mississippi, Victoria, Duchess, Viking, Camrose, Kingman, Ryley, Trochu, Thorhild, Edmonton, and other points.

Elvera was lovely in a blue and white dress and corsage of yellow roses. John had a yellow rose pinned to his lapel and wore a dark suit.

Seniors plan Calgary tour

All senior citizens interested in a trip to Calgary at the end of August, are asked to contact the Regional Recreation Department at Box 5, Ryley, or phone 663-3730.

The trip will include a visit with the Golden Age Clubs of Calgary, a tour of Heritage Park, and possibly a tour of the Calgary Zoo. The cost to each person will be $15, plus some meals and lodging.

Ryley penny carnival is a "great" success

The Penny Carnival sponsored by the Ryley Playground last Wednesday, August 7, turned out to be a real winner.

There were people from Tofield, Holden and Ryley, who supported the carnival and brought the profit up to $15. The money will be used for a bus trip to Edmonton on August 20, where the kids will enjoy a swim and a visit to the Storyland Valley Zoo.

This being 'Camping Week', the kids will go to Camp Lake on an overnite trip on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 13 and 14. Thursday's activities will include a hike and a hobo supper. Everyone is to bring his favorite tin of food, and we'll see what we get.

Friday is 'Pet Day', when everyone will bring his or her pet. Please feel free to drop in and see all the pets and have a cup of coffee.

Garden Club invites speaker this Friday

On Friday, the Tofield Garden Club will sponsor Mrs. Collinge of Edmonton, who will speak and give a demonstration on floral arranging and corsage making.

The address will begin at 7:30 in the Tofield Agricultural Complex. This is open to the public and anyone interested is welcome to come.

There will be an opportunity to arrange a bouquet and make a corsage for those who wish to do so. If you wish to take part, bring your own flowers and a simple container, all other materials will be supplied.

On Monday, twenty members of the Tofield Garden Club enjoyed an interesting tour in the Edmonton area.

The first stop was at Ritz Lawn Ornaments on the St. Albert Trail, where a large number of concrete ornaments were on display. Next was a stop at the Sturgeon Valley Sodd Farm, where the members saw sod being cut, piled and loaded on trucks for people who wish to purchase instant lawns. Then the tour continued on to Hole's Vegetable Farm at St. Albert. After touring the farm's fields via the bus, the members enjoyed a picnic lunch. In the afternoon, the members met Mr Collins of Sherwood Park and, after viewing his flowers at his home in Sherwood Park, he took the club out to his farm, to see his dahlias and other plants in his roomy greenhouses. Mr. Collins is very well known for his prize-winning dahlias.

CONSUMER'S PROBLEM OF THE MONTH

DEAR SIR: A few days ago, I visited several shoe stores offering good buys, and at one, I paid a five dollar deposit on a pair of shoes I liked. Later on the same day, I saw a pair I liked better in another store. I returned to the first store and told the salesman I didn't want the shoes and asked for a refund on my deposit. He refused to return it.

How can I get my deposit back?

FROM CHILD TO ADULT

Here are some words of advice collected by Margaret Conner from the Extension Service at the University of Alaska. Will you heed these words from one of children"

1. Please don't walk so fast when we go places together - my legs are short and I can't keep up with your long legs. Besides, there are many things I want to see and investigate along the way.

2 My attention span is short - full of things last too long - like shopping and visiting, and sometimes even the games you play with me.

3 When I'm frightened of a big dog or something, please don't make me up and hold me; that helps more than telling me you won't let anything hurt me.

4 Sometimes it would be nice if you would talk to me and explain why we have to do things, or tell me what is going to happen ahead of time when it is something new to me - then I'll know what to do sometimes you might even just have a conversation with me about anything. It would make me feel I belonged to the family, too.

5 Sometimes big people get in such a hurry they tell me about two things all at the same time. I get confused when people say things like - "This afternoon we're going to grandmother's, get your coat, finish your lunch, choose what toy you want to take, wash your hands, and what shoes do you have on?"

6 I have trouble sitting still in the car even when you keep telling me to 'cause it's not very interesting to look at the back of the seat or that dashboard thing - I'm too little to see what's outside and all down there you want me to. While we're on the subject sometimes my neck hurts trying to see what's on the dining room table or looking at big people's faces. Please put me on a chair or you hand down to me.

7 Would you please fix it so you know whether or not I understand what you want me to see before you get mad at me for doing something you expected me to do.

8 Please give me time to do things by myself I'm slow and haven't learned how to put my clothes on yet, much less do it fast "What's all the hurry a bout, anyway?"

9 Please remember that I am the room as a person and not a piece of the furniture when you tell secrets or private things to other big people. How do I know what should not be repeated"

10 When you or daddy won't eat certain foods, talk about how afraid of water, not going school, are afraid of animals and hospitals and doctors, why do you expect me to like them or not be afraid?

11 Sometimes I wish you'd explain to me why you get requirements with me I know I will but it is sometimes fun to see you rile up but why do you let yourself get involved? YOU know better

12 I may be small and don't know about lots of things yet, but I'm not stupid. Please don't treat me as if I can't understand ANYTHING that is going on.

Two ministers assist in Wyllie-Davison ceremony

A pretty spring wedding was solemnized in Tofield United Church on June 22, when Karen Elizabeth Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Davison of Tofield and Graham Wyllie, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Wyllie, also of Tofield, exchanged vows in a double ring ceremony Rev Wm McDonald and Rev Stan Bessey performed the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father while Mrs. Simms played "The Wedding March." The bride wore a long white georgette dress with lace bodice and cuffs Her matching veil was waist length attached to a headpiece of lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and wore a small antique brooch of her grandmother's. The bridesmaids were Marilyn Davison, sister of the bride, and Mrs Gwen Hoover, a friend of the bride They were matching long dresses of blue floral ribbon chiffon and large white hats and white gloves. They carried a spring arrangement of flowers.

The groom and his attendants were tuxedos of black with blue shirts The best men were Dale Thiessen and Robert Hoover. friends of the groom Ushers were Herb Davison, brother of the bride and Donald Wyllie, brother of the groom

Two lovely clarinet solo's were played by the cousin of the bride, David Pundlay of Calgary assisted by Mrs. Stinson on the organ

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Davison chose a floor length gown of pleated georgette in pink and wore a corsage of white carnations with pink roses

A reception followed in the church hall with open house following at the home of the bride. Minister of ceremonies was Jack Lampitt and the toast to the bride was proposed by an uncle of the bride, Roy Findlay of Calgary It was very capably responded to by the groom. A very humorous speech by Mr Walter Nicolai, Graham's supervisor, was certainly enjoyed by all.

Later in the evening a wedding dance was held in the Tofield community centre, with the Castels from Camrose supplying the music.

To help celebrate the occasion Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, a great-aunt of the bride, flew in from Detroit Michigan; and Mr. William Staint, a great-uncle of the bride, flew in from Abbotsford, B.C.

The happy couple left on a honeymoon to the Okanagan. Mr. and Mrs. Wyllie will make their home in Edmonton.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

Foot coverings began to play an important part in social customs many centuries ago. In ancient Rome the type of shoes worn by a stranger indicated without question his social and financial standing, profession, and sometimes even his age. Today people get a definite impression of you from the appearance of your shoes.

Here are some steps in the right direction:

1. Start good care with each new pair. Most shoes are waxed and polished to protect them from scuffs, scratches and water. As shoes are worn, this protective shield of wax must be replaced regularly.

2. Rotate shoes. Don't wear the same pair two days in a row. Let them air between wearings and use shoe trees to keep them in shape.

3. Store shoes properly. Keep them on a rack or hanging in bags. The closet floor is no place to store shoes. They'll accumulate scuffs and dust.

4. Inspect shoes regularly for run-over heels, loose soles and worn tips. Immediate repairs are important to your appearance, comfort and safety in walking. Also, you get more wear out of shoes that are kept in good condition.

5. Use a shoe horn to ease your foot into a new close-fitting shoe. Otherwise you may break down the back of the shoe.

How often should you polish shoes? That depends on the amount of use and abuse you give them. If worn regularly, shoes should be polished at least once a week.

Here's a hint for polishing sandals or other strap or thong shoes. First place a plastic or paper bag over your hand, then slip it in the shoe. This is a neat way to shine even the tiniest straps.

No matter how new or expensive your shoes are, if they look dull and dirty, you look shabby and careless, even if your outfit is new or your clothes are freshly cleaned or pressed.

Bridge building

Department of Highways crews are busy on the Kingman Road building new bridges. This one is just outside the city limits. Piles are presently be...g driven into place to hold the new bridge. One of the culverts that used to try and handle the water flow down Stony Creek can be seen in the lower right hand corner. Another bridge is to be built further up the road and a third will lead into the Bailey sub-division. —Camrose Canadian Newsphoto.

Tofield Playground has an exciting week

By Carolyn Chilkewich

The first week in August at the Tofield Playground was celebrated as Monster Week. A paper drive was held and some of the newspapers were used in making monsters at the end of the week. A group of about fifteen spent their pennies to take in the booths at the Ryley Penny Carnival

A bottle drive held last Thursday helped raise money for a trip to the Alberta Game Farm On Friday, we enjoyed four plays put on by a drama group from Stettler Later a pit show took place with refreshments following

A trip to the Game Farm on Tuesday proved to be both interesting and educational as everyone observed Dr. Al Oeming's collection of animals from the different parts of the world

We would like to thank everyone who contributed to the paper and bottle drive, Mr. Roth and Mrs. Hildebrand for driving to Ryley and the Golden Club for letting us watch the plays. Also, our thanks to the volunteers for the trip to the Game Farm — Jona Clark, Wendy Watson, Donna Friesen, Wendy Miskew and Ken Gray to our bus driver Jim Ingram and to the Lions Clubs for the use of the bus.

Thursday rehearsal for Friday Crusade start

A special dedication and rehearsal will culminate many months of intensive preparations for the Central Alberta Crusade for Christ as hundreds meet in a preliminary service with Rev. Ralph Bell and his Music Team at the Recreation Centre, Camrose, Thursday, August 22, 7 30 p.m. Crusade services for the public begin Friday, August 23, 7:30 p.m., and con- September 1.

Just preceding Thursday night's meeting, Steve Musto and Ted Cornell, Crusade musicians of exceptional talent, will meet the many people recruited for the united choir for an hour's rehearsal. Both the choir and the Crusade musicians will be heard in the dedication service and throughout the ten days of the Crusade.

Mr. Alver Person, Usher Chairman, will also be on hand an hour early to give out parking, reception and section ushering assignments to the men who have signed up for this huge undertaking. Hundreds of songsheets will be given out and an offering taken, just as planned for Friday night at the public opening service.

Following a message by Rev Ralph Bell, calling for renewed discipleship, Rev. Laverne Heveland, whose committee recruited hundreds to attend the Christian Life and Witness course, will join the Crusade Coordinator, Grover Maughon in last-minute orientation for the massive counseling operation. Counselors will report for assignments, receive their materials and be given instructions on their special seating and areas of activity for their work as counselors.

Crusade Chairman, Rev. Arnold Hagen, who will serve as master of ceremonies during the 10-day Crusade, expresses great optimism about the Crusade "This great undertaking is already considered by many to be the greatest thing of a religious nature to happen in our community. It would have been worthwhile even if it were to terminate this Thursday night at the dedication service."

Treble number of grain hopper cars

Otto Lang, Minister Responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board announced on July 19 three contracts for the construction of 4,000 new hopper cars for grain service, 1,000 of which are to be made of aluminum 1,000 steel cars will be built by Hawker Siddeley of Trenton, Nova Scotia and 1,000 steel cars by Marine Industries of Sorel, Quebec. In addition, 1,000 aluminum cars will be built by National Steel Car, Hamilton, Ontario The Federal Government decision to purchase the cars was announced earlier this year.

The first cars will be delivered in the final quarter of 1975 and most of the cars are expected to be in service for the start of the 1976 77 crop year.

These cars will be a valuable addition to the grain fleet to ensure the continued flow of western grain to markets.

The steel cars will be identical to the 2,000 cars already in service. They have a 4,550 cubic feet capacity, weigh 61,000 pounds and have a load limit of 202,000 pounds, or approximately 3,000 bushels of grain. The standard boxcar carries about 2,000 bushels.

The aluminum cars are slightly smaller, with a 4,100 cubic feet capacity These cars will weigh approximately 40,000 pounds and will carry 180,000 pounds of grain, that is 90 tons instead of the 100 tons in the steel cars, or about ..700 bushels.

The aluminum cars are capable of being operated on secondary main and branch lines with 220,000 pound track rather than the 263,000 pound track for the steel cars.

There are 10,000 miles of 263,000 pound track and 5,900 miles of 220,000 pound track in Western Canada. The line to the Port of Churchill consists of 220,000 pound track.

The lighter aluminum cars will be capable of carrying western grain over the track to Churchill.

Hereford tour draws crowds

Over 200 people visited the farms of Jack Boadway, Paul Kallal, Howard Brown, John Moore, and the Kallal Hereford Ranch.

At 4:00 o'clock, they gathered at the arena for a very entertaining gymkhana display, given by the Beaver Hill Light Horse Association.

Following this, a barbecue supper was served to over 300 people.

Opening your freezer unnecessarily can 'cost' you electricity. Each time you open the door you admit warm air which must be cooled. This causes increased frost build up that must be compensated for by working the freezer or by frequent defrosting. To help your freezer 'keep its cool', also be sure the door seal is tight

A light frost hit the district on Monday night. There was slight damage to the beans and some potato tops were frosted in the low spots. What with crops being late in seeding, a frost at this time will kill the late grains and make another crop failure for the farmers who suffered losses last fall with the early frost and deep snow.

4-H'ers learn conservation is matter of survival, not morals

A pledge to "leave Alberta better than you found it" has been given to former Lieutenant Governor MacEwan by youngsters throughout the province attending the ninth annual 4-H Conservation Camp on the James River north of Sundre.

4-H'ers attending from this area include Charles Gould, Rosalind Ron Kolla, Tofield and Edgar Grande, Holden. The young people all returned to their homes last weekend, from the camp which operated from Sunday August 11 to Saturday.

Dr MacEwan said he salutes those persons attending the camp and the camp's sponsors Alberta Power Ltd and Calgary Power Ltd. "I have a lot of enthusiasm for something of this kind, gathering in the spirit of nature and the need of giving nature some support.

People have come to realize that we are facing a crisis. Conservation is no longer a matter of morals, it's a matter of necessity," he said.

Dr MacEwan said United Nations predictions released this year show 20 million people will die of starvation in various parts of the world.

"Our population, the eaters, human or not, are growing away — at a pretty dangerous rate — from the resources on which creatures and humans must depend.

"I can't think of anything more urgent than to make an assessment of those things we require for the survival of things of God's making. We pay taxes on land, but we don't own it.

"We are leaseholders, caretakers in the house of God. The real house of God is not one made by human hands. It is made by the Almighty Himself," the retired lieutenant-governor said.

He said the imagination of youth, coupled with the challenge of conservation, provides a meaningful purpose for those involved with 4-H.

"This is something big to do, taking care of the things that are really important. We only have these things on loan for a time — and I can't think of anything better than being able to leave Alberta better than you found it," Dr MacEwan said.

He said soil is Canada's greatest treasure, with 75 per cent of it in Western Canada.

"If I read history correctly, we'll probably rise and fall with our soil as other civilizations have. Poverty of soil means poverty of people.

"When you leave here, delve into the history of the relationship between soils and people. I have no doubt history will repeat itself because people are thoughtless and they are in a hurry.

"We're in a hurry to get as much net return from our soil and our lands as possible. I think it's greed," he said.

Dr MacEwan said ambition is a good thing but not to the extent of accumulating wealth with no conscience to the reserves and resources "to which we have no claim."

He urged 4-H members to steer clear of "that self-centred goal."

"There is more satisfaction to these things, rather than converting them to spending money. We're in just to big a hurry — and we're paying the price."

This year's 4-H Conservation Camp was held August 11 to 17, under the direction of the culture, youth and recreation department with assistance from Calgary Power and Alberta Power.

Youngsters from across Alberta devote their camp time to the study of soil conservation, range management, forest and water conservation, fish and wildlife management.

Albertans now pay lower residential property taxes. Due to your Government's oil and gas revenue policies the ENTIRE PROVINCIAL EDUCATION TAX HAS BEEN REMOVED FROM YOUR TAX BILL. In most cases, the reduction is automatic through your local taxing authority and the reduction amount is shown on your property tax bill.

1 AUTOMATIC REMOVAL OF TAXES:

All classes of residential property are covered by the reduction, including family farmlands and mobile homes. In the case of most residential property, this reduction is automatic. Look at your tax bill for the reduction amount you have received.

2 MINIMUM BENEFITS:

The Alberta Property Tax Reduction Plan allows for minimum benefits as follows:

$100 (or the total property tax, whichever is less) for Albertans under 65:

If the automatic tax reduction shown on your tax bill is less than $100 you probably qualify for an additional benefit payment from the Province. Just apply on the form supplied.

$200 (or the total property tax, whichever is less) for senior citizen Albertans receiving the Guaranteed Income Supplement:

If the automatic reduction shown on your tax bill is less than $200, you probably qualify for an additional benefit payment from the Province. Just apply on the form supplied.

If you own a mobile home and pay municipal taxes (usually as a licence fee paid to your municipality) you will receive the same kind of benefit as all other residential property owners. The tax reduction for licensed mobile homes will be available from your municipality as a rebate of Provincial Education Tax already paid or as a reduction in the amount of future licence fees. See your municipality for details.

3 FAMILY FARMLAND BENEFITS:

If you are an Alberta resident and own family farmland in Alberta, you will receive the same benefit on your farmland as other residential property owners. Just apply on the form supplied.

4 SENIOR CITIZENS' BENEFITS: (Age 65 and over).

OWNERS — If you are a senior citizen and own residential property, you receive the same benefit as other residential property owners. If you receive the Guaranteed Income Supplement and your reduction is less than $200 you are probably eligible for additional benefits. (Read #2 "Minimum Benefits").

RENTERS — If you are a senior citizen and rent residential accommodation (including rooms in senior citizens' lodges) you may claim a $100 benefit immediately. Application forms for these benefits are available at any Treasury Branch, Treasury Sub-Branch, your municipal office, or any office of the Department of Municipal Affairs, or write: The Department of Municipal Affairs, 10363 - 108 Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T5J 1L8. Residents of nursing homes and auxiliary or regular hospitals have already automatically received this benefit and need not apply.

REGULATIONS CHANGED FOR DISCHARGE OF FIREARMS

Shooting Allowed with Permission

Legislation now bans the discharge of firearms on occupied land without prior consent of the landowner or occupant.

The ruling is in a clause of Bill 30, the Wildlife Amendment Act, effective August 1st, regulating hunting and shooting in Alberta.

The act also specifies that no person may shoot along, across, or from a developed road allowance unless he is hunting game birds with a shotgun under the authority of a game bird licence. This is in addition to shooting bans in effect on all highways in the province.

All future municipal district and country by-laws relating to firearm use will be subject to ministerial approval at the provincial level.

IN DOUBT?... DON'T SHOOT... ... ASK FIRST

The Wildlife Amendment Act
1974

Section 20, with amendments in bold face type, reads as follows:
1. In this section, "Occupied lands" means
   (a) privately owned land under cultivation or enclosed by a fence of any kind and not exceeding one section in area upon which the owner or occupant actually resides, and
   (b) any other privately-owned land which is within one mile of the section referred to in clause (a) and which is owned or leased by the same owner or occupant.
2. No person shall hunt any wildlife or discharge any firearm upon or over occupied lands or enter upon such lands for the purpose of doing so, without the consent of the owner or occupant thereof.

Section 25, with amendments in boldface type, reads as follows:
1. Except in the case of a boat propelled by muscular power, no person
   (a) shall have a loaded firearm in or on any kind of vehicles or boat, or
   (b) shall discharge a firearm from any kind of vehicle or boat, whether the vehicle or boat is moving or stationary.
2. Any firearm having a live shell or cartridge in the breech or chamber shall be deemed to be loaded within the meaning of subsection (1).
3. No person shall hunt from an aircraft.
4. No person, except the owner or occupant, shall
   (a) discharge a firearm, or
   (b) cause a projectile from a firearm to pass within 200 yards of any occupied building.

(5.1) No person shall
   (a) discharge a firearm from, or
   (b) cause a projectile from a firearm to pass along or across a developed road allowance in any county or municipal district unless he is hunting game birds with a shotgun under authority of a game bird licence issued pursuant to this Act or the regulations.

The Municipal Government Act is amended as to section 152 by renumbering the section as subsection (1) and by adding thereafter the following subsection
2. Upon the commencement of this section no council of a county or municipal district may pass a by-law under subsection (1) clause (d) without the consent of the Minister of Municipal Affairs and the Minister of Lands and Forests and any by-law passed thereunder by such council prior to the commencement of this subsection and which has not been rescinded prior to August 1, 1974 shall cease to be valid on and after that date.

Round Hill farmers organize to oppose power plant site

A meeting called on August 7th at the Round Hill school by a planning committee elected at a meeting in the same location on July 24th presented a list of questions they wanted filled in about with a proposal of Calgary Power to develop a generating plant in the vicinity. The committee also provided questionnaires for those present to answer so the elected committee would know what the farmers in the area wanted. A meeting called for August 18th is reported to have been postponed

Question 5 read, "Are you prepared to accept a land value established by a study of the cost of relocation including new land prices, capital gains tax, compensation for losses suffered during relocation, new buildings, fences, power installation, heating, water supply, sewers", compensation for having to relocate clearing trench and community etc" A total of 197 answered this question with 125 voting yes and 32 no

The last question read, "Are you prepared to hold onto your land until after the hearing" A total of 201 answered this question with 197 for yes and 5 for no

With that information in hand the meeting proceeding to elect officers, directors, and committee members for an organization to represent the farmers in the area involved. It was stated the organization would be useful to both points of view.

New life for cut flowers

Do your cut flowers will and die quickly? Perhaps you are not handling them properly?

According to the head of the Alberta Department of Agriculture's Horticultural Branch Peter McCalla, you can add days to the life of cut flowers by following seven simple steps.

1. Gather the flowers early in the morning or after sundown. Do not break the stems from their stalks, cut them quickly and evenly with sharp, a sharp knife or a stem cutter. A 45-degree angle cut is best for most flowers.

2. Put the flowers into deep cold water immediately. After you have cut them and water, possible as them stand for several hours. Most varieties can be stored from this point. Woody-stemmed heavy-headed blooms like tulips will become firmer if they are bunched together and wrapped in newspaper and then soaked in deep, cold water for eight to ten hours.

3. A few species such as poppies, peonies and dahlias stay fresh longer when the bottom of their stems are momentarily dipped in hot water and then put in deep, cold water. Always remove the foliage from the sub merged portion of the stem.

4. A preservative such as Alcalit 15 mixed to Standard Florist Solution should be used. Dissolve the contents of one package in one gallon of warm water and pour the solution into a deep container. Then cut the stems of the flowers under water and recut at least one inch. Cut at least three inches from the stems of woody plants and remove most leaves that will be covered when the mixture is put in. Arrange as follows:

5. Cut the stems of all cut flowers and foliage and recut under water at the time you place them in the preservative solution. Make the cuts at least one inch above the first cut. This helps to remove any air bubbles that may have formed in the stems. Do not use lukewarm water, radiators, fireplaces or direct sunlight.

6. If leaves are to be removed, put them in a bowl or pail of water so that they do not touch the water and they will usually be. After Alcalit is in solution it removes much of the surface moisture from the leaves and flowers which continue to breathe and perspire.

7. Arrange in beautiful flowers grouping in fine shapes. Add all the interested in a course at Drumheller Spring. There is a possibility of having one. Call it to the of Education or Dunie Lake.

William David Bruce passes June 21

On June 21, 1974, Mr. William David Bruce, a well known resident of the Bruce and Vegreville districts, passed away at the age of ninety years. He was born in Barrie, County of Muskoka, Ontario, to John Gould Bruce and Elizabeth (O'Sullivan) Bruce, September 8, 1883, the seventh in a family of eleven.

Before he was in his teens Bill was driving a team on railroad construction in the summer, and skidding logs in the lumber camps in the winter. This probably accounts for his great love of horses.

Later he successfully turned to prospecting in Northern Ontario. After marrying a school teacher, Annie Fitzmaurice of Bracebridge, Ontario, October 22, 1911. He came west to Edmonton, built two houses, and hauled gravel for construction.

In 1912 he bought a farm north of Bruce, Alberta, where he farmed until he retired to Vegreville in 1960. During this period of time he was active in community affairs. He was an original member of the Bruce Stampede Association and missed one stampede in 50 years. He was also a member of the Vegreville Exhibition Association for many years.

Mr Bruce served as councillor for the M.D. of Patricia, and the M.D. of Beaver, he was a trustee for the Radio S.D., and was also a member of the Vegreville Hospital Board for some time. He was a trustee on the board of St. Martin's Catholic Church in Vegreville which he attended regularly even though he lived 18 miles away. He was vitally interested in politics all his life

At the age 78 he motored by himself to Toronto and other points in Ontario to visit relatives and old friends. He lived in a period of change; and adapted to it with pleasure.

Mr. Bruce will long be remembered for his keen sense of humour, his ready wit, his generosity, and his cheerful philosophy of life. He was able to keep his driver's license, and only two days before his death he drove to the farm on one of his frequent visits.

Mr. Bruce will be sadly missed by many, especially his family: William Francis of Edmonton; Helen Grace Appleby of Holden; Robert Edwards of Bruce; Francis Genevieve Kallal of Vimy; and Annie Evelyn Otto of Bruce. He was predeceased by his son Maurice Leo of Fort St. John, Dec. 20, 1972.

Mercury celebrates its 58th anniversary

This issue of The Mercury marks the 58th anniversary of regular publication of the paper since it was founded back in 1917.

The Mercury was started by W. Worton who published it until his death in 1951. In 1952, the paper was taken over by Cliff Patterson and Ken Leiske but, unfortunately, Mr. Leiske passed away shortly after the takeover.

Early in 1953, the paper was purchased by its present owners, C. A. 'Chuck' MacLean and K. E. G. 'Stan' Pairrigo, who also own The Camrose Canadian and the Wetaskiwin Times.

With the new takeover, George Meyer became the paper's editor with Olive Pollock as local editor.

With the purchase of the Taber Times in 1955, Mr. Meyer, gave up the editor's chair which was then assumed by Mr. McLean until November, 1967 when the present editor, Ed Clinton, assumed the chair.

In recent years, The Mercury has shown steady growth, both in circulation and, in the size of the paper.

Usually, the paper is composed of twelve pages with occasional dips to eight pages. Once a rarity, a sixteen-page edition is now common, a number of times each year.

Circulation of the paper increased by eighty-seven during the past year going from 1,884 up to 1,720, a substantial rise in an area that is not heavily populated.

Tofield shooter receives a medal

The Tofield Gun Club was well represented at the Alberta Summer Games, held in Calgary last weekend.

Gordon Warner of Sherwood Park, a long time member, received the Bronze medal in smallbore rifle shooting.

The three other club members selected for the Zone 7 team of eight shooters were Irvin Babiuk of Bruce; Lionel Hutchins of Sherwood Park (silhouette rifle); and Alan Warner of Tofield, (Smallbore Rifle). Eliminations were held for Zone 7 in Edmonton on July 11.

This coming Labor Day weekend, several of the Tofield members will be competing in the Saskatchewan Provincial Blackpowder Championships in Saskatoon.

Following is a list of the winners: April draw — Pat Fleming; May — Don Lutz; June — Judy Burka; July — Victor Puk; August — John Lemke.

YOU'VE GOT IT ALL WRONG BUGSY... IT'S NOT MORE MEAT, IT'S LESS BREAD

Let the farmers at it

With the Vancouver grain terminals shut down by strike or lock-out, it's occurred to us more than once to wonder what would happen if the farmers decided to take the matters in their own hands. Could they be stopped from moving to the Coast after harvest, for instance, and setting to work, unloading their own grain into ships for export? After all, the wheat pools own at least some of the terminals, and the farmers own the pools, so they'd be using their own equipment, and their own property, to load their own grain. Is there anything illegal about such a plan? We doubt it.

And we wonder if that isn't about the only way to solve the impasse that has built up between the labor force and the elevator owners, as the workers are encouraged to be unreasonable by Canada's Minister of Labor, Hon. John Munro. Could anything be more unreasonable or irresponsible than his demand that the companies accept the arbitration award, and his urging the men to accept nothing less, while at the same time trying to maintain that government cannot become involved in the dispute until it wears on a good deal longer.

Involved! For crying out loud, he's involved the government right up to the hilt, deny it how he will.

The Liberals in the election scoffed when the Tories declared that inflation was ruining the country, yet Mr. Munro can baldly declare from Ottawa that he sees nothing wrong with a settlement of about 38 percent over two years, (which is the figure used by the labor union, as compared with the 61 percent calculated by the companies). It's only a litte above other average increases in B.C. in the past three months, he says, so it must be reasonable. This in spite of the fact that these increases have struck hammer blows at the B.C. economy, from which it is still hurting.

Almost all the rest of the country was shocked only a few months ago when inflation rose into the two figure level annually, and now Mr. Munro is telling us he sees nothing wrong with the rate of almost twenty per cent per year. No wonder the West and the Liberals can't seem to find very much common ground.

One-way courtesy

Alberta's government has launched a study to ascertain the feasibility of a dam to produce electricity on the Peace River, near Dunvegan, with something well over two million dollars earmarked for the thorough-going study.

It turns out that a high dam at this site would back water up into British Columbia and flood a site which has been identified by B.C. Hydro as having considerable potential, and one [illegible] future development.

With this [illegible] the Alberta government has [illegible] discussions with the B.C. government to consider the merits of building a single dam at Dunvegan rather than two dams at separate sites.

Now surely that's playing the game in a most gentlemanly way. It's not hard to recall that only a few years ago the B.C. government (a different government) built the Bennett Dam without regard for the downstream consequences [illegible] all the protestations [illegible] were issued both by the Alberta government and the federal government. Not only that, but in the same unresponsive way, heedless of the problems being caused down [illegible] [illegible]

The high cost of French . . .

By Peter Ward

Within the next few months the Trudeau government is going to be engaged in some extremely hard bargaining with the provinces - particularly Alberta and Quebec

The big issue which must be of course, the battle between the two levels of government for access to taxation revenue in the resource industries - mining and oil. That one has to be resolved before Finance Minister John Turner brings down the first budget to the 30th Parliament, and it has the potential for real confrontation. In the end, it appears a compromise will likely be reached.

Of much deeper political significance is the hassle coming between the Prime Minister and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa over Quebec's Language Act, Bill 22. If at all possible, Trudeau would like to keep a low profile in negotiating with Quebec on that one, and there is room for negotiation.

Part of Bill 22 declares that the Quebec cabinet will have the authority to set regulations governing the operation of the law, without referring these regulations to the Quebec National Assembly for legislative approval

Rules which are spelled out in the act have already been called unconstitutional by the Capital's expert on that subject, Sen Eugene Forsey, and New Brunswick Premier Richard Hatfield has asked Trudeau to challenge the law in the Supreme Court

One private study shows that if a company in Quebec with 300 employes, one third of them English speaking, were to meet the requirements of the act, it would cost $3.2 million over five years Bill 22 has made French the only official language in the province, and although most of the public flak has been directed at the educational aspects of the new law, the implications for business are even more frightening economically

But strangely enough the only penalties set out are for failure to label products and consumer contracts in French.

Fines rise to a maximum of $5,000 for repeated offenses.

Businesses who fail to comply with the letter of Bill 22, in the view of the Quebec cabinet, will not receive a francization certificate and will not be able to do business with the provincial government or with municipalities. Neither will they receive grants, aids, or subsidies.

But all these things are left to the discretion of the Bourassa cabinet.

It appears that Bourassa is attempting to cut the ground out from under his Parti Quebecois opposition by tough legislation, but reserving the right to soft-pedal when it comes to enforcement, lest the province's economy suffer too much.

That is why there is room for bargaining, and that is why Mr Trudeau is shying away from a Supreme Court test.

The tailgater

We all know the situation all too well.

Driving along a winding two lane road at a fair speed within the posted limit in all probability enjoying the ride and the scenery, when along comes a souped-up speedster who decides his part of the road is going to be about two feet behind our rear bumper.

We speed up to lose him [illegible]

[illegible]

You let up on [illegible] and nothing happens [illegible] this is one of the [illegible] driving emergencies to [illegible] If you're on the open highway and there's plenty of room ahead, try to pull the pedal up with the toe of your shoe or have a front seat passenger do it. Don't reach down yourself and take your attention from the road. On some cars there is no connection between the pedal and the throttle linkage; check the type you have. If there isn't time, simply shut off the ignition, shift to neutral [illegible] brake to a stop. But remember, with power brakes and steering, turning off the [illegible] makes steering and braking hard work. Be ready for stiffness and bear down. If a quick stop or manoeuvring is necessary you can leave the power on and shift into neutral [illegible]

[illegible] suddenly plunged into darkness, hold a straight steering course and brake as hard as you can without throwing the car into a skid. Then ease onto the shoulder as far [illegible] lane as you can get. The idea is to pull your speed down quickly before a slight steering error takes you off the road. Once stopped, set out flares or use a flashlight to warn oncoming traffic. Use a four way flasher if operable. If everything is dead — radio, [illegible] lights etc., the problem is probably a battery cable. Check terminals and connections at both ends. If only the headlamps are out, the circuit breaker has opened. Since it is heat actuated it should open and close giving you intermittent light to help you to safety.

Farmers vote 92 percent behind grain companies

Early results from a survey of Prairie farmers show overwhelmingly support for the grain companies' rejection of the Perry Report as a basis for settling the Vancouver grain handling dispute

A. M. Runciman, president of United Grain Growers, reported in Winnipeg last week that of 500 replies to questionnaires returned from a mailout of 3,000 local board directors late last Friday, 457 advised the companies to reject the Perry Report, 29 said to accept the report and 13 were undecided or indicated no choice.

"With 92 per cent so far voting in favor of our stand, it's beyond me why the government does not reject the Perry Report and let us get back to the negotiating table.

"If the government insists on forcing the report down our throat, then let the matter be aired in Parliament for all the country to watch rather than keep on with strong-arm tactics," said Mr Runciman.

The questionnaire asked the farmers whether U.G.G. should "Continue to reject the Perry Report and, if necessary, await action by Parliament" or "Accept the Perry Report as a basis for negotiation."

An accompanying letter from Mr. Runciman warned farmers, "If grain movement continues to slow down or stops, your position as a farmer will be hurt."

The Perry Report recommended increases in wages, cost-of-living and fringe benefits amounting to $3.03.

"This represents a 61 per cent increase over the present base rate of $4.96 or about a 30 per cent increase in the total package over a two-year period," said the president of the Prairie co-operative.

Farmers who received the questionnaire were also asked for advice. Some comments of those who suggested rejecting the Perry Report were:

. Cranmer, Manitoba - "I firmly believe if we accept Dr. Perry's report, it will only lead to more strikes, more inflation, etc. I cannot understand what Mr. Lang and Mr. Munro are thinking of. They are not trying to curb inflation by accepting this report."

. Reston, Manitoba - "Lock the b— out for six months if necessary and tell Trudeau to keep his nose out of the business of the Dominion of Western Canada."

. Shoal Lake, Manitoba - "Inform the Prime Minister that if grain handlers should receive a 61 per cent increase then producers should be guaranteed exactly the same. No if's but's or maybe's.

. Cupar, Saskatchewan - "Do I as a grain farmer get a 61 percent increase in the price of my products? In two years can I negotiate as a body for another 60 per cent increase Bull."

. Abernethy, Saskatchewan - "Grain companies must be congratulated by all citizens of Canada They are the only ones taking a responsible position. I would not be damn fool enough to say this about the policitions."

. Hanley, Saskatchewan - "My opinion is that it's time something is done to stop the unions from dictating to grain companies. Rejecting the Perry Report puts the onus on Parliament, which will then have to take the blame for the results of inflation."

. Laporte, Saskatchewan - "I think now is a good time to hold firm and not give in to the union, as the bins are empty and farmers have a little money . Bruno, Saskatchewan - "To hell with them. Wait it out."

. Fort Macleod, Alberta - "The demand for high wages is no longer collective bargaining but is is now extortion with the government aiding the extortionists. Suggest the government increase the price of wheat 61 per cent for Canadians.

. Beaverlodge, Alberta - "Shut down. Let us store grain on farms for a year. The government needs the wheat sale for balance of payments."

. Wembley, Alberta - "Inflation must be stopped somewhere and we know who is going to pay the shot. What we have gained in grain prices is being absorbed by increase in inputs at every turn."

Some comments from farmers who suggested United Grain Growers accept the Perry Report as a basis for negotiating were

. Neepawa, Manitoba — "As I see it the farmer will pay for labour troubles no matter who settles the problem So please keep the grain moving while the price is good."

Eston, Saskatchewan — "The most obvious answer to the problem with the unions would seem to be eliminate as many jobs as possible in the future This would only be possible with a new, more automated terminal. If you have to use manpower in this day and age, you had better be prepared to pay."

Modern etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Does a divorcee properly continue to wear her wedding ring, especially when she has young children living with her?

A. No, since there is no marriage anymore, she usually discards her wedding ring...even if she has children.

Q. Is it proper for a woman, whose husband is the principal speaker at a banquet, to applaud with the others when he has finished his speech?

A. Yes, briefly.

Q. Is it ever considered proper or sporting for any member of a golfing foursome to concede an apparently easy putt to himself?

A. Absolutely not. He must always prepare to make the putt, and any conceding must come from one of the other players.

Q. When attaching a card to a wedding gift for mailing, is it necessary to write the bride's name on the envelope, enclosing this small card?

A. Not necessary, but nothing wrong with it if you wish.

Q. Should the dinner napkin be held above the edge of the table when unfolding it?

A. No; it is unfolded in the lap.

Q. Is it still acceptable nowadays for a bride to put her wedding gifts on display?

A. Not so customary as formerly - but still considered quite all right.

Q. Are dessert spoons or forks placed on the dinner table with the other silverware when setting the table?

A. No. These implements are brought to the table with the dessert course.

Q. I am being married in a simple, informal ceremony and will be wearing my going-away dress. How many bridesmaids should I have?

A. In a ceremony such as this, the bride usually has only one attendant, her maid or matron-of-honor.

Q. Is it really true, as I have been told, that it is in poor taste to write a letter of condolence on a typewriter?

A. Yes. This type of letter should always be handwritten. In the world of business, however, this type of letter may be written on the typewriter.

Q. At which side of the plate is the napkin placed when setting the table.

A. If you are setting the table with place plates, the napkins are placed on the plates. If food is on the plates when the guests are seated, the napkins are placed at the left of the plate.

Q. Is it proper to mail out marriage announcements later, after an elopement?

A. Quite proper.

Q. Would it be appropriate for a widow's son to give her away at her second wedding?

A. Quite all right.

CROP LICENSING

Before Agriculture Canada licenses new crop varieties for sale, they must meet stringent criteria. These include a yield higher than existing varieties, resistance to common pests and diseases, and a place in the market.

Only one pantyhose lives up to claim

Petite, well-proportioned or abundantly endowed, Canadian women have one thing in common from the waist down — pantyhose snags and bags. If you're still trying to find the elusive brand that fits you, feels comfortable and wears well check the June issue of Canadian Consumer. For test results on 16 brands of one-size pantyhose sold in Canada.

Only one brand - 'L'Eggs' - lived up to its claim. It fit all figure sizes comfortably. But, it didn't rate so well for tough and appearance in the wear trial.

Cheaper brands will perform favourably on certain figure types. CAC recommends as acceptable for medium and large figure types - 'Whisper', 'Simpsons - Sears', 'Petite Belle' 'Young Flair' and 'Maybelle' in that order. For figures with long legs - 'Secret', 'Fair Set', and 'Zellers', and for small figures with short legs - 'Boulmart' and 'The Very Thing'. 'Eve', 'Chorine', 'Loblaws', and 'Jewel' were considered poorer in fit and comfort while 'Miracle Mart' brand was found to be unacceptable for all sizes.

Many factors influence the wear and tear of pantyhose, deeming it almost impossible to establish the life expectancy of a pair. In comparative wear life tests 'L'Eggs' reinforced pantyhose, 'Loblaws', 'Petite Belle', 'Simpsons - Sears' and 'The Very Thing' rated higher than the other brands. But your dollar is wasted if the brand you buy doesn't fit, or is uncomfortable. At least one third of the samples of 'Zellers', Loblaws', 'Jewel' and 'Chorine' were discarded because of poor fit.

Frustrating for CAC'S testing department, and likewise for shoppers, are the fancy packages that tell next to nothing about what's inside. CAC feels it would be helpful to consumers if labels told about sheerness, reinforcement, type of waist as well as size and colour.

Also needed is agreement over terminology so that terms such as Nude, Sheer, Stretch, and One-Size-Fits-All have definite and precise meanings. As of December 1972, the Textile Labelling Act has required that pantyhose labels indicate fibre content and identity of manufacturer or distributor.

Okay, so now you've discovered your brand. It's up to you to keep the hose in top shape. Before putting them on, watch out for rings and rough fingernails. Then sit down, gather down one leg of the pantyhose with both hands and put on the foot. Place the seam of the toe closure under the toes, straighten out the heel and bring the pantyhose up over the ankle. Do the same with the other leg. Gently but firmly draw up each leg alternately, a little at a time until you're above the knee; stand up and repeat for most of the thighs. Then with your palms facing the thighs, pull the panty section up to your waist. If you don't get a good fit, bring them down to the ankles and back up again.

Tensions and snags in pantyhose relax when washed gently by hand in warm water with a little soap or mild detergent. Let pantyhose hang over a smooth rod to dry. Store in a [illegible]

Irene Scott

Ray, Katheryn, Holly, Karen, Colin and Reta Peterson attended the wedding of Kim Neilson to Nigel Charles at Knox United Church, also the reception and dance held in the Scandinavian Centre in Edmonton. Kim is the daughter of Ray's sister Mrs. Henry Neilson and Mr. Neilson.

Brenda Lockie attended the summer games at the University Campus in Calgary last weekend. She was a member of the Field Hockey team comprised of members from Ardrossan and St. Albert. The girls didn't win any top honors in all sports events, but felt they had gained valuable experience and knowledge.

Eddie, Nola and Edmond Ferguson accompanied Sandy and Irene Scott to Camrose last week to take in the RCMP musical ride.

After waiting thirty years Gwen Lockie finally got her post-war income tax rebate from England. They paid off the elders first, then the others as the money became available.

Fred Green and Rhonda Walstrom, Lett, Ann Scott and Bob Hubert were guests on Sunday and Irene Scott for a birthday celebration for Sandy. Eric and Bertha Sorell and Mary and Bob Tiedemann were Monday evening guests with them also.

Roberta Bates spent from Thursday to Sunday in Lethbridge visiting relatives and enjoyed the beautiful Japanese Gardens.

Tofield Library News

Tofield Municipal Library Board met on Thursday, August 29th with Ron Taylor as the newly elected Chairman

The main topic of discussion centered on the exciting news that it is at last possible for the Library to have its own home. This is being made possible by the Tofield Legion, who are generously donating the present Legion Hall to the Town, for the use of the Library, when they move into new quarters. Hopefully, this will be by the beginning of the new year, and for our readers, it will mean the Library can offer increased and expanded services.

Unfortunately of course, it also means our expenses will increase as well, and we shall be forced to increase membership fees. At the moment, family membership costs a token $1.50 per year, individual membership $1.00, students 75c, children 25c. These fees will be doubled in 1975, and membership will run by the calendar year, which will be easier to keep track of by both staff and readers.

To all newcomers in Tofield, we extend our warm greetings and an invitation to visit the Library soon. There is a wide range of fiction and non fiction, youth, children and easy reader books to choose from, and our volunteer staff are ready to help you in any way they can.

We are situated in the Meeting Room of the Community Hall, and are open on Tuesdays and Fridays from 1.30 p.m. - 5.00 p.m., and Saturday mornings 10.00 a.m. - 12 noon. Hope to see you soon.

To add to the Flower Show, there was also a display table where non-members, as well as members, were able to contribute, and a "for-sale" table from which many flowers and vegetables were purchased.

Much credit for the success of the show goes to the executive of the Garden Club — Yvonne Brown, president and Theone Jones, secretary. Theone was in charge of tagging the exhibits, supervising the judging, recording all prizes etc. and therefore was not able to compete in the show herself

Improved reception on CFRN-TV

With the construction of a new 915 foot transmitting tower located near the town of Loomis, residents of many centers south and east of Edmonton will be receiving a much better signal on Channel Three, which provides CTV Network service to Northern and Central Alberta. The transmission start date is anticipated to be the latter part of September.

To exemplify the size of the new structure, climbers working on the site proceeded to test their abilities by competing in what might be labelled as a climb-a-thon. The best time clocked in reaching the top was one hour and five minutes!!!!

Antenna adjustments should not be considered until CFRN-TV transmission is switched to the new tower sight. Engineering technical projections indicate a Class A signal will encompass the immediate Camrose area.

Viewers residing south east of Edmonton will not only benefit from the point of transmission being located 22 miles in closer proximity to their homes but also the transmission power of CFRN-TV is being increased from 100,000 to 250,000 Watts and the antenna height boosted over 95%.

1st Agricultural Fair is success in Holden

The first Holden Agribition was held on Saturday, August 17, with many people coming in to view the exhibits, have a cup of coffee and chat with their neighbors.

On Friday, area residents turned out in large numbers with many beautiful and interesting exhibits for the bench show. Judging the exhibits were: Diane Lake, D.H.E. Ryley, Elizabeth Durie, D.H.E. Vegreville, Elsie Kawulych, Vegreville, Mrs. McDonald, Vegreville and Ed. Lefarud of Viking.

Judging of livestock took place at the sports grounds on Saturday. Although the number of cattle and horses exhibited was small, a large number of enthusiastic people turned out to see them. Adding a bit of color and fun to the livestock show were exhibits of goats, sheep, chickens, and bantam chickens. The exhibit which caught the eye of many was one particularly large and beautiful rooster. Judges for the livestock section were Norman Withers, Gordon Raitray both of Viking and Jim MacKay of Ryley.

George Baker, County of Beaver recreation director, showed ability to better acquaint the public with the activates which the recreation board now sponsors. The fair directory and convenors put a great deal of effort into organizing the fair and displaying of the exhibits, and were pleased by the enthusiasm of the exhibitors and the admiration of the viewers.

Dear Sir

"A Bicycle Story of His Time"

Clifford Stutzman cycled from Hesston, Kansas to Tofield, Alberta in fifteen days, 1730 miles."

His wife followed along with the car in case of any trouble along the way, but, all went well and he arrived in fine shape at the home of his sister and brother-in-law John and Elvera Reil, not even stiff [illegible]

Cliff is not young, his age is creeping up to 67 years so, who can say its too old to ride a bicycle. He rides a ten-speed one and his biggest day was 162 miles that day, he had the wind on his back so he could really make time. He also found our Canadian roads good with wide shoulders.

Cliff has made many trips over these miles in his time, his first trip to Canada was in the immigration car when his father came up here in the spring of 1911. Then, in the early days with old cars and dirt roads, later, he flew by commercial planes 'till he got one of his own to take his mother back to Kansas.

So this prompted him, why not a trip by bicycle? It doesn't even take gas now when fuel is high.

After a two day ride, about 200 miles, he stopped at Mankato for the night. Here a reporter found him for his picture and news for his paper, so with his wife following, they always stopped to have lodging, breakfast and meals together along the roads. They took in Sunday Church service in Moose Jaw Sask., on their way.

Cliff grew up in Tofield, took his grade school here. He was a real athlete, played baseball, basketball, hockey and what have you. No wonder he can ride a bike.

To keep in shape he rides everyday several miles, at home. He left here in 1926 and took his high school and college in Hesston, he is now in partnership with the Hesston Corporation and tells me when they started they had only 53 employees but now they have four thousand and own eight factories [illegible] in Europe. Congratulations [illegible] Cliff. In 19[illegible] he was married [illegible] Lillian Wenger [illegible] Peabody, Kansas and [illegible] living in Hesston. blue is rewarding

Ask Journeymen mechanics, welders, or electricians how they feel about the term "Blue Collar".

They'll probably smile, shrug their blue collared shoulders and maybe, if you're lucky, they'll tell you what it takes to be a professional trades person ... maybe they'll even slip in a word or two about the kind of money you can make and the opportunities that are available for persons who have achieved Journeymen status.

If you're turning green with envy at this point, we'd like to lay a few happy facts on you about "rewarding blue" and the professional trades.

You may be able to qualify for apprenticeship training in a trade under the Alberta Apprenticeship Program. The Program is designed to help unskilled people presently employed or unemployed become tradesmen. It's a Provincial-Federal program operated in co-operation with Alberta employers.

Through the Alberta Apprenticeship Program, you can learn while you earn as an apprentice. This means you'll be trained both on the job and at a trades school.

The 35 designated trades currently available under the program are: Bricklayer / Carpenter / Electrician / Power Electrician / Painter and Decorator / Plasterer / Plumber / Steam Fitter (pipe fitter) / Gas Fitter / Motor Mechanic / Auto Body Mechanic / Communication Electrician / Welder / Radio Technician / Refrigeration Mechanic / Machinist / Millwright / Lather / Cook / Heavy Duty Mechanic / Tile Setter / Appliance Serviceman / Baker / Glassworker / Steel Fabricator / Partsman / Roofer / Floorcovering Mechanic / Electrical Mechanic / Instrument Mechanic / Agriculture Mechanic / Insulator / Heavy Equipment Operator / Water Well Driller / Beautician

Qualified trades people are in demand in all areas of the province. Prime pay, growth potential, and pride of occupation are all part of being a professional trades person.

If you want to know more about the Alberta Apprenticeship Training Program and how you can get your ticket to success as a professional trades person, apply in writing to:

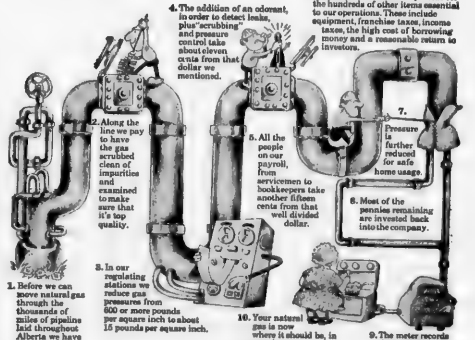
MILT MALIK 688-3765, HOLDEN

We're looking after the gas you need.



1. Before we can move natural gas through the thousands of miles of pipeline laid throughout Alberta we have to buy it from the well head, which takes about forty cents from every dollar that you pay us.
2. Along the line we pay to have the gas scrubbed clean of impurities and examined to make sure that it's top quality.
3. In our regulating stations we reduce gas pressures from 600 or more pounds per square inch to about 15 pounds per square inch.
4. The addition of an odorant, in order to detect leaks, plus "scrubbing" and pressure control take about eleven cents from that dollar we mentioned.
5. All the people on our payroll, from servicemen to bookkeepers take another fifteen cents from that well divided dollar.
6. Approximately thirty-one cents is taken from that dollar to provide for the hundreds of other items essential to our operations. These include equipment, franchise taxes, income taxes, the high cost of borrowing money and a reasonable return to investors.
7. Pressure is further reduced for safe home usage.
8. Most of the pennies remaining are invested back into the company.
9. The meter records the amount of gas you're consuming.
10. Your natural gas is now where it should be, in your home, making you comfortable.

Do You Dread Making Bag Lunches

If you've reached the time when you dislike making school lunches again this year, perhaps a few ideas, whether they're new to you or a review, will help.

PREPARATION

Is it making the lunch that takes so much time and energy or is it getting all the materials out and ready for use then putting them all away and cleaning up? To decrease the time you spend on pre-preparation and clean-up, look at the organization of your kitchen cupboards. With storage space for all the required materials and utensils in one area near a workspace, a minimum amount of time will be used getting things ready for and putting them away after sandwich bags, lunch pails, thermos bottles, and the knives should be stored in an easily reached cupboard near the workspace and refrigerator. Perhaps if you find yourself running all over the kitchen and out to the back porch when making lunch, a little reorganization could help.

[illegible]

How many times a week do you make sandwich fillings and carefully assemble things for a nutritious lunch? Everyday? Most sandwiches are just as good after being frozen as they are fresh, so why not make enough at one time to last a few days or a week. Then all you'll have to do in the morning is pack the pre-prepared lunches into lunch bags - and they're ready to go. Packaging sandwiches individually before freezing is a morning time-saver too. When freezing sandwiches of more than one kind, use labels so they're easily distinguished. Waxed paper is sufficient for wrapping provided they won't remain in the freezer longer than two weeks; for longer storage, use a moisture-proof, vapor-proof material.

WHAT NOT TO FREEZE

Most fillings, such as meats, cheese, poultry, etc freeze very well. Do NOT freeze sandwiches containing the following: eggs, lettuce, celery, tomatoes, cucumbers, watercress, fruit jelly (it soaks into the bread when thawing), nor oil dressing.

SOGGY SANDWICHES

If you have a problem with your filling making the bread soggy, spread your butter or margarine just a wee bit thicker - this will provide an effective moisture barrier between filling bread.

NUTRITIOUS

Try to pack a well-balanced lunch. Really, all that's necessary is to include basically five types of foods: 1) a protein food such as cheese, meat or fish - use these for your sandwich fillings 2) Bread 3) Milk - a thermos of milk (or a dime for the milk vending machine if one is available) 4) Vegetables - include celery or carrot sticks, or have a thermos of hot soup, baked beans, chili con carne, stew or a crisp salad (use a small thermos with a wide mouth) 5) Fruit - use fresh fruit in season, last night's fruit pudding or canned fruit in a tightly sealed plastic container - even fruit pie is quite easily packed if you have one of those wedge-shaped containers made for storing individual pieces of pie.

This may sound complicated, but here are a few ideas for a bag lunch.

LUNCH 1

Roast beef sandwich, carrot sticks, orange, peanut butter cookies, milk (in a thermos), pickles.

LUNCH 2

Hot vegetable soup (in a thermos), cheese sandwich, tin of fruit juice, milk pudding, cookies, raisins.

Even if the best lunch leaves your kitchen - you've no assurance all of it will be eaten, right? So try to use foods that are liked by those eating your lunches. And to your children, emphasize the need to sit quietly long enough to chew food completely before running out to play.

SURPRISE!

Try to include something in the lunch box that will be looked forward to (sweets, candies or chocolate bars need not be the only thing that pops into your mind). Nutritious treats include peanuts, raisins, a wedge of cheese, grapes, left over cold fried chicken or a piece of fish from yesterday's deep fried fish and chips, potato chips, pickles, marshmallows, chocolate milk instead of white milk, hot chocolate, can you think of others?

IN MEMORIAM

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Pauline Collins who passed away Aug 29, 1973.

This month comes with sad regret
It brings back a day we shall never forget.
But dear memories of you shall never die.
Dear Lord, please take a message to our loved one up above.
Tell her how we miss her
And give her all our love.
—Lovingly remembered and deeply missed by mom and sisters Anne and Olga, brother-in-laws, Peter and Lud. 2c2230

In loving memory of Rita Marie Lehman, who left us for her heavenly home, September 4th, 1973.

"Still our hearts are heavy, the burden so great to bear;
For the sound of her voice, her steps, her laughter, are not there.
In God, alone, we find strength for each day;
She won't be back, but we are going her way.
Friends, be ready, for death comes to all;
Let Christ lead your life,
He'll answer each call."
—Lovingly remembered and greatly missed by Father, Mother, brothers Kevin and Wesley, and sister Rose 2c701

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to thank our children for the 50th anniversary celebration. To all relatives and friends we make it a day we will treasure, always —Mr and Mrs. R. Boettcher 2c2236

Former Tofielders have their 60th anniversary

New Westminster, B.C. residents, Mr and Mrs. Jesse William McMullen marked a milestone in their lives when they celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on August 8. Congratulations were received from the Queen of England, Prime Minister Trudeau and other government officials, in honor of this happy day.

To mark this special occasion, an "open house" was held on Aug. 11, hosted by the honored couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McMullen. Attending the open house were daughter, Mrs. Jean May of Hope, B.C., sons, Harold of New Westminster and Terrence of Vancouver and their families. Unable to attend due to illness was son, Leonard of Vancouver.

Mr. McMullen was born in California in 1891 and journeyed to Alberta in 1906, by covered wagon. His wife, Jennie was born in Iowa in 1894 and moved to Alberta in 1902. The couple were married in Tofield on Aug. 9, 1914. Mr. McMullen worked as town and municipal secretary from 1912 to 1945, originally in Tofield and later in Ryley. They moved to British Columbia in 1945 and were in retail store businesses in the lower mainland from 1946 until their retirement in 1960 when they moved to White Rock. They moved to New Westminster in 1967 where they still reside.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen have nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Swimming pool fund amounts to $19,494

Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society directors and members have, through the summer, been canvassing the local area for donations toward a swimming pool.

A total of $19,493.80 has been raised to date

However, a minimum of $30,000 must be collected by the Agricultural Society in order to be eligible for the grant applied for. The Society urges anyone considering a donation toward this project to send their donations to Ray Charbonneau, Treasury Branch, Ryley or Doug Lehman, Ryley. All donations may be used as an exemption for income tax

These donations will be held in a special trust account in the bank

In the event we cannot obtain the necessary financing and are unable to proceed with the project, these funds will either be refunded to the donors or could be used for some other project. If we were considering another project we would be contacted for your approval to use your donation for this other purpose.

Negotiations are still in progress with the Department of Agriculture for the $50,000 grant given to ag Agricultural Society for an approved project.

Plans are to begin construction on the enclosed pool this fall so that the Society can avail itself of Winter Works grants.

Avadex*BW granules in the fall can save time and uncertainty in the spring.

Fall-applied Avadex*BW herbicide hibernates through winter, gives early wild oat control in your wheat, flax, barley and rapeseed.

Put your herbicide down this fall and you can be ahead two ways next spring. You can save time that can be used for other planting chores. And you can avoid possible wet weather delays in your wild oat control program next spring.

Just apply Avadex* BW granular herbicide by Monsanto after October 1 and before soil freeze-up. Avadex BW will stay locked in the soil through the winter. Then it goes into action against wild oats early next spring. Preemergent Avadex BW can control wild oats before they can rob young wheat, flax, rapeseed or barley of valuable moisture and nutrients. And Avadex BW can control wild oats that can rob you of yield. Leave an untreated strip to check Avadex BW effectiveness next spring.

Apply Avadex BW granular herbicide now — in the fall. Always read and follow the Avadex BW label directions.

FASHION ON THE MOVE FOR FALL

Simplicity just sent their fashion and news report for fall. I thought I would share some of the information with you.

"Planning a wardrobe this fall will be a joy! Coordinating fabrics are the key to a free-wheeling contemporary look - flexible fashions that work by day . . . and by night . . . to keep up with your lifestyle.

Separates that stay together - or go their separate ways - can multiply your fashion investment. Put the parts together for an all-in-one costume or mix a colourful pattern with plain.

Double knits continue as the leading fabrics - most effective in newest geometric chevrons, jacquard patternings and heathery tweeds. The carefree comfort of knits has made them a way of life. . like instant coffee. They're ready for anything 24 hours a day.

Tweed effects add their special flavour to many fabrics, lightly brushed for touch both woven and knitted, often appeal. The unconstructed, relaxed look of fall fashions requires fabrics with a gentle hand. Tweeds are also seen as backgrounds for classic plaids and prints, providing marvelous pairing possibilities.

Slinky knits appear for day-into-evening mobile silhouettes. The fluid jerseys and warp knits cling softly in sweatery styles.

Plush textures add excitement in supple velours, finely ribbed corduroys, velvet and velvets. There is nothing like the lushness of these fabrics to put some drama in your wardrobe.

Pseudo suedes and leather likes fit in perfect for seasonless dressing and make great companions for frankly fake fur fabrics. Look for deep, deep pile fabrics to be used as plushy trims on coats and sweater jackets.

Glamour fabrics take over the spotlight for evening - in real contrast to the tailored look of daytime fabrics. Show-off glitter stars in filmy sheers and textured knits. Delicate floral prints on fluttery crepe de chine contribute sentimental softness for the long social season.

Don't forget denim. No fabric report would be complete without this fabric favourite. It casts its spell on many sportswear knits and wovens - denim look corduroy is coming on strong. Bet on faded blue but watch for black to challenge the leader.

The doing - your - own - decorating trend, especially on T shirts and denims, keeps growing as more and more techniques are developed. Designs that identify with individual interests or favourite activites - sports, ecology, music whatever - are the newest way to go!

Colours bring the fabric to life. The lacquer brights - candied apple, mallard, green pepper, goldenrod - spark up the back to-school crowd. More subtle tapestry tones - aubergine, cognac, garnet, peacock - provide sophistication, especially in the heathery mixes. Deep tones - claret, copper, scotch pine, espresso - dominate as the popular basics and supply the accents and contrasts for plaids, tweeds and prints.

Prints complete the fabric story. Novelty prints of people, animals and silly labels catch the eye in fun figuratives. Nostalgic art deco geometrics go it alone or combine with florals in random or all over arrangements. Folkloric, peasanty prints inspired by Bavaria, the Tyrol and Eastern Europe stand out brightly in lacquer colourings on dark back colourings on dark backgrounds.

Sounds interesting doesn't it. Guess it's time to drag out the sewing machine and set to work.

CONSUMER'S PROBLEM OF THE MONTH

DEAR SIR: In an attempt to combat rising food costs, my husband and I agreed to purchase a bulk order of food on a food freezer plan. This included a side of beef which was supposed to weigh 300 pounds.

After the meat was cut and delivered, we weighed it and discovered it weighed only 200 pounds. What can we do to obtain the rest?

ANSWER: When a side of beef is cut, there is anywhere from 20% to 50% waste in bones and fat depending on the grade and quality. Consequently, the weight of the cuts may be considerably less than that of the carcass. Before buying bulk meat, one should ask for an estimate of how much waste there will be, in order to determine the actual cost of the usable meat.

Remember, when purchasing bulk orders of food, the cost of cutting, wrapping and the convenience of delivery will be added to the price of the food.

If you have a consumer problem, for further information, or assistance:

Recreation Department plans "fall" programs

The Camping and Play-ground Programs run by the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Department have ended for another year.

However, there are several pieces of children's clothing which have not been claimed, and have been returned to the Recreation Office by the leaders and instructors. Some of these items have been here since 1973, and each year, one or two items have been added. Anyone who has lost clothing, may come down, to the Recreation Office, in Ryley, and inquire

FALL PROGRAM ACTIVITIES ARE BEING PLANNED

We need leader instructors for Arts, Children's Crafts, Soft Leather, Leather Tooling, Macrame', Lapidary, Cake Decorating, Candle Making, and other activities. Anyone who is 16 years and over and would like to lead or instruct an activity, or, has worked on programs for the Beaver Regional Recreation Department, this past year, is invited to attend a meeting to be held on Monday, September 23, 1974, at 7:45 p.m., at Holden, in the two room school.

This will be the only meeting held to plan Fall Winter activities, and the matters to be discussed are very important to planning a good, interesting program for this season.

Anyone who is interested is welcome to attend and your ideas will be welcome

Kindergarten classes organized in Tofield

On Wednesday, Sept. 4th in the Tofield School Library, a general meeting was called to discuss the possibilities of forming a kindergarten in Tofield.

Twenty-five people attended the meeting including Dr. Neil Gannon, Superintendent of Schools and Al Pollock, principal of Tofield School.

Dr. Gannon outlined the procedures that could be taken in setting up a program and discussed briefly the Early Childhood Services that are provided. A grant of $300 per child is made available from the provincial government, plus a renovation grant of a maximum of $700. Mr. Pollock was approached as to the availability of space in the school. A definite answer will be given to us shortly.

A Kindergarten Executive was elected as follows: Chairman, Maureen McKernan; Vice Chairman, Carol Burka; Secretary, Cristina Gannon; Treasurer, Barb Koop; Phone Chairman, Shirley Gill.

Dr. Gannon and Mr. Pollock agreed to serve on the Advisory Board. Lorraine Irwin the Health Unit Nurse also agreed to serve on the Advisory Board.

A motion was passed to ask all community organizations for donations towards helping meet the expenditures of setting up the kindergarten program.

Elections necessary in Tofield, Holden, Beaver

Two nomination days were needed to complete the slate of councillors for Tofield while Ryley elected its new council by acclamation.

Holden will face an election to fill its village council seats and two seats on the County of Beaver will be contested when elections are held next month.

All civic posts become vacant this year following three-year terms of office. Persons elected by acclamation and those elected by ballot in October will serve three-year terms.

County of Beaver

Five members of the present council were elected by acclamation today while another decided to retire and the seventh will face opposition.

Reeve Jack Roddick and councillors G. A. Brassard, Walter Kropielnicki, George Knudsen and Charlie Seung were all elected by acclamation.

Leonard Laube, in Division 5 will be opposed by Eugene Ewanuik and Cecil Bremner. All are from Holden.

W. D. Johnston decided not to seek re-election in Division 1. Fighting for this seat will be Terry Beaton and Charles Day of Viking, Philip Hrog of Sedgewick and Bjordis Armiger of Kinsella.

Village of Holden

Eight people, including four incumbents are seeking the two seats on the village council.

Gas installation going smoothly

Progress on the installation of a natural gas system is proceeding smoothly despite the bad weather recently, according to Ken Gerber of the Alberton Natural Gas Co-op.

Work on Taps A and B has been completed with installation of Tap X now going full speed ahead. There was some delay in the past couple of weeks due to the wet weather. However, co-op officials still feel they can install most of the system this year if they get the co-operation of the weatherman.

Five crews are presently at work on road crossings and, to date, have been able to keep up with the pipe-laying crews.

Stan Grebenski of Chauvin was recently hired by the co-op as a gas-fitter and is presently assisting the system's manager in local meters in yards. When this task is completed, he will begin hanging meters for service.

Control of some common weeds

Dandelions can be controlled in lawns, on range and and in native pasture not under seeded with legumes with 2 4D. A measure of control can be obtained in alfalfa fields with 2 4D applied in the fall or early spring.

The dandelion is a vigorous competitor wherever it grows and is responsible for many unproductive areas particularly in lawns and in pastures and hay fields. Its deepgrowing stout tap root makes cultural control difficult because to be successful the root must be cut off four inches below the crown.

When picked in the spring, dandelion plants may be cooked like spinach and the flowers may be used for wine.

SHEPHERD'S PURSE

This weed can be controlled with the same chemicals that are normally used to control broadleaved weeds in cereals, cereals underseeded with legumes and seedling or established alfalfa, alsike and red and white clovers.

It is an annual or possibly a winter annual that grows from six to eight inches high and has a small rather deep tap root. The leaves are [illegible] or grey green. They may be tinged with purple. The seed pods are flattened, triangular and notched at the top supposedly resembling a shepherd's pouch.

LAMB'S QUARTERS

This weed [illegible]

[illegible] birds and human beings.

It is an annual plant which may mature when only a few inches high or which may grow to three feet. The stem has green or purple ridges and the under surface of the leaves may appear to be grey-green because of white waxy particles.

The very young leaves of lamb's quarters may be cooked or eaten raw in salads.

GREEN FOXTAIL

Green foxtail, also known as wild millet or pigeon grass, can be controlled to a degree with TCA, Dalapon, Linuron, Treflan and TOK—RM. Early shallow tillage to encourage seed germination in cereal crops may be of value when followed by shallow tillage to kill the seedlings. Early seeding to permit cereal crops to get a good start will also minimize the effects of green foxtail. Since this weed competes poorly with perennial grasses and legumes, seeding infested areas to forage crops and leaving them for four or five years will go a long way in controlling green foxtail.

This weed is an annual grass that reproduces readily from seed. The seed germinates within the top three inches of the soil and generally germinates within three years. It is usually a problem on light sandy soils and in crops grown on stubble land particularly when a continuous cereal crop program is followed.

Further information and publications on the control of weeds commonly found in Alberta can be obtained from the Weed Control Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, [illegible] Street, Edmonton.

PRESS, YES! IRON, NO!

Some of you are no doubt planning winter wardrobes. Many of you, I'm sure, are sewing some or all of the garments. There is a real sense of accomplishment when a garment is finished and you know it looks well. Often the difference between a super job and a so-so job is in the pressing. Let's look at pressing versus ironing.

Ironing is gliding the iron over the fabric with long strokes to smooth out the wrinkles. That's what you do on washdays.

Pressing is a place and lift motion. You place the iron on the area to be pressed, gently but firmly, then lift it to the next area. Press gently to avoid stretching the fabric out of shape or marring the surface.

One important rule is to test press each and every fabric before you begin. We all know of garments that have been ruined because the wrong temperature or amount of moisture was used. Test press a fabric swatch large enough to see the difference between the pressed and the unpressed portion. Stitch a practice seam or dart and press it to determine the effects of varying degrees of heat, pressure and moisture.

The elements of pressing are heat, pressure and moisture. Excessive heat can deteriorate fabrics, melt them, cause shine or harshness or change the [illegible].

Pressure for most fabrics should be light. The exception is when tailoring firmly woven wools. Even the slightest pressure will mar the surface of some fabrics. Overpressing is a one way street to disaster.

Most fabrics need moisture for pressing. Steam can shape the fabric, reduce fullness, and give it a professional look. Some fabrics can not take moisture. A little is a good thing but too much moisture can spot, spoil the texture or give an overpressed look.

Sometimes we make a garment that is difficult to press. Velvet dresses or pleated skirts are good examples. Consider taking your garment to a good professional cleaner. They can do a press job that will eliminate that "homemade" look.

Sew and press! It makes the difference.

Tofield wedding for Bardo district couple

On Saturday, August 3rd, friends and relatives gathered to witness the marriage of Donna Mosby to Robert Foshaug. The ceremony took place at the Bardo Lutheran Church in Tofield. Donna is the daughter of Harry and Beatrice Mosby and Robert is the son of Leif and Evelyn Foshaug, all of Bardo district. Pastor Oscar Lokken and Pastor Martin Knudson, the bride's uncle, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father and her mother, the bride was lovely in a lace and polyester satin gown with a flowing train. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a floral head-piece and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, white daisies, and white stephanotis.

The bride's attendants were her sisters, Glenda and Ivy Mosby. They wore identical floor-length dresses of pretty floral pink and carried baskets of pink carnations and yellow daisies.

The groom wore a burgundy suit with a white shirt and his attendants, Ron Foshaug and Ken Stauffer, wore burgundy suits with pink shirts.

During the ceremony the soloist, Phyllis Foshaug, sang "God given love" and "Never Alone". The organist was Sandra Anderson.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mosby wore a pink gown and the groom's mother chose a yellow floral gown. Their gowns were accented by corsages of orchids and rosebuds.

A reception for 140 guests was held at the Tofield Community Hall. Miss Kathy Owen was in charge of the guest book. The bride's table was graced with a double-tiered wedding cake, beautifully decorated and topped with a bouquet of live flowers. Also on the bride's table were two Norwegian wedding cakes decorated with flags of Norway.

Lester Severson acted as master of ceremonies. A musical number was given by Gladys Severson and Pat Litwin and a solo by LeRoy Finseth. Telegrams conveying best wishes were from Grande Prairie and from Norway.

Following a honeymoon to the Okanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Foshaug will make their home in Edmonton where Robert is employed.

Weed of the week

By Laurie Weatherill

RED-ROOT PIGWEED

Red-root pigweed is an annual, very coarse plant often growing several feet tall. The flowers are in dense, spikelike clusters growing out from the axils of the leaves or at the end of plant stems, the flowers feel spiny and at harvest time the very coarse seed head can be seen standing above the crop.

Red-root pigweed grows throughout the province and on rich soils the plants become very dense and large. They rob the crop of nutrients and water and cause serious yield reductions. The thick stems dry slowly in the swath and delay harvesting.

Each plant produces myriads of small shiny black seeds which infest the soil and will initiate future weed infestations or may contaminate the harvested grain and cause further losses due to dockage.

Spraying the crop with 2,4-D, MCPA, Tropotox, Tropotox Plus, Banvel 3, Brominal M or Buctril M, Embutox or Estaprop as recommended will provide excellent control of Red-root pigweed.

Always sow clean seed.

IMPORTANT NEWS FOR NEW CAR BUYERS.

Some 1975 cars require the use of more expensive unleaded gasoline which is not readily available.

We want you to know...

All Ford of Canada 1975 carlines can be refueled with any gasoline, at any pump, at any station, anywhere. This also means you can select the gasoline price that suits you best.

In order to meet the new Canadian exhaust emission standards, some 1975 cars will be equipped with catalytic converters. The catalytic converter is an emission control device that requires the use of more expensive unleaded gasoline. Because this fuel is not readily available throughout Canada,* all engines (with the exception of one, the optional 2.8 litre V6) for all 1975 lines of Ford of Canada cars have been designed to meet the new Canadian exhaust emission standards without requiring catalytic converters. This means they can be refueled with any gasoline – unleaded, premium, or the lower priced regular. Thus, when you're driving a '75 Ford or Mercury line of car you can select the gasoline price that suits you best.

Ford of Canada believes that this will mean a lot to motorists who will not be able to find unleaded gasoline available in their normal driving and fuel-shopping patterns. Particularly those who travel in rural areas where availability is substantially less than major urban centres.

"ECONOMY EXTENDERS"

In addition to convenience of fuel availability and choice, there are a number of features engineered into every 1975 Ford of Canada car line that contribute to fuel economy:

- Steel-belted radial ply tires that extend tread life and reduce rolling friction for better gas mileage.
- Solid state ignition that eliminates the points and condenser and improves fuel economy over long periods due to a more stable spark plug performance.
- Improved engine tuning on many engines that results in increased fuel economy and performance.
- Optimized rear axle ratios that contribute to less engine wear and lower fuel consumption by proper matching to load and use requirements.

See your nearest Ford or Mercury dealer today. He will be glad to discuss everything about the refueling convenience and operating economy of the '75 Ford and Mercury cars including the extended service intervals that contribute to reduced maintenance requirements and, therefore, lower operating costs. It can mean a lot to you.

Weatherman brings halt to all crop harvesting

Sunny weather has allowed harvesting operations to resume in most areas after over a week's delay due to rain and snow.

Three inches of snow fell in the Tofield area, badly lodging crops which were already late and had already been hit by frost. Most of the rapeseed crop has been cut but wheat, oats and barley are only about one-quarter done and little threshing has occurred. All crops are expected to receive low grades because of the frost and snow.

Heavy frost in the Holden region is expected to have severe results on crop grades and yields. All of the rye has been cut and nearly all has been threshed. 75 percent of the rape has been cut but, only 20 percent has been threshed to date. 45 percent of the barley has been cut, 35 percent of the oats are cut with only a small start made on the threshing of barley and oats.

Harvesting operations in the New Norway area were almost non-existent last week with only a little barley being cut. There was no threshing done at all.

Operations in the Meeting Creek region came to a complete standstill last week due to the moisture from both rain and snow. With warm weather farmers in New Norway and Meeting Creek areas were hopeful of getting back on the land this week.

No progress report was received from Bay Lakes. These are the only five centers sending in reports.

FEEDING WHEY TO ANIMALS

More farmers in Canada should be considering whey, leftover from cheese-making, as a useful and economical feed, says an Agriculture Canada whey specialist.

Many Canadian cheese factories have a problem with waste disposal, and where there is no ready market whey is often dumped into quarries, streams, ditches and sewage systems.

The big push is on to find new ways to use whey in human foods, says researcher Dr. Wayne Modler.

An Agriculture Canada survey of rapeseed growers in western Canada in 1971-72 showed about 75 per cent of the rapeseed acreage was fertilized, 66 per cent was covered by either hail or crop insurance, about 45 per cent was sprayed for insects and 20 per cent was sprayed for weeds.

By Grace Phillips

Festival is planned

Plans for the Beaver Regional Arts and Music Festival are now being finalized.

The festival will be held in Holden on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 25, 26 and 27 and, is open to all residents of the county. Information about the festival may be had by contacting the Regional Recreation Department

A $200,000 pool is planned for Ryley

Following is a letter received from Douglas Lehman, president of the Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society, which we are printing, as written.

Ryley, Alberta,
Sept. 23, 1974.

Dear Sir:

At a general meeting last fall of citizens of Ryley, and the area surrounding Ryley, various projects for recreation purposes were discussed. It was realized that, in order to keep young people in the area and to make it attractive for younger people to move into this area, we need recreational facilities. With the areas in Tofield and one under construction in Holden, another arena in Ryley would only detract from these others. As there are no swimming pools in the County of Beaver we were asked to investigate this possibility. The following proposal is the outcome of these investigations

The Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society is planning to construct an enclosed swimming pool in one of two locations — either on the Ryley School Grounds or in the Ryley Recreation Park. At the present time the Board of Directors favors the school grounds due to the benefit that could accrue by using it for physical education programs in the school and also because of the proximity of water and sewer. Approval in principle has been given by the School Committee in placing it on the school grounds.

The pool would be 33 feet wide by 25 meters long and would be enclosed in a building 108 feet long by 68 feet wide.

It is estimated at the present time that the cost of this project would be $200,000.00 and would be financed as follows:

Donations, $10,000.00.

Department of Agriculture Grant, 50,000.00.

Local Initiatives Program, 40,000.00

County of Beaver (Capital Facility Grant), 70,000.00.

Total of $200,000.00.

Before the project can proceed, definite financing arrangements must be finalized. At this date we do not have approval for the Department of Agriculture Grant nor has the County Council definitely established a mill rate for capital facility purposes. However if we can establish by our donations that we have the support of the community, we will have a very good chance of obtaining these grants.

All donations may be used as an exemption on income tax. These donations will be held in a special trust account in the bank. In the event we cannot obtain the necessary financing and are unable to proceed with the project, these funds will either be refunded to the donors or could be used for some other project if we were considering another project you would be contacted for your approval to use your donation for this other purpose

Yours truly,
M. Douglas Lehman,
President.

"THANK YOU"

To the Editor

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find a letter written by my son to two very kind ladies who so graciously came to his assitance when he had his accident.

As he does not know the names of these two ladies he could not write them a personal note. If it is at all possible would you please publish his 'thank you' in your newspaper.

We were so grateful for all they did for him

Thank you in advance for your kindness in publishing his note.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McGuire

Dear Friends,

I would just like to thank you for helping me on Sept. 1st when I fell off the Dry Haven Creek Bridge

The care you gave me was very much appreciated. You kept me warm all the time and wiped all the blood off my face so it wasn't so hard to see where my cut was.

The wound is now just about healed although it took five stitches to close My arm was just badly sprained and is now coming around.

I will be always grateful for your consideration.

Thank you very much,

Rick McGuire

Mrs. Anne Taylor heads Tofield sub-local ATA

by Grace Phillips

Officers for the ensuing year were selected at the organizational meeting of the Tofield sublocal of the Alberta Teachers' Association on Tuesday in the Tofield School

Mrs. Anne Taylor is this years president. Mrs. Helen Thompson, vice-president; and Mrs. Gwen Peterson secretary-treasurer. Ted Whyte is the member of the advisory committee which consists of representatives of the School Committee of the County of Beaver and the teaching staff: Mrs. Grace Phillips is communications officer; Robert Lysio is the representative to the professional development committee; Mrs. Yvonne Allan and John Blades, representatives to the economic policy committee.

The program committee consists of Al Pollock, Robert Garneau, Mrs. Carol Rurka, Mrs. Linda Mackney. The program committee is made up of Mrs. Judy Fairweather, Donald Kondrat, Bill Simon and Ron Taylor.

Plans for the coming year were discussed including the induction ceremony and dance for those members of the County of Beaver teaching staff who have not previously taught in Alberta. An exchange trophy was suggested for use in as yet unspecified competitions among the various staffs in the County.

A "Meet the Teacher night" is proposed for this fall so that residents of Tofield and district might make the acquaintance of the new members of the staff and renew associations with continuing and former members. This event is by no means for only the parents of the students. The general public will be most welcome. Further plans for this occasion, including the date, will be announced later.

Preliminary plans for a professional development day for elementary teachers to work in the field of language arts were mentioned This workshop is planned tentatively for January

Instructors are needed in recreation

The Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Department held a meeting at the Holden two-room school on September 23 1974 and invited all past and present leaders and instructors and anyone else who would be interested in the Fall and Winter programs to be offered to attend

Several people did attend

However there appeared to be little or no interest on the part of any of the young people who have instructed children's crafts in the past

There have been requests for this course from all parts of the County and we would still like to hear from students who wish to instruct this season Phone write or drop in to The Beaver Regional Recreation Office Box 5 Ryley Alberta or Phone 663-3730 on or before October 4, 1974

The Fall, Winter calendar is now being prepared. Let us know if you would be interested in leading, instructing any courses.

Announcing...
a new car designed to give you an efficient use of space, fuel and money.

Granada Ghia 4-Door Sedan. Shown with optional deluxe bumper group.

Ford Granada.
The design of the times.

The Design: With an overall length of 197.7", Granada is over one and a half feet shorter (and about a quarter-ton lighter) than most 1974 mid-size cars, so you can expect good gas mileage. It's about the size of a Mercedes 280 and features plenty of family-size room inside.

The Construction: Granada's body parts are welded into a solid unit. And then, to help protect against rust, Granada's body is covered with 13 lbs. of primers and chip-resistant baked enamel.

The Comforts: A close look at Granada shows that it was thoughtfully planned for passenger riding comfort . . . contoured reclining front bucket seats adjust to more than 100 positions, and tuned suspension and a sophisticated use of insulation result in an extremely quiet ride.

The Economics: Every Granada comes with gas saving steel-belted radial ply tires that deliver excellent tread life. Granada's standard engine is a 250 CID Six that's economical and easy to maintain. Along with two optional V-8's (302 and 351 CID), it's precisely balanced to resist the vibrations that can cause engine wear. All Granadas feature solid state ignition for less scheduled maintenance than former systems.

The Models and Features: Granada is available in 2-Door and 4-Door Sedans and is offered in two series, Granada and Granada Ghia. The array of Granada standard features include: a 250 CID Six engine with solid state ignition; 3-speed manual transmission; front disc brakes; BSW steel-belted radial ply tires; bright moldings and opera windows (2-Door); contoured individual reclining front bucket seats; deep cut-pile nylon carpeting; burled walnut woodtone applique on instrument panel; sound insulation and ride package; and all Ford Safety Design Features. And Granada Ghia models offer even more standard features and appointments.

IMPORTANT NEWS FOR NEW CAR BUYERS

Some 1975 cars require the use of more expensive unleaded gasoline which is not readily available.
We want you to know all Ford of Canada 1975 car lines can be refueled with any gasoline, at any pump, at any station, anywhere.
This also means you can select the gasoline price that suits you best.

Some 1975 cars will be equipped with catalytic converters. The converter is an emission control device that requires the use of unleaded gasoline. Because this fuel is not readily available throughout Canada*, all engines (with the exception of one, the optional 2.8 litre V-6) for all 1975 lines of Ford of Canada cars have been designed to meet the new Canadian exhaust emission standards without requiring converters. This means they can be fueled with any gasoline—unleaded, premium, or the lower priced regular. This is of particular importance to those who travel in rural areas where the availability is substantially less than major urban centres.

Economy "Extenders": In addition to convenience of fuel availability and choice, there are a number of features engineered into every 1975 Ford of Canada car line that contribute to fuel economy and lower operating costs • Steel-belted radial ply tires • Solid state ignition • Improved engine tuning • Optimum rear axle ratios • Extended service intervals.

Tofield High...

twelve years of common experiences, but also by dreams shared with each other. These dreams were now about to become a reality since graduation had finally been achieved. Linda said that the grads were proud to be Albertans and would work to make the future of Alberta great.

Mrs Anne Taylor, on behalf of the Beaver Local of the Alberta Teachers' Association, presented Linda with a cheque for fifty dollars, in recognition of the high marks Linda had obtained in Grade Twelve, the highest in the Tofield School.

Randy Ness, career counsellor for the Tofield School, was guest speaker. After congratulating the grads, Mr Ness urged them to continue their education in higher institutions of learning that they might more effectively be able to follow their dreams. He cautioned them that they must not only receive happiness, but also give it, thereby bettering the sorry state the world is presently in. He reminded them that their careers could be a blessing or a curse of humanity, therefore they should choose carefully and use their talents, wisely, so that they might obtain satisfaction for themselves and benefit for mankind.

Assisted by Francis Damberger, Joan Clark and J.C. Lampitt, Mr. Pollock presented the graduates with their diplomas, and class pins. Mr. Pollock also thanked Mr. Lampitt, Mr Simon and Mrs. Thyer for their contribution to this occasion. He reminded the grads that from now on, their lives will be what they make them; they can no longer blame others for their difficulties, but must accept responsibility for their own actions. Not luck, but strength and determination will ensure success.

20 graduates honoured at Ryley's ceremonies

On Saturday, September 21st, Ryley School bid farewell to its 1974 graduating class in the form of a banquet in their honor and a program in the gym.

The invitational banquet commenced at 8:30 p.m. in the Community Hall, with a large crowd in attendance. Catering was by the Catholic Women's League, who prepared a complete turkey dinner for the occasion.

Seated at the head table were the graduates and their escorts and Dolores Yoder, president of the Ryley High Students Union.

Prior to the banquet, Miss Yoder welcomed those in attendance, and Howard Berke offered the blessing. When the banquet was completed Brian Lyons toasted the Queen, and this was followed by the introduction of the graduates. Mrs. Harriet K. Ruddy, vice principal of the school, then proposed a toast to the graduates, stating how co-operative and industrious the class had been during all the years she had known them. In reply, Jackie Toske thanked the parents, teachers and especially Mrs. Ruddy for their support and encouragement through the years. The toast to the parents was proposed by Lorrie Stenquist, who expressed how deeply the graduates felt about their parents, and how grateful they felt for the love shown them. In reply, Cecil Skenurud related a story about his daughter and wished the graduates well.

A musical interlude performed by Mrs. Beth Kope, Mrs. Judy Hastings and Miss Sherry Wickstrom followed.

Elaine Hammer toasted the staff of Ryley School, and Henry Van Berkel, principal, replied and extended best wishes for the future. The Ryley community was toasted by Lorrie Magneson, who expressed her pleasure in having grown up in this community. She thanked the supporters of the many projects of the school, and complimented them on the students. His worship, Mayor V.R. Cross, replied with thanks from the community.

Proposal of the toast to the school committee was given by Eileen Owen, with a reply by Keith Robson, Deputy Superintendent of Schools for Beaver County. The banquet program was concluded with acknowledgements by Dolores Yoder to the following: the Graduation Committee, the caterers, the students Union, the United Church, Celt D. Reyes, and all who attended.

Following the banquet, the scene moved to the school gymnasium for the program. A large crowd assembled to view the program. Shades of yellow and orange decorated the setting, which complemented the theme, Life's Changing Seasons." Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Henry Van Berkel, who began by welcoming all present. Invocation was given by Howard Berke, followed by the Stories of the Graduates", given by Shirley Everts. Mrs. Harriet Ruddy and Cheryl Magowen presented an organ and piano duet as an interlude before the valedictory by Elaine Solberg. He based his talk on the theme "Life's Changing Seasons", and compared life to the seasons of the year.

Following this, the audience was entertained by a medley of Roses Are Red" and I Don't Know How to Love Him," featuring guests Si Quoe Kuan, Vera White, Billy Riddle and Mrs. Norris, under the direction of band instructor Everett Norris. Guest speaker for the evening was Marvin S. Bruce, co-ordinator of the Lethbridge Regional Office, who gave an interesting talk, also based on the theme of the graduation.

The next item on the program was the presentation of diplomas by Mrs. Ruddy and pins by Dolores Yoder. Each Community League has regular meeting

by Grace Phillips

The Tofield Community League held its regular meeting on Tuesday in the Community Centre with six members present.

The profits from the annual Dominion Day celebration had been divided and each participating organization had received its share of $218.00.

The financial report for the previous month showed a net operating loss of $100. A cash bingo is planned for October 23rd at 8 p.m. in the Community Centre, with J. C. Lampitt and W. A. Swift in charge.

George Baker Recreation Board chairman for the County of Beaver spoke on the grant structure for the County.

Roof repairs have not yet been completed as the necessary workmen could not be obtained. Plans for overhauling the theatre seats were discussed.

The local Recreation Board has been approached concerning a grant for heating the library and maintaining the room necessary for its operation.

Those stinking eggs

By now nearly everyone in the country is familiar with the fiasco which led to the destruction of 28 million eggs which grew over ripe in storage, and many questions of mismanagement of the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency have grown out of the destruction. Plainly, the whole situation has become a stinking mess.

Now 28 million eggs is a lot of egg, and their loss, especially in face of the terrible food shortages, is little short of unbelievable. Even so, we did a little checking among some provincial food experts, and were inclined to wonder if the matter was not being overplayed when we learned that as large as he figure is, it still represent something less than half of one percent of all the eggs produced in the country. And we'd be surprised if there weren't more than half of one percent less among a number of other perishable commodities, too.

But National Farmers Union president Roy Atkinson put another face on the matter this week, in noting that during the period from January to June of this year, more than 40 million shell eggs had been imported into Canada, as well as a further 336,883 pounds of processed eggs.

The obvious question arises, whether, under more adequate management, some of those imported eggs could not have been replaced by part or all of the 28 million eggs stored away somewhere in Canada. Obviously, transportation ought have been a major factor, but not nearly so large as the complete loss of the eggs.

It would seem the Egg Marketing Agency should have its hands too fully occupied in running the business on practical, economic and sensible lines to be able to find time to close out a little Ontario farmer with enough hens to earn him about $6,000 a year, but who does not come up to their minimum quota basis, (as they did last week).

Clearly demonstrated is the penchant of these marketing boards all too frequently to try to regulate production in the interests of ensuring a high return to the producer, through guaranteed markets, rather than ensuring adequate or more than adequate supplies for the consumer on a continuous and secure basis.

Ho-hum speech

The Speech from the Throne on Monday cannot have produced any great surprises for most Canadians, unless it was in being surprised at how little it carried that was new. Mr. Trudeau seems to have realized in the interval since the election that there is fairly widespread inflation rampant in the country, but beyond acknowledging what Mr. Stanfield was trying to tell us all through the campaign is probably true, he doesn't seem too concerned, nor has he apparently mapped out any strategy for controlling or diminishing inflation.

A number of measures which died last Spring with dissolution are back, as might be expected, though some of them will be in amended form. And many other long term measures are thrown into the pot . . . like making official the words of O Canada, which has never yet been officially sanctioned. Nor do we all agree on the words . . . not to say meaning.

There is no more legislation slowly done-dicating control of business operations within the country, and predictably there are to be increases for pensioners, reductions in age levels for spouses of pensioners, increased veteran pensions and so on.

So far, however, there's no indication that majority government is going to be reflected in dramatic new legislation, by a government which is sure it has enough votes to pass what it wants to pass.

Gloomy optimism

There's a great deal of worried eagerness in the capital right now, as observers wait to see if the new majority Trudeau government is going to snap out of the complacent lethargy which has characterized the long strike-ridden summer.

There was a time when the political heavens were rent over six percent annual inflation when those monthly figures arrived from Statistics Canada. Now in some circles the attitude is close to self congratulatory when the cost of living increase is less than 10 percent.

Unemployment, too, marches steadily upward. In mid-September I attended Time Magazine's quarterly meeting of the Board of Economists in Montreal. Predictions of the experts there added considerable impetus to the view of a gloomy economic future.

Of the four economists present, the most pessimistic forecast for Canada estimated that next year's inflation rate would run from 10½ to 11 per, cent inflation, there would be no growth in the economy perhaps a slight decline; and unemployment would be eight percent.

The most optimistic prediction still estimated unemployment would average six per cent in 1975 with inflation between 7 and 9 percent, economic growth at 3 to 4 percent. The international economic expert present said the entire western world was in danger and was definately balanced on the brink of disaster. Compared to the rest of the west, ern industrial world, he said, Canada had no problem at all.

All the experts agreed that the best we could hope for would be continued inflation and that growth of western economies for the next year or so.

It's important to place those economic predictions in the context of the finest screwing election campaign of spring, 1974. With economists warning anyone who will listen about the trouble ahead, is the federal government going to ... about with these expensive election promises? It would be irresponsible to do so . . . just as irresponsible as it was to make the promises in the first place.

Government spending must be pared to eliminate waste and the extensive programs rolling about in the political mill must be held in reserve so that when the full brunt of the coming economic crisis hits Canada, the ranks of the unemployed can be thinned.

A situation is coming which will take a considerable term effort on the part of Canadians to beat. Eggs rotting to keep the Canadian price high while starvation in the world escalates is not the way to promote long effort.

One of the first economic problems attacked by the new parliament will be an increase of salary for the members themselves. It's even been suggested that they should be paid any such increase in the form of goods . . . rotten eggs, perhaps.

Guests of the Art Rowland home on Sunday afternoon were Art's two sister, Mrs Bebee of Wetaskiwin and Mrs Morrison of Edmonton, who is moving to Vancouver soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerding flay were afternoon callers with family and Irene Scott on Sunday.

Mrs. E. Peterson had a surprise visit on Sunday from her sister Adeltha and her husband Bruce from Lilum.

Mrs. Roberta Bates spent five days in the hospital last week with pneumonia.

Popular Piano Lessons

PLACE: at the school (please do not phone the school)

TIME: evening for adults, figure skating night for the out-of-town kids, convenient hours for town students.

FOR ADULTS:
If you can pick out tunes with one finger or want to continue where you left off as a child — this is a simple chording method for playing tunes for personal entertainment.

FOR CHILDREN:
This is not a substitute for conventional piano lessons. But it is easy to learn method for those children who simply are not interested in the regular piano lessons anymore and would like to play for fun in their own areas of music interests or who are too old to start learning in the conventional manner, but would like to play. It is not a good course to start young beginners but older children who just want to play for the fun of it — without a lot of practice.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Most of you have done laundry for years. Today I hope to remind you of good laundry techniques. It is good to remind ourselves about correct procedure so that good laundry techniques become a habit

Get each load ready to wash.
1. Shake out loose dirt. Brush lint and dirt out of cuffs
2. Close zippers and hooks. They may catch and snag other clothes in the load
3. Sew up rips and tears before laundering. Otherwise, washing may make them worse
4. Empty pockets. An overlooked comb, crayons, lipstick, cigarettes, ballpoint pen and any metal object can create real problems when they get into the washer

It is important to pretreat stains and heavy soil. The more quickly a spot or stain is treated, the easier it is to remove. Write for our "Guide to Spot and Stain Removal" if you would like a handy reference on stain removal

Heavy soil on collars, cuffs, etc. should be pretreated. Use a liquid detergent or a paste of granular detergent and water applied directly to the soiled area or stain. Spray on pre-wash products may be used. Follow manufacturer's directions. Use caution. These products can remove markings from stools and buttons on some automatic washers and dryers. They can also soften fingernail polish. When wearing polish, be sure it doesn't rub off on anything

Marian has just sent some booklets on laundry which are interesting. Their beginner's guide to laundry might be a useful gift for someone who has just started doing their own laundry. For those of you planning a laundry area I have copies of "Home Laundry Planning". Write or call our office for a copy.

GROWING TOGETHER

Agriculture Week is Oct. 1st - 5th. This is a week-long series of events aimed at bringing about a better understanding between rural and urban people.

Farm productivity is increasing by leaps and bounds with no end in sight. Our farmer provides all the food and fiber for 48 other people. We're the envy of many of the other countries of the world, where one out of every three or four people works on the land.

In Alberta, Agriculture is a major industry accounting for an estimated 40 per cent of the provincial economy. About 14 per cent of the province's population is directly employed in farming and ranching, with numerous others involved in agriculture-related fields.

Growing together – That's our aim! That's not just farmers growing all the good things tomorrow's eat in. It also rural and urban people getting together in understanding of how each fits into our intricate food system. After all, we depend upon each other. We are a team and together we'll grow.

PLEASE NOTE

Many a mighty hunter is out at this season of the year. If you are wondering about cooking that moose, deer, etc. ask for our publication "The Care and Cooking of Alberta Wild Game"

Warble grubs should get a treatment now

By Laurie Weatherilt
Agricultural Fieldman

In Alberta, September, October and November are the months when beef cattle and non-lactating dairy cows weighing over 300 pounds should be treated with a systemic insecticide for grub control. With today's high feed costs, it is more important than ever to reduce feed requirements by destroying grubs which cause weight losses

Among the systemics which are approved for use are Ruelene, Neguvon, Ectrin Trichlorfon and Co-Ral. With the exception of Co-Ral, systemics cannot be used during December, January or February

Milking dairy cows should not be treated until next spring and then only with Ruelene powder

Systemic insecticides destroy the small grubs which enter an animal's body after having hatched from eggs laid by the warble or bot fly. The reason that they must be treated between early September and the end of November is that in December they move from the non-vital areas of the body to such vital areas as the spinal cord and the gullet. If they are destroyed in these places they will cause adverse side effects to the animal

Systemics also give a limited amount of louse control during the winter months

To ensure your insecticide requirements will be available, consult your dealer as soon as possible. Most dealers are supplying on an order basis only.

Weed of the week

CORN SPURRY
(By L. Weatherill, County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman)

Corn Spurry became a more serious problem as extended use of 2,4-D and MCPA removed many of the weeds which formerly crowded it and held it in check. Since Corn Spurry is not affected by 2,4-D or by MCPA it increased rapidly in grain fields and in idle land, and in some areas is now a serious weed in crops.

Corn Spurry is an annual, somewhat branched from the base. The stem has short hairs and is sticky, and the leaves appear to arise in whorls on the stem. The flowers are small, white, growing on the end of slender stems.

This weed is a serious competitor in crops, robbing nutrients and moisture.

Spraying the crop with Banvel, Banvel 3/ Mecoprop or Linuron and MCPA as recommended will provide excellent control of Corn Spurry.

Always sow clean seed.

For further information on Corn Spurry or any other weeds contact the District Agriculturalist Office, Box 300, in Ryley, (Phone 663-3555 or 663-3556) or the County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman, Box 140, Ryley (Phone 663-3730).

STINKWEED
(By L. Weatherill, County of Beaver Agricultural Fieldman)

An annual or winter annual plant growing to 2 feet in height and often branched. The flowers are white, small and clustered. The entire plant has a strong unpleasant odour. The seed pods are rounded and rather flattened with a deep notch at the top.

Stinkweed produces large numbers of seeds which germinate to produce many new plants to draw soil moisture and nutrients away from the desirable crop. It is a serious pest of cereals and flax.

Spraying as recommended with 2,4-D, MCPA, Banvel 3, Brominal M or Buctril M, Dichlorprop plus 2, 4-D or 2, 4-DB or MCBP will provide excellent control of this weed.

Always sow clean seed.

For detailed control recommendations for specific crops - consult the Alberta Department of Agriculture publication, available from your District Agriculturalist or Municipal Fieldman.

Correction

There was an error in the listing of the Holden High School graduates in last week's paper.

The name Brenda Sett-ault was listed. There is nobody by this name among the graduating class.

Rather, two names were combined. The two names that weren't published were Brenda Sey and Debbie Semotiuk.

The Mercury regrets this error and apologizes to the two girls for this mistake.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Froese were in Calgary over the week end to help Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Paul celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Paul is Mrs. Froese's sister. This was the first time that all the family had been together since coming to Canada.

Agnes Rempel has gone to Eastern Canada to visit relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Wiens have had Betty's mother, Mrs Katherine Wall, staying with them for the past two weeks. Mrs. Wall is leaving for B.C. on Sunday to reside at Abbotsford.

A place for Thanksgiving?

Thanksgiving Day? Whatever for?

So runs the provocative opening of an article in "Unchurched Editorials" from The United Church this month. The editor goes on to explain his comment:

Families who shop for groceries and find that twenty-five dollars' worth can be contained in a couple of brown paper bags; who listen, night after night to the regular load of disaster on the eleven o'clock news, are likely to feel more than a little cynical.

Obviously contemporary life is no paradise—but wait; on balance there still is a good deal for which to be grateful. Money may evaporate, but when—until our generation—has it been accepted that no family's income must be allowed to fall below a certain minimum, not as a hand-out, but as their basic right. When, before now, have all Canadians had access to good medical care, irrespective of financial standing?

On a broader canvas, when before in history has the notion that rich nations have a responsibility to share their bounty and their skills, ever been entertained, let alone been acted upon? Surely these are realities for which to be grateful.

So is the current concern for the good earth. Parks and green belts within and around our cities are growing; men and women realize their need of contact with basics if they are to be whole. Urban or not, we still depend for physical sustenance on the fruit of soil and water and wind and sun—those marvellous elements our fathers recognized as the gifts of a Creator God.

A thankful heart - not outmoded, and a pause to express it, enriches us all.

KNOW WHAT'S HAPPENING

Dear Sir

The three year term for town councilors and mayors is passing by and once again the voters are arising from their doldrums and are listening. To what I am not sure. I am hoping they are listening to all candidates and are paying attention to the ones who will try, and have tried to operate your town in a progressive and stable manner.

Voters should try to keep their thinking open minded and not just take any word or promise that is set forth but check all facts and inquire about what you hear to see if the information can be substantiated. The town secretary's office is a good place to start.

It is surprising to hear people are listening to expressions and passing opinions - people who have never attended a town general meeting or, for that matter, have never attended a town council meeting. Yet they know all about what has been going on. If you're going to state something at least get your facts straight.

Anyone who thinks the town water rates would be lowered should find out, for instance that the water system has been on the losing end for the past few years; this had to stop. On the other hand, the town mill rate was left the same as 73 at 87 mills. It will not be left the same for 1975 as prices keep rising, but at least your councilors were concerned and tried to hold the line even for one year.

Think about your candidates who will be your representatives, are they going to be able to cope with the new and up and coming perplexing problems of the next three years.

Sitting on council's desk at this time are estimates for the repair and replacement equipment at the town's sewer plant would you believe $45 000.00. Maybe sewer rates are going to be raised?

Have you thought about a new water tower. Well, the present one is not going to last forever, wood rot has already been noted in its timbers. What will a new one cost? I hate to think.

Most do not realize it but main street is to be paved this year and as winter has [illegible]

[illegible] enough to keep the town going. This credit goes to your present town councilors and your town secretary.

Remember you want a person who can help progress the town and who will see a stable financial status is maintained, and not one who makes promises that will satisfy some juvenile individual want.

If you do not do anything else in this world as a civic minded community member, at least get on your feet and get down to your community hall and cast your vote for the candidate who you believe will do the best job in your judgment.

ALFALFA WON'T SUBSTITUTE FOR WHEAT

Ryley

Dear Sir

Calgary Power and CanPac Limited have an idea that they are going to move in. We should get together and stop them. God made this land for people to live on, not for Calgary Power and Can Pac to dig up and destroy.

Let's stop them. We don't want them to destroy the generations and families living here. If they want coal they can go somewhere else. Where there is poorer agricultural land and fewer people. The people here are friendly and most of them don't want to move out of here.

They say that Wabamun they have planted Alfalfa and taken the coal. Do we want Alfalfa all over the lands? Do we want no sign of a tree or any kind of life in here except the plants that are lucky enough to grow.

Yours truly,

New styles in eyewear

SPECTACLE FRAMES made by Maria Wells Pty. Ltd. are sold in 40 countries.

The company's "Avant Garde" collection comprises three styles Victor, Veronica and Verna.

All feature the exclusive Welflex spring hinge, the original spring hinge where flexible action is achieved by the pivoted cantilever action of a leaf spring. This ensures that the "temples" (sidearms) always apply the correct, comfortable tension to the side of the head.

A new fashion trend in reinforcing wires — the multifaceted diamond cut — is introduced in the collection. Cut by a master jeweller, the wire is attractive yet functional.

The heavier fashion appearance has been achieved without increasing the weight of the frame, giving a deep-eye design ideal for multi-focal fitting.

Veronica and Verna are available in two versions - with the Welflex temple or with a standard concealed temple.

Victor frames are made from 10 mm material in black, grey havana and sepia. Eye sizes and DBLs are 48: 20-22-24, 50: 20-22-24-26, 52: 22-24-26.

Veronica (8mm.) features recommended fashion colours including brown, chiffon, fiesta and mardi gras. Sizes are 48, 50, 52, all in 18-20 DBLs.

Verna (8 mm.) is in the same range of sizes as Veronica. Colours include blue chiffon, carnival, chestnut and rose chiffon.

NEW SHEEP CONCEPTS

The breeding habits of a hardy race of Newfoundland sheep are under study at Agriculture Canada's Experimental Farm at Nappan, N. S.

It seems these sheep are willing to breed at any time of year. Female sheep of most other breeds will only mate during half the year.

That means farmers don't usually have lambs to market all year round, but the Newfoundland sheep may help us solve that problem says Nappan Farm superintendent Tom MacIntyre.

JOTTINGS FROM VIETNAM

Dear Friends,

I have never found it more difficult than today to write what is buried deep in my heart and haunting me day and night.. the memories of my recently concluded fifth survey to Vietnam . . .

It is of course only natural that the general sudden deterioration of conditions around the world, - due to the oil crisis, the population explosion and the frightening spread of hunger unrest and shortages of basic commodities - all would have particularly disastrous repercussions on a country like Vietnam. Here, in a land torn by war and destruction and its grim after effects for over 20 years, 54 percent of the national budget is earmarked for defence; 8 percent for education and only 0.4 percent for social welfare. Since the withdrawal of American troops the unemployment rate has risen alarmingly because literally millions are suddenly without a job. At the same time the cost of living has gone up by 25 percent to 30 percent and it is now so high that everyone who possibly can is trying to manage two jobs, and even three, in a single day in order to assure at least a minimum of food for his family. . . .

It is difficult for someone like myself to realize that much less than 30 miles away from the capital - Saigon - fighting is raging and people are dying But Saigon, the capital, also has changed: the GI's have gone home; the streets are quiet now at night and the curfew continues: there is much less traffic: buildings have been painted the streets are very clean and the beautiful old trees - one of the legacies of French times - provide shade and calm beauty during the scorchingly hot days.

South Vietnam now has a population of about 19 million and among them more than 1 and a half million are unemployed. How do they live: how do they eat; how can they continue their daily ordeal, this has been the foremost question on my mind. One afternoon, after a strenuous field trip, we sat down on the terrace of the Continental Hotel, right downtown, for a glass of ginger ale. I began to count: in less than 15 minutes I was offered 14 different items for sale by peddlers, young and old, their wares ranging from cashew nuts to inlaid pictures, meticulously executed; newspapers with the latest news on what was happening around the world, there was the vendor of TIME magazine and of innumerable soft cover books, bought from departing GI's, others selling sweets, and there was the little boy with his elaborate equipment to shine the shoes of the rich who can afford such a luxury The last one - before I fled - was a serious looking gentleman introducing himself in writing as a palmist and insisting he wanted to forecast my future

Asked the kid next door what he wanted to be when he grew up and he said, "supported"

In 1969 the Fedreal Forestry Branch was renamed Canadian Forestry Service

Harvesting has resumed as the sun shines again

Harvesting operations have once again resumed but at least another week of good weather is needed if all the crop is to be taken off the fields.

Most areas were unable to work full time last week due to a snowfall which had come over the previous weekend, while rain also fell in some regions.

Holden now reports all the wheat, rye and rapeseed has been cut with oats and barley nearly all cut but, flax is only one-half done.

All of the rye, 90 per cent of the rapeseed and three-quarters of the wheat has been threshed with 80 per cent of the oats and barley out having been threshed. None of the flax has been touched since being cut.

Wheat and rapeseed in the Tofield area has all been cut now with just a portion of the oats and barley still to be done. Some oats were threshed with none of the other crops being touched last week.

Rye and rapeseed in the New Norway region are cut with cutting of wheat, barley and oats in the final stages. All rye has been threshed and 90 per cent of the rapeseed is done with over one-half of the oats and barley completed and 20 per cent of the wheat has been threshed.

Rapeseed is the only crop to be completely cut at Meeting Creek with other crops nearly done.

Ninety-two per cent of the rapeseed has now been threshed with one-half of the oats and barley done and about 15 per cent of the wheat has been threshed.

Reports on crop production were received from the Alberta Wheat Pool.

Multi-million Air
Where does the money from your power bill go? If you think some of it disappears into thin air, you're right! A portion of your bill goes to keep Alberta's air clean.
Calgary Power helps keep the air clean by using electrostatic precipitators at its thermal generating plants. These ultra-sophisticated air purifiers remove 99.5% of the flyash from the exhaust gases. That's good, but it's expensive and getting even more expensive.
Last year we spent over 9 million dollars for two such units at our Sundance plant, and soon we'll be putting in two more.
But now the cost has risen to $20 million.
To continue keeping the air clean we have to meet these rising costs by borrowing money on the open market — at rates in excess of 11%.
Multi-million air? Yes. But it is required.
And — as a Canadian company, we want to keep Canada clean.

Ottawa joins provinces in Peace-Athabasca program

The federal government is ready to commit $1,000,000 for the second phase of a federal-provincial program to restore water levels in the Peace — Athabasca Delta and Lake Athabasca. The proposed $2,000,000 program would be carried out this year in cooperation with the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Environment Minister Jack Davis, and Indian Affairs and Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, have approved federal participation in the construction of a permanent underwater weir on the Riviere des Rochers in Northern Alberta. The Ministers said that federal funding was being made within the context of commitments given by the government of Canada at the Western Economic Opportunities Conference.

"Cooperation among the three governments involved in the first phase of the Peace - Athabasca Delta Project has been outstanding," Mr. Davis said.

The first phase in the program to check falling water levels on Lake Athabasca and the Delta involved a two-year Canada - Alberta - Saskatchewan study and construction of temporary works to prevent an ecological disaster. The federal government's share of costs amounted to $1,700,000.

Construction of the rockfilled weir to raise water levels is the key element in the search for a permanent solution to the man-made problem.

Water levels in the environmentally sensitive Delta were drastically affected by the completion of British Columbia's Bennett Dam on the Peace River in 196[illegible].

[illegible] spring feeding patterns of the wetlands were upset by the [illegible] project. By 1970 it appeared that life might be seriously disrupted in the Delta [illegible] important [illegible] areas for migratory waterfowl, a major [illegible] of Wood Buffalo National Park [illegible] transport [illegible] trapping and fishing industries and the way of life of native peoples were threatened.

During the course of the federal-provincial study which ended in 1973 temporary measures were [illegible] to raise the dropping [illegible] levels in the Delta [illegible] control work [illegible] out on the [illegible].

A federal-provincial Technical Advisory Committee recommended the construction of a [illegible] as the best means of restoring water levels in Lake Athabasca. The federal government is ready to [illegible] and pay [illegible] per cent of the construction costs. Alberta will be asked to pay [illegible] per cent of the project costs and Saskatchewan [illegible].

As part of the overall program the three governments would establish an Implementation Committee to provide ongoing [illegible] and [illegible] for all [illegible] related to the Peace - Athabasca Delta. This Committee would also recommend [illegible] studies [illegible] environmental [illegible] and [illegible] extensive [illegible] programs.

Manitoba goose sanctuary is naturalists

Whiteshell Provincial Park in Canada's most central province, Manitoba, is a mecca for goose lovers from all over the world.

It all began in 1939 when four motherless goslings were presented to Whiteshell outdoorsman Alf Hole, who carefully nurtured them to maturity.

In the twenty years since raising the goslings until his death in 1959, Alf Hole worked to establish a goose sanctuary near his home.

Today, situated on the lake where he raised his first goslings, the Alf Hole Goose Sanctuary is home to a permanent breeding population of more than one hundred geese.

Each spring, a flock of over 600 geese arrive at the Sanctuary — some to establish a permanent summer residence, others to rest on their way to more northerly retreats.

Visitors to the Sanctuary have a wonderful opportunity to observe them at close range, in both the outdoor protected zone and the interior Interpretive Centre Building.

Among the geese to be found at the Sanctuary are the tiny Richardsons Goose, the Lesser Canada Goose, the Lesser Snow Goose, the Blue Goose, and the well-known Canada Goose.

The Interpretive Centre contains audio-visual descriptive displays showing the history and life cycle of the Canada Goose, and the banding procedures used by naturalists in their studies.

Nearby is the Natural History Museum, where artfully mounted birds and animals provide the opportunity for close-up study of the area's wildlife.

In addition to the bird and mammal displays, the rustic log cabin museum houses mineral exhibits typical of the country of the Whiteshell region.

The museum is also a valuable storehouse of native artifacts, including arrow and spear heads, stone axes, shell tools, and ornaments.

Both the Alf Hole Goose Sanctuary and the Natural History Museum are located near Rennie, on Highway 44 in Whiteshell Provincial Park. The museum is open daily in July and August, and on weekends only during May, June and September.

OLD TIMER PASSES AWAY

Tom Wallington, age 82 years passed away in the Tofield Hospital on Sept 28th He was well known to all the old timers of Tofield and district and a well known person around town. He came to Tofield as a young man the early part of the century and spent the rest of his life here. Funeral services were held in the United Church on Wednesday with interment in the Tofield Cemetery.

He left to mourn his passing several nieces and nephews. Among those attending the funeral were his brother-in-law, Jim Summers of Ponoka and his daughter and son-in-law (Tom's niece) Mabel and Ted Kosik of Darwell, also Tom's deceased wife's nephew, Percy Thompson, also her niece, Margaret and John Gorda, all of Edmonton and their friends Larry and Mary Mudge, also of Edmonton. After the funeral the Tofield Golden Club served lunch in the Legion Hall to the relatives and friends and others from a distance.

Mrs. Mabel Jones returned to the home of her son, Arnold and Edna Jones on Tuesday from the Tofield Hospital where she has been a patient for the past few weeks.

Gail and Ron MacAdam of Edmonton were Sunday visitors at the home of Gail's sister Deanna and Arnold Nelson.

Visitors at the home of Ellen Eaton on Sunday were Mrs. Ruth Wickenborg and her daughter, Vivian and Norman Jones, all of Edmonton

Ellen Eaton accompanied her grandson, Brian Eaton to Edmonton on Monday and saw him off for his home at Fort McMurray. Ruth Wickenburg met Ellen and Brian and all spent the afternoon to-gether shopping and visiting Brian had been visiting on the farm

The weather has cleared and warmed up, drying the fields thus allowing the farmers to continue their harvesting and they are making the most of the dry spell by working well into the night, combining, baling and gathering in their feed for the winter. A couple more weeks of fine weather would see most everyone completing their harvesting, which is poor, due to the early frost damage

Ericksons celebrate 'golden' anniversary

On Sunday, Sept. 22nd, the Bardo Lutheran Church parlor in Tofield was the scene of a very joyous occasion for Pete and Olivia Erickson when they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Seated at the head table with them were Emma Reger, Geo. Undin, their children, Orval and Muriel and son-in-law, Bill Kleinschroth. The parlor was appropriately decorated by Ruth Gibson, Ellen Ekdahl and Louisa Undin. The anniversary cake was made by Vivian Murray and beautifully decorated by Joan Myers.

There was an enjoyable short program with messages of congratulations from both the Federal and Provincial Governments. Lester Severson was M.C. for the day and Bardo L.C.W. did a very fine job of catering. All in all it was a very happy day with people coming from Victoria, Calgary, Milo, Boyle, Berwyn, Edmonton, Camrose Swan Hills, Fort McMurray, Viking, Ryley, Tofield, Bawlf, Round Hill, Kingman and South Cooking Lake.

"Meet the teachers" night set for Tofield

by Grace Phillips

"Let's get acquainted" is the theme of the Meet the Teacher Night planned for Thursday, Oct. 17th, by the Tofield sub-local of the ATA with the social committee consisting of Mrs. Carol Rurka, Mrs. Linda Mackney, Al Pollack and Bob Garneau, in charge.

The evening's program will feature a series of volleyball games. Any parent interested in participating may notify the following: Mrs. Alberta Watt, Lindbrook district; J. B. Baergen, town of Tofield; Mrs. Pat Litwin, Bardo district; and Mrs. Barbara Goeglein, MacKenzie district.

A parent is not necessarily one who has a child in school; having a child of any age is the only requirement for membership on a volleyball team.

Later in the evening, the Girls' Chorus, which performed so admirably at the graduation banquet, will present some musical numbers under the direction of Bill Simon, music teacher for the Tofield school.

During the evening, coffee will be served in the library by the grade nine girls. The grade nine boys will act as ushers. Following the volleyball games, a social hour will be enjoyed in the library.

A cordial invitation is extended to all residents of Tofield and district who are interested in meeting the 1974-75 teaching staff of the Tofield school. Let's get acquainted.

Today's sizzle is history

"We're in such a hurry to get to the future, we trample the past underfoot," declared Lee LeClerc last Friday at the annual meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association—in Camrose. Urging much more promotion of the historic sites and features of our country, the speaker, who is manager of business development for the City of Edmonton, asserted "The sizzle today is history", complaining that we don't even tell people the history of past days in our country.

Civic elections staged in county, town, village

. . . Freebury re-elected

Elections were held yesterday in two divisions of the County of Beaver, in the Village of Holden, along with the Town of Tofield.

In the three areas four out of six incumbents seeking re-election retained their seats while two lost out.

County of Beaver

Four newcomers battled it out for the seat in Division 1 with Hjordis Armitage of Kinsella emerging as the new county councillor.

Mrs Armitage polled a total of 121 votes to easily take the seat. She was followed by Charles Pegg of Viking with 62 votes. In 3rd and 4th places were Terry Beeton of Viking and Philip Hogg of Sedgewick with 60 and 31 votes respectively.

Incumbent Leonard Laube lost his seat in Division No. 5 to Eugene Ewasiuk. The winner polled 132 votes to Mr. Laube's 83 while Cecil Stensrud picked up 60 votes. All three candidates are from Holden.

Councillors in the other five divisions were elected by acclamation on Nomination Day. They include Reeve Jack Reddick and councillors Gabe Brissard, Walter Kropielnicki, George Knudslien and Charlie Sears.

Village of Holden

Eight candidates sought the five seats on village council with this total including four incumbents, three of whom were re-elected.

Holden also held a plebescite on whether or not to add fluorides to their drinking water. A total of 131 voters were in favour while 58 were opposed, so Holden will have fluorides in their drinking water.

Incumbent Mayor Sam Black led all candidates as he polled 132 votes. He was followed closely by a new candidate, Peter Jenry, who picked up 131 votes.

Another incumbent, Mill Matlick was 3rd with 121 votes, followed by newcomer, Henry Keller with 119 votes while incumbent Bruce Budd was re-elected with 108 votes.

Losing out in the race for the five council seats were incumbent Dennis Cooper, 92 votes and newcomers William Ogrodnick and A. V. Johnson with 80 and 60 votes respectively.

Town of Tofield

The only voting in Tofield was for the mayor's chair as the Town Council had been elected by acclamation.

Dr. W. H. Freebury easily fought off a challenge from newcomer John Sircois as he racked up 275 votes to only 53 by the new hopeful.

In retaining his seat, Dr. Freebury will continue as mayor for another three years, a post he has now held for 18 years.

Round Hill farmers get 'protective association'

Just over one hundred people were on hand in the Round Hill School last night (Tuesday) to hear that farmers in the Round Hill area had formed the Round Hill-Dodds Agriculture Protective Association.

The association has been registered under the Societies Act and began a drive, last night for signed-up members.

Membership in the association will cost farmers five dollars per year while associate memberships will be available for two dollars. Honorary memberships will be granted to persons not directly connected to Round Hill-Dodds region, but who have assisted the landowners in preparing to do battle with Calgary Power.

The association has a number of objectives with one of the main items being to offer assistance (legal or otherwise) to individual farmers who might face expropriation of their land for use in the development of Calgary Power's proposed power plant.

Copies of the objectives of the association were not immediately available to the news media.

Various committee reports were given, including that of the Financial Committee who informed those in attendance of some of the financial gains they could seek if their land was expropriated.

A resolution was read to the meeting which requested the assistance of Unifarm in the forthcoming struggle to keep the area for farming purposes. The resolution had already been forwarded to Unifarm prior to last night's meeting.

In attendance at the meeting were Gordon Stromberg, MLA, and Walter Buck, MLA, along with representatives of the Social Credit House Leader's office, and the Liberal and NDP parties.

Splitting up the Francoeurs

Russ Jackman, left, drew gales of laughter Friday evening when he commented to Don Williams that it's a rare occurrence for anyone to come between the Francoeur brothers, Paddy and Louie, extreme right. Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks Lodges for all Canada, Mr. Jackman presented each of the members with special pins marking the completion of thirty years of service in the Camrose Elks, on the occasion of the Lodge's 50th birthday. Wearing a Japanese happy coat over huge bandages for severe burns on his hands, Paddy Francoeur stole away from a hospital bed for long enough to be master of ceremonies on the occasion, then returned to St. Mary's for further treatment.

"Meet the Teachers" attracts about 200

by Grace Phillips

Approximately two hundred guests attended the "Meet the Teachers" night, sponsored by the Tofield sub-local of the Alberta Teachers' Association, in the Tofield School Thursday, Oct 17th

The evening's entertainment began with several exciting volleyball games in the gym after which contestants and spectators moved into the library for the program and lunch

After welcoming the guests, Al Pollock principal of the Tofield School, introduced the members of the staff, explaining the teaching assignment of each Mr. Pollock then introduced Wendy MacNutt who, in costume, presented an amusing monologue.

Dr Walter Buck, MLA for this area, after welcoming Mr. Pollock to this constituency, presented the school with an atlas of Alberta This presentation was made on behalf of the people of Alberta, as represented by the Government of Alberta. The project of producing and distributing the atlases to the schools was begun by the former Social Credit government, of which Dr Buck was a member The atlas was accepted by Mr Pollock on behalf of the school

The girls' chorus under the direction of Bill Simon and accompanied by Mrs. Simon, presented three numbers, which were very well received by the audience. Mr. Simon had chosen for his chorus one of the songs from Sesame Street 'Sing', and adaption of a Gregorian chant, and 'Born Free'. The last song will be sung by the Girls' Chorus in the County of Beaver Arts Festival this weekend

Mr Pollock thanked, on behalf of the assembly, the girls in the chorus, Mr Simon, Mrs. Simon, and Dr. Buck for their parts in the evening's program.

Lunch was served by the grade nine girls under direction of the sub-local social committee, Mrs. Linda Mackney, Mrs. Carol Rurka, Al Pollock and Bob Garneau. Mrs. Anne Taylor is president of the sub-local.

Ah, consumers' relief

By Peter Ward
OTTAWA (CP)

The Food Prices Review Board dropped a bombshell in Ottawa last fall by choosing the capital for a pilot project on comparative grocery pricing. The result here could well be a price war between supermarkets with all the inherent advantages to consumers and a cry from the rest of the country for the same treatment.

Months from the Food Prices Review Board have been checking prices on groceries in the 27 major chain stores in the Ottawa-Hull district since spring and from the statistics gathered, the Board in mid-November a weekly chart of who is shopping can get best value for their money.

At only are chain store boss making listed in the weekly report, also exact and dresses of the stores involved with complete figures showing the degree of savings to be expected by consumers shopping in their area.

In the National Capital region, the difference nearly 20 percent. In other words, you could buy 20 cents more for your dollar in the lowest price store than you could in the highest.

As might be imagined, there has since been quite a scurry from local supermarkets to win the "best buy of the week" award from the Food Board. Any store manager who failed to capitalize on having his store named as the one with the lowest prices would be plain crazy.

Hopefully the result here will be much tougher competition between supermarkets resulting in lower grocery prices. If the board finds this to the case the Ottawa-Hull pilot project will be mounted in other Canadian centres, exerting real pressure on the price of food.

The cost of running the Ottawa-Hull project is said to be quite modest for a government operation — something in the order of $2,000 to $5,000 weekly, plus printing expenses for the releases.

Personally, I'm under instructions from my wife to bring home a copy of the week's food figures from the board pool-basin so they can be used to seek the best buys of the week.

The project is being received in the capital as one of the best since the Food Board has implemented. If you'd like to see the same thing happen in your neighborhood write to the Board in Ottawa.

Foreign investment in Canada

In 1969, long-term foreign direct investment in Canada increased by $4,500 million to $46 billion.

United States residents owned $29.5 billion or 63 per cent of this total.

British residents accounted for about $2.3 billion and those of all other countries for $2.1 billion.

After the U.S and the United Kingdom, France the Netherlands and Switzerland reported the largest absolute increases in direct investment while Switzerland accounted for the largest relative increase.

More than two-fifths of the increase in total foreign direct investment in 1969 was in manufacturing.

More than three-fourths of the increase in the manufacturing and petroleum and natural gas industries in 1969 occurred in U.S controlled enterprises.

Foreign controlled investment (representing the total long-term capital employed in Canada by foreign controlled enterprises) rose by $3 450 million to $33 041 million in the same year.

The U.S. share of foreign-controlled investment declined marginally to 70 per cent and that of the United Kingdom involved all at around 16 per cent.

New hog marketing system streamlined for efficiency

An announcement by the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board, last Thursday at a press conference in Edmonton, outlined major changes in their operation.

A four page prepared report covered board policy in the past and what changes are proposed. Les Olsen of Fertintosh who is the director for this region on the board was present at the conference, having played a large part in developing the new policy.

At present the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board operates a selling mechanism which allows all buyers equal access to all Alberta hogs on a competitive bid basis. Other alternatives to this system of selling would be based on some form of negotiated prices between the Board and hog buyers. Although other Canadian Marketing Boards have selected alternatives to the competitive system, the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board subscribes to the belief that the producers gross revenue should be great, est by maximizing competition.

In an attempt to achieve this competitive objective the Board plans to establish and operate a system of markets and terminals for the assembly and orderly flow of [illegible] from the farm to the packer.

The Board's selling mechanism operates quite well. It had become apparent that several modifications were required to allow for greater bargaining power for hog producers. In October of 1972, the delegate body struck the Alternative Selling Systems Committee. The Committee was chaired by Les Olsen a delegate (now director) from Fertintosh; and the members were Jim Christie, a delegate from Vauxhall and Stan Price, a delegate from Acme. The terms of reference were to investigate a negotiated pricing mechanism or other alternatives to the bid/ask sales mechanism. The objectives of the study were classified as follows:

1. Operational Efficiency to reduce time and cost and to improve services involved in moving hogs from the farm to the packer.

2. Price Efficiency
to improve the performance of the market system in establishing equitable prices and values for all participants in the market.

The committee defined the [illegible] hog marketing system, described and studied the [illegible] marketing in Alberta and other provinces. Advantages and disadvantages of the delegates and directors of the New Marketing Concept were [illegible] opposed.

PROPOSED SYSTEM CONCEPT

The objective of the marketing [illegible] to reduce the [illegible] marketing prices [illegible] the [illegible]. The system should provide equal opportunity for producers to [illegible] their hogs and, at the same time, receive fair market value on any given day. The mechanism of the proposed system is that the buyer's initial price downward to [illegible] later kill and [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

I received the following story from Joyce Lemcke, D.H.E. at Ponoka. I'm sure you'll enjoy it.

YOU JUST CAN'T LOSE

There is an interesting story told of an Arab who died and left a will disposing of his 19 camels to his wife and two sons. His wife was to get half the camels, his older son one quarter, and his younger son one fifth. After the burial a fierce quarrel began among the heirs, because 19 is not divisible by 2 or 4 or 5.

No one would give in and the sounds of disagreement rent the air. A friend of the family arrived from afar to offer his condolences, but the camel-trade were so engrossed in their own warfare that they hardly noticed him.

Finally, irritated beyond measure by the unseemly disturbance, he shouted, "Be quiet, all of you. I will try to think of a solution".

After a few moments of silence, he got up and went out to the front yard, where he had tied his camel. He led the animal around to the back and put it with the 19 that were standing there. He called the family outside. "Now," he said to the widow, "take your half. She removed ten from the group. To the older son he said, "Take 25 percent — of the 20", and he went off with his five. And to the younger son he said, "Take your one-fifth of the 20", and he departed quietly with nine.

Now peace reigned, and the visitor mounted his own camel and rode away in silence from the home of his old friend.

There is more to this story than the cleverness of events. The true point of it is that the visitor lost nothing by his effort. He still had his own camel. What he had done was to give a little of himself — his wish, for the time, and a bit of effort to solve a disagreeable and apparently unsurmountable problem for the family of an old friend.

Very often we find in our lives the chance to do a little something for others, if we would just take the time to recognize the fact and accept the opportunity. It is not always necessary to give money or property, time and attention are very often appreciated more than mere money. In fact sometimes money won't even help!

Sam Johnson once said, "He who waits to do a great deal of good at once will never do anything".

Just remember the 19 camels. The visitor did a lot of good, and he didn't even know it. He just gave of himself. We can also afford that kind of giving. There is a lesson in living to be learned from this simple story.

Hog marketing . . .

packer kill times, and; direct contact with all operators (truckers and assemblers) in the transportation network.

In the new system the FOB points will be Edmonton, Red Deer, Calgary, Lethbridge, Vermilion and Grande Prairie. From the study of hog flow movement and hog populations, the six points can justify the economic operation of Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board marketing terminals.

Starting at the farm gate, hogs will move to market in one of the following ways:

collected by truckers and delivered directly to packing plant or Board marketing terminal; delivered to local assemblers and collected for transport to packing plant or board terminal; or delivered to packing plant or board terminal by producers.

The cost of operating the Board marketing terminal system will be born equally by every hog marketed by the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board. It is estimated that the per hog total operating cost will be about 30 cents.

Hogs will not be channelled through these board terminals. Private transporters and assemblers will still be an important part of the overall system, the same as they are now.

Direct transport of hogs from farm to buyer will be encouraged, providing the dispute hassler provides proper documentation, dependability on counts and delivery times and quality of service, such as low death loss. Depending on market conditions, haulers may be required to check in at the marketing terminal before proceeding to the buyer. During overflow situations, hogs will be held at key terminals only at the outlying FOB points will often be moved into posities at the central markets such that they become immediately available for slaughter as soon as possible.

Soon to be implemented by the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board, the key feature is the development of marketing terminals at six designated FOB points. Improvements in marketing efficiency and producer bargaining power will be examined in future studies of possible board involvement in carcass marketing. This could be as an extension of the marketing system to further influence orderly flow of pork onto the market.

Members of the board present for the presentation were: Dick Page, Board Chairman; Les Olsen, Fern Forintoski, chairman of Alternative Selling Committee; Stan Price director from Acme; Ed Schollenberger, general manager; and Jim Christie, from Trochu.

Don Mazankowski

Report from Parliament Hill

October 11 1974

DON MAZANKOWSKI M.P.

Marred by an unfortunate confrontation between Indian demonstrators and the RCMP Canada's 30th Parliament formally opened its doors on September 30th. The incident arose as a group known as the Native People's Caravan demonstrated on Parliament Hill seeking to publicize their calls for better housing, social services and economic opportunities.

The Caravan was joined by a group of uninvited Maoist-Leninist agitators seeking to use the plight of the Indian people to further their own cause. The agitators clashed with police and soldiers who were on the Hill to take part in the opening ceremonies. The confrontation spread to involve some Indians in the crowd, subsequently leading to charges and counter charges of police brutality. The whole fiasco was indeed an unfortunate event. In my view it could have been avoided had Government officials met with the delegation and demonstrated a sincere interest in their plight.

The Speech from the Throne was an unusually candid appraisal of the imperilled state of the world economy. It said, "For Canada as well as for most of the world the most serious problem is inflation."

The Speech went on to relate the Government's anti-inflationary policy which remains unchanged notwithstanding its failure to deal effectively with the problem. The Government's approach to counteract inflation is - - to increase the supply of goods and services to protect those least able to protect themselves to soften the impact of soaring prices and to cushion the economy against disruptive increases in other commodities.

Given the fact that no clear economic direction was advanced one can only presume that high inflation rates will continue currently running at 11 per cent and forecasted to increase to 12 per cent for 1975.

The cost of living will continue to rise dramatically, government spending will accelerate and, with the general slackening of the economy which recorded a zero rate of growth in the last quarter, unemployment will rise substantially to a predicted 7 per cent in 1975.

Labour unrest will be a major issue during the life of this Parliament. Already legislation has been passed to end the Grain Handlers strike. The elevator companies insist that the settlement proposed by Dr. Neil Perry recommending a 61 per cent wage increase over two years is highly inflationary. The Minister of Labour [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Coast [illegible] Handlers [illegible] Coast a strike by deck officers and engineers against Canadian lake shipping fleets [illegible] shipping [illegible] to a halt [illegible] Thunder Bay as well. The strike while [illegible] an increase awarded in the order of 65 per cent together with the West Coast walkout has placed Canada's position as a reliable exporter of grain in real jeopardy. Moreover, it has resulted in lost sales and has cost the prairie farmer well in excess of $10 million in additional demurrage charges. When asked in the House whether the Government would consider defraying these costs, which arise through no fault of the farmer, the Minister in Charge of the Canadian Wheat Board replied no.

Wage settlements in the order of 80 per cent could very well become the bench mark for further wage negotiations as well. Notice has been served by 390 grain inspectors employed by the Public Service of Canada that their wage offer of 11.5 per cent over a 27 month period is unacceptable when compared with the settlement achieved by grain handlers who work side by side. Whether their demands are justified or not a strike, or a slowdown, by inspectors would be yet another severe blow for the grains industry, one which the economy of Canada and the producers of Canada can ill afford.

There is no question that inflationary pressures are directly responsible for the sizeable demands made by unions and until they are brought under control, this country will be plagued by strained labour-management relations, walk-outs, slowdowns and disruptions which cause irreparable harm to the whole of the Canadian economy.

One of the very real dangers that exists however, is that many settlements may very well go beyond that which is necessary to keep up with rising costs based on projections of present inflation rates. This will not only ensure the perpetuation of a high rate of inflation but can very well accelerate the pace of inflation. That would be to nobody's advantage. The Minister of Finance has stated, "It is important that we work to develop a national consensus in support of working out a fair and reasonable balance between wages, prices and profits that would best serve the common interest of us all."

I am sure that Canadians are desperately waiting for that kind of leadership to be demonstrated by their federal government.

Arnold and Edna Jones motored to Lacombe on Sat. Oct. 12th where Arnold played in the orchestra for a wedding dance and Edna visited their niece, Betty Jones.

Weather continues dry and somewhat cooler than last week and most farmers have most of their combining finished and are busy with baling and getting their greenfeed in for the winter feeding. Oats and barley have mostly been very light and doesn't pay to combine or thrash but are needed for feed for livestock. This makes two years of poor harvest for the farmers and with cattle price dropping is a real disaster to most.

Kindergarten makes its "opening" plans

The first Eager Beaver Kindergarten parent meeting was held on Thursday, October 11th at the Tofield School Library

The chairman, Mrs. Maureen McKernan welcomed everyone and expressed gratitude for the excellent turn-out of parents

Mrs McKernan explained that Barb Koop had to resign her executive position due to a family move and Shirley Gill had been appointed as new treasurer. Gail Pittet then accepted the post of Publicity Chairman.

The executive committee is now as follows: Maureen McKernan—Chairman: Coral Rarka—Vice Chairman: Cecilie Gannan—Secretary: Shirley Gill—Treasurer Gail Pittet—Publicity Chairman

Shirley Gill reported that $87.20 had been realized in the recent Flea Market.

Dr Gannon congratulated the executive on all their hard work and success and was pleased to say such an excellent parent turn out. He also mentioned that the Kindergarten was fortunate to have such a capable teacher as Mrs. Strong

Mrs Strong then briefly outlined her program for the year. She explained that Kindergarten would commence with teacher-parent and child interviews. One parent per family will be taking their turn as volunteer parent assistants to help the teacher with the activities and supervision of recess and lunch hour. Mrs Strong also stated that organized play is an important part to the Kindergarten program

The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Marilyn Stacey, who was a former Kindergarten teacher. Mrs Stacey spoke on pratical suggestions and ideas towards parent involvement. As a basic rule she suggested, Never do for your child what he is capable of doing for himself. Another important keynote in her presentation was Take time to listen to your child

Following the meeting the parents were invited to stay for coffee and visit the kindergarten room

For most goods and service consumers are encouraged to "Buy now and pay later", but for the vital service of educating your children it's pay now and learn later.

As soon as a youngster starts in school, parents should begin planning and start accumulating funds for a higher education.

The cost of four years in some universities, including room and board, is now more than $20,000 compared to about $6,000 only 15 years ago. Even state-supported schools can cost up to $15,000 for out of state students.

Julius Jensen, head of one large mutual investment firm says that rising tuitions have been a major motivation of new mutual fund buyers. The chairman of another fund urges parents to start a systematic program of investment in their youngsters' future at the earliest time.

Money saving steps such as enrollment in local community and junior colleges, eliminating room and board, can help ease the financial strain, but it's still going to be necessary to have funds available in advance.

It takes early planning to avoid the financial pinch of a higher education, regardless of the type of education your child will choose.

Those who plan ahead, systematically accumulating the needed sum, can get through their children's college years without wrecking their lifestyle.

Readers' questions are welcome and should be sent to P.O. Box 3075, London, Ontario.

Haukedals celebrate "golden anniversary"

Golden wedding celebrations were held on Sunday, October 13th, at the Tofield Community Hall for Albert and Agnes Haukedal. They were married December 24th, 1924 with the bride's sister, Mrs. Hannah Sand of Edmonton, and the groom's brother, Joe Haukedal of Wetaskiwin participating as attendants. Both were also present fifty years later.

On the occasion of the winter wedding in 1924, the bride and groom boarded the train at the Bardo station and slipped off to Camrose for the ceremony. On their return to Bardo later that day, Albert, the Bardo grain buyer, was greeted by Tom Rorum who had a load of grain to be unloaded. This was done and so began their married life. They have lived in the Tofield area since that time, and are presently residing in Tofield.

A total of 300 friends and relatives gathered to wish them well after fifty years of marriage. Guests arrived from Acadia Valley, Bassano, Calgary, Camrose, Devon, Donalda, Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan, Grande Prairie, Holden, Kingman, La Glace, New Norway, New Westminster, B.C., Rosalind, Round Hill, Ryley, St. Albert, Sherwood Park, South Cooking Lake, Stettler, Viking and Wetaskiwin.

The entire Albert Haukedal family attended. These included their two daughters, Corrine Innes of Calgary, and Eula Regehr of Sherwood Park as well as four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Celebrations were begun the evening before with a dinner in their honour at the home of Gerry and Eula Regehr. Family presentations were made after the dinner.

Congratulatory messages were received from Prime Minister Trudeau, Governor-General Leger, Conservative Leader Stanfield, Don Mazankowski, MP, Premier Lougheed and Lieutenant Governor Steinhauer.

The honoured couple expressed their happiness and gratitude to their many friends and relatives who came to help them celebrate and wish them well on this special occasion.

Cheaper phone rates now on Saturday too

New special rates for long distance telephone calls within Alberta will apply throughout the whole weekend, for a 6-month trial period commencing November 2, 1974. Alberta Government Telephones is extending the popular "Sunday 50" long distance calling plan to "Weekend 50", which will be in effect from Friday midnight, all day Saturday and Sunday, until 6:00 a.m. Monday morning.

Calls to any number within the province while "Weekend 50" rates are in effect, will have a maximum 50 cents charge for the first 3 minutes, and up to 16 cents for each additional minute.

The low "Weekend 50" long distance rate applies to "station-to-station" calls placed by customers who do not yet have Direct Distance Dialing service in their area. However, where DDD service is available, "station-to-station" calls placed through the operator are not subject to this special rate. All other types of calls not subject to "Weekend 50" rates are collect, person-to-person, third party billing, credit card, pay phone, time-and-charges and mobile.

The "Weekend 50" rate plan should help to alleviate phone circuit congestion during peak calling hours Sunday evening.

Continuation of reduced rates for Saturday long distance calling will depend upon results of this trial period.

Cow-calf operators to get extended aid

Agriculture Minister Hugh Horner and Provincial Treasurer Gordon Miniely announced on Friday that chartered banks will take part in administration of the recently announced program of cash advances to Alberta cow-calf operators.

Mr. Miniely said the move would give cow-calf operators the option of dealing with their own bank or any of the Treasury Branches throughout the province.

The program announced October 15 is designed to provide working capital to carry lightweight calves to heavier weights and thus avoid disastrously low prices prevailing in the feeder market.

All Alberta cow-calf producers, including purebred breeders and dairy producers, where they meet requirements, will be eligible. Application forms will be available and accepted at county, municipal district, improvement district and special area offices in which the farm residence is located.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Campbell of Leduc were Sunday guests with Marjorie's mother Mrs. Bea Campbell who went back to Leduc with them and planned to visit with them until the end of the week.

Robert Taylor of Viking was a Sunday visitor the past week with his parents Mr. and Mrs. G.H. Taylor after being in Edmonton for the afternoon visiting with his wife, Merle who is a patient in Charles Camsell hospital after having had surgery.

A pioneer resident of the Holden district George Albrecht passed away in Viking at the age of 90 years. He is survived by three sons John and Elmer of Holden, Peter of Blue Ridge, four daughters Mrs. Caroline Mohr of Fort Sask, Mrs. Leah Dreitza and Mrs. Betty Sommerfeld of Stony Plain and Mrs. Tom (Racheal) Lane of Vancouver, B.C., 23 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren. The funeral service was held Thursday, October 24th at the Salem United Church north of Holden with Rev. R. Seal of Vegreville officiating and interment was in the church cemetery. Mr. Albrecht and family farmed for many years north of Holden. Mr. and Mrs. then retired from farming and resided in Holden for several years. Mr. Albrecht moved to Vialta Lodge when his health made it impossible to live in his house in Holden alone and he had been resident for over the past year in the nursing home in Viking when his health worsened.

A lovely miscellaneous shower was held Friday evening, Oct. 25th in the Lutheran Church parlors to honor Miss Linda Olson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Olson, whose forthcoming marriage takes place Nov. 9th, to Thomas Alexander Sabroski of Edmonton. Mrs. Jim Roddick

The annual meeting of the Community League is to be held on November 13, at 8:30 p.m.

Six new members are to be elected for the league and as it is also the annual meeting of the hall board, one new member is to be elected for it also, as Baden Bowerman's term has expired. Plan to attend this meeting.

A very lovely shower was held Saturday afternoon in the hall for Linda Herald of Wainwright who becomes the bride of Harvey Kleinschroth on November 9th. Hostesses were Mrs. Russell Wilson, Mrs. Ralph Leach, Mrs. Joe Davenport and Mrs. Bill Roddick. They were assisted by all the young girls of the area. Many lovely gifts were received by the bride to be, and were graciously thanked for.

The Halloween dance sponsored by the Community League was a most enjoyable and well attended affair.

Many came in costume and when judging time came it was a difficult job for the judges, who were Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Morrow of Deville and Mrs. Norman Penrice of Ardrossan.

For the best dressed couple, Baden and Joyce Bowerman were prize winners being dressed as young teen agers.

Most comical, Linda Paterson and Barbara Kleinschroht dressed as two bad boys and played their parts well all evening. Most original prizes went to Delsie Holmes as a bush pilot and Rita Loch as a honey-bee.

A lovely buffet supper was served and enjoyed by all in attendance. Mrs. Bruno Jeske was convenor and was awarded a big thank you for her efforts.

Last week we mentioned that J.D. Morrow of Deville was elected councillor for this area of Strathcona county. Now he has been appointed as Deputy Reeve of the county, a great honor for him.

Catechism classes are well underway for the season, with pupils meeting every Tuesday after school at the Joe Davenport home. There are eleven pupils in classes, 1 to 4 and 7. Teachers are Mrs. Joe Davenport, Phyllis Davenport and Mrs. John Heitman.

This Friday, Nov. 1st, is Bazaar night. Tickets are selling well on the gift certificate raffle and plans are completed for same.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Usher of Edmonton were Sunday guests of Mrs. S. George.

Donna Leach of Camrose spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leach and brother, Brian. She attended the shower for Linda Herald and the Halloween dance while home.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Leach and Chester returned home Tuesday after a nine-day motor trip to Vancouver and many points in B.C.

Linda Paterson, Marie Williams, Cheryl Swabey and Patricia Holmes spent the weekend at their respective homes, also attending Linda Herald's shower and the Halloween dance.

Happy Halloween

October 31st is the night when ghosts and goblins appear. Witches mix their magic brew, manner of strange people walk upon the earth.

Can we think of nutrition and hallowe'en treats? Popcorn, sunflower seeds, nuts, fruit, etc. Are good choices for hand-outs. Try these.

Pumpkin Treats

- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1½ cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. ginger
- ½ tsp. allspice
- ¼ tsp salt
- ½ cup canned pumpkin
- ½ cup currants
- ½ cup chopped walnuts.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg and beat until well blended. Sift together flour, baking powder, spices and salt. Add currants and nuts. Add dry ingredients to first mixture alternately with pumpkin. Mix thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a well oiled baking sheet. Bake at 350F for 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: 2 to 3 dozen cookies.

It is always good to think about safety at Hallow'en. Small children should be accompanied by an adult as they make their rounds. Do you know where your children are at Hallowe'en?

Make sure that your child's costume is safe. The costume should fit so that movement is possible. Can your child trip on the costume? Is it a fire hazard? Is it warm enough? Can your child be seen in the dark? You might put some pieces of reflector tape on the costume to make your child more visible. It is recommended that you don't use a full face mask. Some of them make breathing difficult. A half mask or better yet makeup is safer. Your child will be able to see better without a mask. This might be a good time to review safe walking and street crossing habits.

It is a good idea to have children wait until they are home before they sample their treats. This gives you a chance to inspect the loot and remove any harmful items. We all remember the razor blade scares of the past number of years. Some control over the number of treats eaten at one time would be good for both the child and you.

Happy Hallowe'en.

Sewing Course

There will be basic sewing course held in the Ryley School Home-Ec Lab on November 11, 18th 25th, Dec 2nd and 9th. The class will be from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. Fee is $3.00.

The minimum number of participants is eight and the maximum is 15. Call 663-3555 and pre-register if you are interested.

It is generally considered that threshold reserves of 25 to 30 trillion cubic feet of gas in the Arctic Islands and 10 to 15 trillion cubic feet in the Mackenzie Delta are required to justify pipeline construction to southern markets. Present consensus is that half the required threshold reserve has been found in the Mackenzie Delta and one-third the required reserve in the Arctic Islands. Oil discoveries have been minor in both areas.

Norman Wells has the only producing oilfield in the Canadian North. Discovered in 1920s, with current reserves of about 45 million barrels, it produces about one million barrels a year to supply local fuel needs and much of the fuel for exploration

Snow mould and Fairy Rings can be prevented by treatment

A. Red Deer District Agriculturist says many home owners are concerned about lawn disease prevention.

Gordon McNaughton says the most devasting turf disease is snow mould, caused by a fungus that is active only during winter season. The disease develops at low temperatures and produces web-like patches on the lawn surface. He says snow mould is more prevalent on Creeping Red Fescue, Bent Grasses, Annual Bluegrass and Red Top than Kentucky Bluegrass, which shows some natural resistance.

Mr McNaughton says mould can be prevented by applying a 2 to 1 mixture of calomel and corrosive sublimate to the grass at the rate of 3 - 4 oz. per 1,000 square feet. For best results the material should be applied in the early fall, and mixed with a carrier for easy spreading.

The disease Fairy Rings is also causing problems. This disease is caused by a mushroom fungus which if allowed to develop, will cause circular or sometimes crescent shaped patches of dead turf. The infected areas increase in size progressively from the centre and in the early stages show up as bright green rings. Later the turf inside the rings becomes thin turns yellow and eventually dies out.

Recommended control measures involve punching 6" deep holes through the turf and following up with several heavy applications of water at one or two intervals.

Tofield teachers to host ceremony

By Grace Phillips

With president Anne Taylor in the chair, the Tofield sub-local of the Alberta Teachers' Association held its regular October meeting in the school library on Wednesday, October 23.

From the recent meeting of the Beaver Local, Mrs Taylor reported that a new indexed handbook had been published and that the Beaver Local exchange trophy, now in the making, would soon be available

Holden sub-local is the present holder of the trophy as the result of a 29-7 win over the Tofield sub-local football team on October 15

The next challenge has been issued by the Ryley sub-local which has declared that the trophy will be awarded to the sub-local having the largest percentage of its members present at the induction ceremonies which will be held in November in Ryley

Plans for the induction ceremonies and subsequent entertainment were announced by Mrs Taylor. They will be held in the Ryley Legion Hall with the Tofield sub-local as hosts. The Ryley Lions' Club and the Legion Ladies will assist in serving. The Country Cousins will play for the dance which complete's the evening's program.

It was suggested that, in view of Alberta's excellent financial condition, much more money should be diverted to education. Sub-locals and members were urged to make their views known to their MLA and to the Government of Alberta

Foreign dishes are prepared by students

By Grace Phillips

Thirty parents were guests of the Grade VB class and their teacher, Donald Kondrat at a "World Foods Dinner" in the library of the Tofield School on Monday.

The dinner, a smorgasbord, was the culmination of a class study of the origins of words. The names of foods have interesting origins, the class decided, so how better to illustrate what they had learned than through the preparation and sharing of national dishes?

So, on Monday, a long buffet table in the library displayed roast beef (England), sukiyaki (Japan), oatmeal bread (Scotland), Scotch broth, also from Scotland, lasagna (Italy) cabbage rolls (Ukraine), Borsch (Russia) French bread and french fries, rice (China), French Canadian meat pie, Spanish rice, chili, Swedish rye bread, Canadian apple pie, chicken chop suey, chili con carne, potatoes, zwieback and pluma moos.

A long line of student, their parents and guests filled up their plates and retired to tables to enjoy the sampling of national foods, the students obviously proud and happy that their long-planned-for event had turned out so successfully.

Holden's fall carnival has "queen" candidates

The Holden and District Agricultural Society is sponsoring a Fall Carnival on November 15th and 16th in the Community Hall.

The committees are busily preparing for the gala event. The festivities will begin on Friday, November 15th, with a turkey supper followed by bingo and other games of chance. Advance tickets for the supper are being sold with a lucky ticket holder receiving a [illegible] prize. Admission tickets will also be sold at the door.

Five Holden High School girls are competing for the honor of being crowned "Carnival Queen" — Janie Gara, [illegible] Gabrillians, Lorna Russell, Kelly Simmonds, Janice Stowski.

The contestants are busy selling tickets as each ticket sold means a vote closer to being a Carnival Queen.

On Saturday November 16th, an evening of games of chance, dancing, and refreshments will be enjoyed, with the crowning of the Carnival Queen to be the highlight of the evening.

All proceeds will be used towards the completion of the Holden and District Recreational Building.

Hockey school is big success

Tofield's minor hockey school, for boys 9-16 years, held October 21-30 was a huge success with 68 boys attending.

The Edmonton Old Timers Hockey Club conducted the ten-day clinic, supplying instructors and showing hockey films in the evenings.

The clinic ended with teams being picked for a final scrimmage with the three stars of the day being Lionel Williams, Cameron Boergen and Craig Solberg.

The three players judged to have shown the most improvement during the clinic were Leonard Komar, Tony Romaniuk and Robert Young.

Credit for the organization and success of the school was given to Allan Warner, Don Roth and Henry Nachtigal.

Making the rounds

Several Tofield youngsters began their rounds early on Hallowe'en evening, such as these boys coming out of the Diamond Cafe. Other groups of costumed children were to be seen hurrying up and down the streets before the stores closed, and the parade of characters soon presented themselves at all the residences in town as darkness fell.

Take steps to protect north environment

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development has moved to ensure that major development projects in the Territories will not cause serious environmental damage. After the announcement in 1972 that the Mackenzie Highway will be extended to Tuktoyaktuk, the Mackenzie Highway committee was formed to oversee the project. This committee's environmental working group, consisting of environmental specialists from several federal departments and the NWT government, is thoroughly reviewing the design of the highway and its related structures to ensure it is environmentally acceptable. Highway construction cannot commence until a land use permit has been issued by the NWT land use committee in Yellowknife. This committee works in close consultation with the environmental working group.

ENVIRONMENT

When buying a 1975 car, consider 6 important facts.

Cars equipped with catalytic converters require the use of unleaded gasoline. Unleaded gasoline is not readily available. However, all Ford of Canada carlines have been engineered without catalytic converters and can run on any gasoline — regular, premium or unleaded. Read the full story.

1 Cars equipped with catalytic converters require the use of unleaded gasoline.

In order to meet the new Canadian exhaust emission standards some 1975 cars are equipped with a catalytic converter, which is an emission control device that requires the use of more expensive unleaded gasoline.

2 Unleaded gasoline is not readily available.

Although unleaded gasoline may be available at up to [illegible] of gasoline stations in some major urban centres, it will be substantially less in rural areas. The Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce [illegible] dated June 1974 [illegible] a national [illegible] unleaded gasoline will be available at 8 [illegible] stations in Canada, as of October 1, 1974.

3 Government sources had this to say regarding 1975-1976 Canadian emission control standards.

The Federal Government plans to require emission controls for 1975-model cars in Canada that will produce a further reduction of 5% in exhaust emissions but will neither require use of catalytic converters nor result in any further reduction in fuel economy.

The new proposed Canadian 1975 automobile emission standards, while they will be more stringent than the present 1973 standards, will not be as stringent as the proposed U.S. 1975 standards.

The proposed 1975 standards for Canada will not require use of any catalytic converters.

The federal announcement yesterday said that the 1975 Canadian emission standards can be accomplished by the use of such devices as early fuel evaporation, electronic ignitions, and improved carburetors.

"If catalytic converters are not required on Canadian cars there will be less of a demand for unleaded gasoline in Canada."

From a press report published in The Globe & Mail, July 20, 1973.

The Ministry of Transport has stated "that the Ministry intends to enforce in the year 1976, the same automobile exhaust emission standards as are being established for 1975."

-- Excerpt from a Department of Transport letter to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, dated February 20, 1974

4 All Ford of Canada carlines have been engineered to run on any gasoline and meet the new 1975 Canadian emission control standards without requiring catalytic converters.

There's a significant difference between Canada and the United States in exhaust emission standards for 1975 cars.

The Canadian Government decided to adopt more reasonable emission standards than those in the United States, which meant that catalytic converters were not necessary to meet the Canadian standards.

So for 1975, Ford of Canada decided not to follow suit with Ford in the United States – although it would have been much easier (and less costly) to do so.

Ford of Canada's decision to minimize the need for catalytic converters in Canada shows our real concern for you, the motorist.

We decided to offer cars without catalytic converters because a) a catalytic converter could be an extra expense for you, b) the unleaded fuel that's required for catalytic converters is in limited supply in Canada, and, c) unleaded gasoline is more expensive than the lower priced regular.

Now, in order to meet the 1975 Canadian exhaust emission standards, without the use of catalytic converters, Ford of Canada invested over $1 million in an extensive program involving significant engineering changes, additional complexity in our assembly plants and other special programs.

The result is that all engines (with the exception of one – the optional 2.8 litre V6), for all 1975 lines of Ford of Canada cars, meet the standards, without requiring catalytic converters, and do so while running on any gasoline – unleaded, premium or the lower priced regular.

Ford of Canada feels that this will mean a lot to motorists who are not able to find unleaded gasoline in their normal driving and fuel-shopping patterns. Particularly, those who live in rural areas, or are travelling to the cottage or ski slopes – where unleaded gasoline availability is substantially less than major urban centres.

5 These "Economy Extenders" have been engineered into every 1975 Ford and Mercury carline.

In addition to the convenience of being able to use any gasoline, anywhere, a number of features, which we call "Economy Extenders", have been engineered into every 1975 Ford of Canada carline. These include: • Solid state ignition that eliminates the points and condenser and improves fuel economy over long periods due to a more stable spark plug performance • Improved engine tuning on many engines which results in better fuel economy and performance • Optimized rear axle ratios that contribute to less engine wear and lower fuel consumption by proper matching to load and use requirements • Steel-belted radial tires that extend tread life and reduce rolling friction for better gas mileage.

In addition, extended service intervals contribute to reduced maintenance requirements, and therefore, lower operating costs.

6 Right now, Ford and Mercury dealers can give fast delivery on cars in stock which run on any gasoline — unleaded, premium or the lower priced regular.

Ford and Mercury dealers can give you fast delivery of a new 1975 car from the large stock they have on hand right now. We're sure there's the model you want, in the colour you want equipped with the options you want to meet your personal needs. And no matter where you are in Canada or wherever you're going, you can use the gasoline that's available: unleaded, premium or the lower priced regular.

When you choose from a 1975 Ford or Mercury carline, it's nice to know you can settle for any gasoline, anywhere.

The six worst mistakes

People in the later years of their lives often say: "If I'd only known then what I know now." Cicero, the great Roman orator, wise man and philosopher, at the full ripeness of his maturity, set forth what he considered to be the six most drastic mistakes made by men in the course of their lives. So, no matter what your age, remember these six mistakes, avoid making them and you'll be an eminently successful person. Cicero's six mistakes.

1 The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others. People love this one. One of the reasons so many people cling to this ridiculous old myth is that it can be a marvelous alibi for doing nothing.

2 The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.

3 Insisting that a thing is impossible because we cannot do it ourselves.

4 Refusing to set aside trivial preferences. Here's where interpersonal problems so often arise.

5 Neglecting development and refinement of the mind, and not acquiring the habit of reading and study. No use even commenting on that one. It's the world's biggest club, and

6 Attempting to compel others to believe and live as we do. The six worst mistakes of man as put down by Marcus Tullius Cicero, the great Roman orator and philosopher, who lived from 106 to 43 B.C.

This is why it's great to study the wise men of the past. The problems they were concerned with were human problems - and human problems don't change all that much. His six mistakes of man are still the same mistakes of man, two thousand years later. In case you can't remember all six, let me run over them quickly again - they're worth remembering.

1) The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others.

2) The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.

3) Insisting that a thing is impossible because we cannot do it ourselves.

4) Refusing to set aside trivial preferences. That reminds me of the time a large company gave all its employees free turkeys for Christmas. Many of the employees were angry because the turkeys they received weighed a little less than those received by some of the other employees. Trying to explain to them that it is impossible to buy turkeys in that quantity which all weigh the same would be futile.

5) Neglecting development and refinement of the mind, and not acquiring the habit of reading and study. It is believed that many people think of reading and study as hard work to be assiduously avoided. Only those who do it know the fun, joy and the rich reward that can come to us in no other way. And finally,

6) Attempting to compel others to believe and live as we do. The crimes that have been committed, the millions who have died because of this one, are impossible to even imagine. More than a billion people live in slavery today because of this mistake.

Says students at Kingman deserve bus

The question period in the Alberta Legislature brought up the discussion of increased assistance to small rural high schools. The Minister indicated that these schools were receiving grants to maintain their existence.

Clover Bar M.L.A. Walt Buck then asked if the government was prepared to assist people such as the Kingman people who wish to by-pass their small high school to attend the large composite school in Camrose. The people in the Kingman area have tried unsuccessfully to receive assistance transporting their children to Camrose.

The M.L.A. feels that parents should have this freedom of choice as to where their children may go to school.

This assistance should in addition be extended to pre-school children with a physical handicap, Dr Buck stated.

Man, that ain't hay!

Gordon Stromberg felt pretty relieved on Friday, but proud at the same time, as he unloaded the responsibility of carrying two provincial government cheques worth more than $800,000. Ken Gerber, centre, received a cheque for $480,842.11 as part of the government's contribution to development of the Ankerton Gas Co-operative, while Peter Spady accepted a cheque in the amount of $312,367.74 for the South Flagstaff system. —Camrose Canadian Newsphoto.

With continued dry weather, farmers are continuing baling and hauling in their straw and greenfeed from their fields and some are working the land for spring.

This year's long fall without rain or snow and with temperatures well above freezing in the daytime has been a blessing to so many as it means a shorter period of feeding livestock when they can feed on the fields.

New concept in emergency resuscitation

A RESUSCITATOR which is normal oxygen cylinder usage as well as being portable includes all accessories for emergency medical treatment is marketed by Medical Developments Pty Ltd

A major proportion of all ministered oxygen from ordinary sources is required solely to flush out carbon dioxide from the patient With the Kenneasoff Oxy-Resuscitator, the removal of expired carbon dioxide is achieved by chemical means employing a polycarbonate carbon dioxide absorber. In this way there is no wastage of oxygen.

In addition to providing a long supply of oxygen, the unit is fitted with all the accessories needed for emergency resuscitation.

These include a blood pressure manometer and cuff; airways, endotracheal tubes; a powerful Venturi suction unit; laryngoscope with child and adult blades; and stethoscope. All housed in the base of the fiberglass case.

It is automatic in operation and simply requires the oxygen cylinder to be turned on. The flow control is pre-set. If a higher flow is needed, this can be adjusted by turning the control knob, or by depressing a push-button by-pass.

By incorporating an optional oxygen, a Kenneasoff bi-directional vaporiser in the circuit of the Oxy- Resuscitator, it is possible to provide pain relief in various conditions simultaneously to the administration of 100 per cent oxygen.

The unit is used by medical and dental practitioners, ambulances, first aid stations, sporting organisations, beach patrols, as well as in the home for patients with cardiac or respiratory disease.

About fourteen percent of Canada's harvested forests are regenerated by artificial methods and the balance by natural means.

Booklet lists alternatives farm marketing

A publication entitled "Alberta Farm Business" is being sent to all farmers in the province by the Alberta Grain Commission.

Commissioner Chairman John Channon says the publication is designed to help farmers choose the marketing method best suited to their particular situation. It outlines six key features of all feed grain and oilseeds marketing alternatives, lists timely market information sources and discusses options open to purchasers.

Community League

By Grace Phillips

Plans for the activities of the approaching Christmas season are the main topic of discussion at the regular November meeting of the Tofield Community League held on Tuesday with president, Bob Moos in the chair and ten members present.

It was decided that the building committee of the League would be responsible for the acquiring of cement steps for the side exit of the Community Centre.

As for many years past, the League will sponsor the annual Christmas Carol Festival. Henry Schroeder will be in charge; this year he will have the assistance of Bill Simon, of the Tofield School staff.

The Community Christmas Card will be set up in the window of the Community Centre for those residents who wish to convey Christmas greetings to their friends in Tofield. Donations for this purpose may be left with John Baergen at the Tofield Co-op, or with Bert Everitt at Everitt's Foodland.

Treasurer Hans Christensen's report showed that the League was barely managing to meet expenses. Though the recent bingo was poorly attended, but, another bingo is planned for Wednesday November 13, with W. A. Swift and J. C. Lampitt in charge. There will be a $40 jackpot, and 16 games for $2.00. The annual Christmas Turkey Bingo is planned for Wednesday, December 11 with H. E. Christensen, W. M. Christensen and Bob Moos in charge.

J. A. Whyte, reporting for the theatre committee, said that attendance at the shows had been better during September and October.

The New Year's dance came up for discussion, but plans were not finalized.

COUNTY OF BEAVER

School and School Bus Operations During Storms

1. Schools in the County of Beaver will operate on all regular schools days. Should school busses not operate due to hazardous road conditions, teachers, town pupils, and rural pupils who can be transported safely to school by their parents will be expected to attend.

2. Should an over-night storm cause blocked roads or the serious danger of blocked roads, school bus runs will be cancelled. Radio messages prior to 7:00 a.m. and thereafter will inform parents of the cancellation. Radio stations CFCW (Camrose) and CJCA (Edmonton) will broadcast messages.

3. Should it be necessary to send pupils home by school bus at some time during the school day because of stormy conditions, these procedures will be followed:
   A. The principal of the school has authority to send school busses home at any time during the school day.
   B. Radio stations CFCW and CJCA will broadcast messages that rural pupils are enroute home.
   C. Parents, school bus drivers and others who are informed on road conditions are asked to telephone the Principal, the County Councillor or the County Office at Ryley should they suspect that stormy conditions will block roads.

4. Road and weather conditions vary considerably throughout the County. For this reason, each school will operate independently under that procedure. It is possible that morning runs may be cancelled at some schools and not at others. Similarly, busses may be routed home during the school day at some schools and not at others.

5. Parents are reminded that it is their right to decide whether or not their children will get on the bus in the morning should conditions be stormy or hazardous.

6. Please be certain that all pupils are dressed adequately warm each day. A school bus can become stranded on any given day due to road conditions or mechanical breakdown.

Ketchamoot closes its mutual 'phone company

On Nov 7th another chapter was closed for some of the pioneers of the Ketchamoot district.

The Stirrett Mutual Telephone Company met to finalize business and disband after just over forty years of operation.

Mutual telephone companies were formed in the thirties when farmers found that they were unable to meet monthly telephone rates. Lines were then obtained from the government and maintained by the members of the new mutual organizations.

The original charge on this being paid to A.G.T. to allow hook-up to the main lines. Over the years, the Stirrett Mutual rates never went higher than $1.25 per month.

On reading the original minutes, names appeared which are well known in the district today — names such as Stirrett, Harrison, Ingram, Schultz, McGinitie, Sears, Henderson, Coombes, Mitchell, Sutton.

Many of the same families were represented at the last meeting. Mrs. Agnes McGinitie, the only original member, states that they had "a barbed wire" phone for some years.

In 1964, the lines were rebuilt by the members and dial phones purchased and installed. At this time, the members also included P. Foyd, E. Carlisle, G. McMann, I. Mitchell and G. Kyle.

In 1973, the A.G.T. crews putting in buried telephone lines reached this area, and members met and decided to obtain underground lines.

To do this, the Stirrett Mutual was disbanded and A.G.T. once again supplies telephone services.

Heart Foundation

Where it's at with heart attack

"We know certain things, we think we know others, and we know what we need to know," Dr Robert Schlant said to 200 doctors and nurses gathered in Calgary recently for a Cardiac Symposium. Dr Schlant, Director of the Division of Cardiology at Emory U. in Atlanta Georgia, is an international authority on heart disease, and co-author of the medical text-book, "The Heart."

"There are definite risk factors that are well established, but many others that are not yet identified," he told his audience. Dr Schlant said that heart disease is not caused by any one single thing. A patient may have one risk factor that is affecting him, while the same risk might not have the same effect on another person because he had inherited different genes.

The risk factors in heart disease that can't be controlled are a persons age, their sex, and their inherited genes. A fifty year old man, for example runs four times the risk of heart attack as a man of thirty. Before the woman's movement, heart attacks had been five times more common in men than women, prior to menopause. As women become more liberated, the incidence of heart attacks occurring in younger females is increasing.

The other risk factor that can't yet be controlled is the inheritance factor. Dr. Schlant said that, "you inherit genes just as you inherit a nose. If you come from a family whose parents lived to be 95 years old, you may not have to pay as much attention to risk factors as you should if your parents died at a young age."

However, he said, there are risk factors that have been identified as conditions that do increase the chance of a heart attack or stroke. These factors appear to increase the buildup of fatty accumulation, or plaque formation, in the arteries.

High blood fats are a major cause of this accumulation according to Dr. Schlant. "The lower your cholesterol, the better you are," he said.

High blood pressure is another major risk factor, and one that can be easily controlled if diagnosed. "Unfortunately, too many people are walking around with high blood pressure without being aware of their condition," he said.

Cigarette smoking is a well known risk factor, although the exact reason has yet to be identified. But there is no doubt that a North Americans chance of heart attack increases with the number of cigarettes smoked.

There is one area of Japan, Dr Schlant said, where the residents are heavy smokers but have a low incidence of heart disease. He said this may be because of different tobacco, different chemical sprays used on the tobacco plants, or simply because the people eat very little animal fat. These are only a few of the areas that are being investigated for further answers to the causes of heart disease.

"Moderate obesity by itself does not appear to be a risk factor," said Dr. Schlant. However obesity appears to be a risk because overweight people often have higher blood pressure, high cholesterol, or are heavy smokers.

Stress imposed by personality types was discussed by Dr. Schlant. He referred to a San Francisco researcher who has identified the Type A person, an ambitious extrovert, as prone to heart attack. When questioned on how a Type A personality could change to a more easy going Type B, the researcher has said to ask yourself under moments of stress: "Will this make any difference in 5 years? If not - forget it!"

Dr Schlant's talk on risk factors was one of the most popular sessions at the Cardiac Symposium. Sponsored by the Alberta Heart Foundation and the University of Calgary, the symposium attracted doctors and nurses throughout Alberta and B.C. Physicians attending from such diverse points as St. Paul, Tabor and Kelowna agreed with Dr. Schlant when he commended the Alberta Heart Foundation for bringing the latest developments to people in practice. He urged the doctors to make extensive use of the resource books available through the Heart Foundation. "With their help," he said "you will be able to bring the best possible cardiovascular care to your patients."

Tofield couple celebrate 50 years of marriage

Golden wedding celebrations were held on Sunday, October 13th, at the Tofield Community Hall for Albert and Agnes Haukedal. They were married December 24th, 1924 with the bride's sister, Mrs. Hannah Sand of Edmonton and the groom's brother, Joe Haukedal of Wetaskiwin participating as attendants. Both were also present these fifty years later.

On the occasion of the winter wedding in 1924, the bride and groom boarded train at the Bardo station and slipped off to Camrose for the ceremony. On their return to Bardo later that day, Albert, the Bardo grain buyer, was greeted by Mr Tom Rorum who had a load of grain to be unloaded. This was done and so began their married life. They have lived in the Tofield area since that time, and are presently residing in Tofield.

A total of 300 friends and relatives gathered to wish them well after these fifty years of marriage. Guests arrived from Acadia Valley, Bassano, Calgary, Camrose, Devon, Donalda, Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan, Grande Prairie, Holden, Kingman, La Glace, New Norway, New Westminster, B.C., Rosalind, Round Hill, Ryley, St. Albert, Sherwood Park, South Cooking Lake, Stettler, Viking and Wetaskiwin.

The entire Albert Haukedal family attended. These included their two daughter Corrine Innes of Calgary, Eula Regehr of Sherwood Park as well as four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Celebrations were begun the evening before with a dinner in their honour at the home of Gerry and Eula Regehr. Family presentations were made after the dinner.

Congratulatory messages were received from Prime Minister Trudeau, Governor-General Leger, Conservative Leader Stanfield, Don Mazankowski, M.P., Premier Lougheed and Lieutenant Governor Steinhauer.

Finnerty opposes Socred's request

Dr. Walter Buck, Social Credit MLA for Clover Bar, requested in debate in the Alberta Legislature last week that the Hon. Hugh Horner, Minister of Agriculture make public the names of farmers who have received loans from the Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation and the reasons why approval was given.

Murray Finnerty, Progressive Conservative Candidate in Clover Bar, stated in a recent press release that he was emphatically opposed to revealing the personal financial affairs of individual Alberta farmers who have received ADC loans.

Mr Finnerty stated "surely farmers are as entitled as anyone else to privacy in their dealings with lending institutions. I just cannot accept that farmers in our area should be subjected to this and I am sure many farmers will agree with me."

Churchmen endorse idea of food for hungry world

Gathered in Banff October 14-17 in a Western Ecumenical Consultation, church leaders from all over Western Canada passed the following resolution and encouraged its distribution throughout Western Canada: present from Camrose was Rev. J. Robert Jacobson of Bethel Lutheran Church.

The resolution reads as follows:

Whereas Canada as a major grain exporter occupies a strategic position in the present food crisis, and

Whereas this represents an awesome responsibility before God and suffering humanity, and

Whereas this responsibility applies in a special way to Western Canadians many of whom are Christian:

Therefore be it resolved that at this Western Ecumenical Consultation we commit ourselves to addressing an urgent appeal to the

*Western Members of Parliament,

*The Christian Churches in Western Canada:

1) That the Canadian representatives at the World Food Conference support steps towards a new international economic order, one which provides enough food at reasonable prices for all people.

Such steps include:

*A world food bank under international control,

*Just trade policies,

*Effective aid policies which ensure that assistance reaches the intended receivers,

*Increased food production in developing countries.

*Increased food production in Canada through policies which encourage family farming.

*Just incomes for Canadian producers of food,

*Other marketing reforms, both domestic and international, to ensure the production of enough food at reasonable prices for all people.

2) That Western Members of Parliament press for these and related domestic and international policies designed to increase the production and just distribution of food.

3) That Christian Churches in Western Canada at every level publicly call for the just sharing of daily bread; and as a witness to this objective, that individuals, families and groups in Western Churches voluntarily modify life-styles and especially eating and drinking habits, in a spirit of Christian stewardship.

WHY HAVE A PARTY?

To have fun! . . . and to learn while doing. Children learn something every moment of the day. As an adult they will need to know how to entertain and how to be a guest. They will be able to do all of these things more easily if—as a child—they are exposed to social gatherings. That means a party . . . a children's party. Many mothers develop a headache at the mere thought of a children's party. At least one month before the child's birthday they plan alternate suggestions for a celebrations or lay in a stock of aspirin. Let's look at some hints in handling children's parties.

Who can come to the party? As a general rule the number of guests should equal no more than the age of a child. Thus a four year old could have four guests and a six year old—six. Children usually have decided opinions about who should come to their party infrequently, seen cousins or children of parents' friends need not be invited to the party. Adults in general should not be invited though you may ask one or two adults to help you. Remember it is your child's party. Let him invite his friends.

Choosing a theme for the party may simplify planning and allows decorations, games and food to become much less difficult to coordinate party. Try a backwards party a circus or a cowboy party.

A few simple decorations will add to the pleasure of a party. Crepe paper streamers and balloons are always [illegible] Prizes, games and refreshments [illegible] Make sure you have all supplies on hand.

Service parade

With flags dipped in honor of those who served in wars for Canada, the color party stands in silence in front of the Tofield Cenotaph at Remembrance Day services on Monday. Wide range of livestock feeds

Alberta farmers have almost as much choice when they buy feed for their livestock as when they buy their own groceries.

There are 8,000 different animal feeds registered by the federal department of agriculture for sale in Canada every year.

And, if none of those is to a farmer's liking, he can order his own custom mixes.

All feeds with two or more ingredients - except customer-formula feeds, pprescription feeds, tonics and conditioners - are regulated to ensure that when farmers buy feed, they get a safe and effective product

Feed manufactuers are required to list all the ingredients they intend to mix in a feed. They also guarantee when a certain feed is registered for sale, all batches of it meet the analysis printed on the label - that is, certain percentages of crude fat, crude fiber, trace elements and vitamins.

If there is any medication in a feed, the amount of the drug and its purpose appear on the label.

An Alberta farmer may order his own custom-mixed feed, but he cannot ask a feedmill operator to add animal drugs except in the amounts and combinations that are found to be safe by the federal health department.

With feed costs at their present high level, Alberta farmers naturally have an interest in alternate sources of protein and new feed ingredients which could cut expenses.

No bugler

Although most centres have the sounds of the bugle at their Remembrance Day services, Tofield has something rather unique. Piper Gordon Kyle renders "Lament" on his bagpipes, while Ted Stewart lowers the flag to observe two minutes silence. Alberta leads Canada in production of cattle and sheep

When it comes to cattle Alberta leads the country.

There are about 15 million cattle and calves in Canada and almost one-third of them are in Alberta — making Alberta the number one cattle-producing province.

Altogether there are 4.5 million bulls, cows, heifers, steers and calves of various breeds in the province. A year ago, the total cattle population in Alberta was 4.1 million.

Cattle production has increased by eight per cent in the prairie provinces in the last year while it has remained the same in Ontario (3.2 million cattle) and risen by only two per cent in eastern Canada as a whole.

Alberta is also number one in sheep production with 230,000 sheep and lambs. That is close to one-third of Canada's total sheep population. Ontario has 207,000 sheep and Saskatchewan has 124,000.

Twenty per cent of Canadian hogs are raised in Alberta. Ontario is the largest hog-producing province with about two million hogs on farms there at any one time. Alberta farmers have a total of 1.4 million hogs on their farms.

In dairy production, Alberta ranks third behind Quebec and Ontario. There are 167,000 milk cows in the province and 37,000 dairy heifers.

However, in beef cattle, Alberta is clearly the leader. With 1.6 million beef cows, Alberta cattle breeders own just about half of the national herd.

The province's cattlemen also have about one-third of the country's beef heifers, 30 per cent of the beef steers and 25 per cent of Canadian beef calves.

Although Alberta has a larger total beef herd than any other province, Ontario has more beef steers than Alberta — 745,000 head compared with Alberta's count of 600,000 head.

Put in different terms, the livestock count shows that Alberta has three head of cattle for every person living in the province, almost as many hogs as people and one dairy cow for every 10 people.

Keep utility costs down

Conserving energy and keeping bills down is of interest to everyone. Although most of us talk about these things, what do we do about them? Here are some practical suggestions from the Canada Standards Association.

The refrigerator will work better if you keep the condenser coil free of dust. Also vacuum the dust and cobwebs from the bottom of your refrigerator box every couple of months. And don't forget to defrost when the coating is ¼ inch thick. Ice acts as insulation and lessens cooling power. Your food in the freezer will also suffer if you don't regularly defrost.

To get the most out of your dryer, clean the lint trap after every use. Otherwise air flow is reduced and the dryer takes too long to dry. Avoid over-drying because, aside from waste, it is hard on fabrics.

When it comes to furnaces, torture tests have been carried out at CSA to make sure that your furnace, when used as intended, is safe from exhaling noxious gases, will not overheat, will not start a fire, will not leak fuel, and is accessible for servicing and cleaning. To get the most heat for your money clean the filter on a forced air furnace at least once a month. Keep radiators dust free. Don't play around with the thermostat. You don't save heat by turning the thermostat down too low overnight because the furnace has to work harder in the morning to get the floors, furniture and walls back to the right temperature. Adding moisture to the air by a humidifier reduces the need for heat.

A dripping hot water tap, at one drop a second, can add up to about 175 gallons a month. Make sure that exposed hot water pipes are insulated. Don't turn on dish washers or clothes washers until they are fully loaded. And did you know that, generally speaking, a shower uses less water than a bath?

Should you turn off lights? As Ontario Hydro says, "As long as that light is on you're using energy." If you turn a lamp on and off in quick succession you'll use more power than if you leave the light on. The best thing to do is to switch lights off if you're going to be out of the room for more than five minutes. Grimy bulbs waste power. Keep them clean and use the right bulb for the job. It's wasteful to put a 150 watt bulb in a closet. A 75 watt gives more light than two 40's.

These are all small things, easily performed, but if everybody observed a wiser and more efficient use of energy, think of the saving — in both resources and money.

Watch that anti-freeze

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet today cautioned consumers that some automotive engine coolants being marketed are not considered by vehicle manufacturers to be suitable for many recent designs of cars.

"I am advised", Mr. Ouellet stated "that the designs of cooling systems in recently produced cars are generally based on the physical properties of coolants consisting essentially of ethylene glycol and water.

"Due to the world wide shortage of [illegible] products consisting of mixtures of alcohols and glycol [illegible] as petroleum [illegible] solutions of calcium [illegible] are being marketed [illegible]," he said. Depending upon the particular vehicle [illegible] temperature and other [illegible] factors, some of [illegible] products may boil with consequent overheating and damage to the engine. Petroleum distillate products may in particular have an adverse effect on some radiator hoses and may present a fire hazard in the event of leakage. Water solutions consisting only of calcium chloride may result in very rapid corrosion of aluminum engine blocks and also in similar damage to car radiators in general.

March dates are set for "festival"

The Beaver Regional Arts Committee has planned a meeting for Monday night to plan the next festival and discuss further the festival just completed.

At a meeting earlier this month, the committee decided that the 2nd annual Music and Arts Festival should be held in March as this would be a better time of the year for rural people to participate.

Tentative dates for the 2nd festival were set at March 14, 15 and 16 with proposed alternate dates of March 7, 8 and 9.

Some problems rose during the first festival and the committee decided to try and make changes to make for a better showing in March.

Financial results of the first festival were expected to be available for next week's meeting.

Miss Janice Stokowski was the lucky contestant to be crowned "Queen" of the Carnival, sponsored by the Holden and District Agricultural Society.

The two-day carnival got underway on Friday with a turkey supper, which was very well attended, followed by bingo and numerous games of chance.

On Saturday, another large crowd enjoyed an evening of dancing to the music of the "Melody Kings".

The long awaited moment finally arrived when the winner of the queen contest was announced. Janice Stokowski was the young lady who sold the most tickets, entitling her to that special honor.

Janet Giebelhaus was the first runner-up. The princesses were: Janie Gara, Lorna Runnels, and Kathy Simmonds.

Miss Bernice Tymchak, Queen of 1973, crowned the new queen. Allan Zwierschke, President of the Agricultural Society, presented Miss Stokowski with a large trophy for her efforts, and ture replica as a memento of the occasion. Mrs. Marion Tkaczyk, secretary of the Agricultural Society, presented each contestant with an envelope containing a cheque for ten percent of their ticket sales.

Did you know you can't marry the former husband of your divorced sister?

Did you know you can't be charged with stealing from your husband while you are living with him? Did you know that a wife's chances of success in any claim that she has rights as an owner of farm land in his name are much worse where her contribution is not money but just years and years of hard work? Did you know Alberta Law does not recognize common-law marriages?

The law governs nearly every facet of women's lives. The law regulates us from the day our birth is registered to the day our will is read.

Last week I attended a family law session in Vegreville with Elizabeth Pedersen, Inga Marr and Joe Blesnky. The afternoon was sponsored by Women of Unifarm. What an excellent presentation it was!

The Women of Unifarm have produced a booklet called "Family Law in Alberta".

It makes most interesting reading and is written in layman's language. If you are interested in a copy, send 25 cents for postage and handling to:

Lethbridge wins honors at Vikettes' tournament

Lethbridge came from behind to edge the CLC Vikettes and emerge undefeated to win top honors as the Vikettes staged their 1st annual invitational basketball tournament on Friday and Saturday.

Lethbridge dumped Medicine Hat 63-32 in their first outing and walloped NAIT 66-10 in their final game.

In between, they edged the Vikettes 60-57 when they roared from behind after trailing throughout most of the game with the margin at one time being 11 points. They scored the winning basket on the final play of the game. Lazurak paced the winners with 20 points while Yuill had 17 points. Knudslien led the Vikettes with 14 points.

Vikettes won their opener quite handily when they swamped NAIT 104-20 after leading 50-13 at half-time. Pinsky paced the Vikettes with 24 points while Knudslien picked up 20 points.

In their final outing, the Vikettes easily disposed of Medicine Hat by a score of 70-36. Knudslien paced the winners with 16 points while Tomkow picked up 11 points.

Snow mould and Fairy Rings can be prevented by treatment

A. Red Deer District Agriculturist says many home owners are concerned about lawn disease prevention.

Gordon McNaughton says the most devasting turf disease is snow mould, caused by a fungus that is active only during winter season. The disease develops at low temperatures and produces web-like patches on the lawn surface. He says snow mould is more prevalent on Creeping Red Fescue, Bent Grasses, Annual Bluegrass and Red Top than Kentucky Bluegrass, which shows some natural resistance.

Mr McNaughton says mould can be prevented by applying a 2 to 1 mixture of calomel and corrosive sublimate to the grass at the rate of 3 - 4 oz per 1,000 square feet. For best results the material should be applied in the early fall, and mixed with a carrier for easy spreading.

The disease Fairy Rings is also causing problems. This disease is caused by a mushroom fungus which if allowed to develop, will cause circular or sometimes crescent shaped patches of dead turf. The infected areas increase in size progressively from the centre and in the early stages show up as bright green rings. Later the turf inside the rings becomes thin turns yellow and eventually dies out.

Recommended control measures involve punching 6" deep holes through the turf and following up with several heavy applications of water at one or two intervals.

SCHOOL AWARDS

The annual awards night at Ardrossan High School was held last Wednesday evening, and once again our district was well represented. A grade eight honors award went to Beverley Heitman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Heitman. A merit award also in grade eight was received by Myron Bowerman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Baden Bowerman. A grade ten merit award was given to Joyce Vandermeer, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vandermeer. Phyllis Davenport was the recipient of a grade eleven honors award. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davenport.

The Ministik Ladies Club award was once again presented to the grade twelve student who attained the second highest standing in Ardrossan High School. Parents and some family members of all award winners from this district were present.

Leslie Wright of Vancouver, B.C., was visiting over the long Armistice weekend with relatives and friends, among them being his aunt and uncle, the Michael Nasichuks.

Many district folks motored to Wainwright on November 9th to attend the wedding and reception of Harvey Kleinschroth, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kleinschroth, and Linda Herald of Wainwright.

On Armistice Day, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hanel of Wetaskiwin visited several families here that they knew many years when they were employed by the late Frank and Mrs. Keding and lived where the Russell Wilsons now reside.

LADIES' CLUB

The November meeting of the Ministik Ladies Club was held at the hall on Wednesday afternoon. In the business session plans were completed for the children's annual Christmas party. Names were drawn for the exchange of gifts for the club Christmas party, and hostesses named.

Plans were finalized for the whist drive on Friday evening, and a series of six was planned to commence on Friday, January 10th. Mrs. A. Ferguson gave a most favorable report on the fall bazaar and said it was one of the best yet.

Five November birthdays were celebrated, all receiving birthday cards. They were Lil Leach, Martha Rouyer, Margaret Paterson, Dolly Roddick, and Gladys Roddick. Lunch was served by hostesses Mrs. Ronald Swabey and Mrs. Baden Bowerman.

Mrs. Margaret Crosswhite of Port Alberni, B.C. visited for two days with her brother and family, the Lloyd Grummetts over the Armistice weekend.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The annual meeting of the Community Club was held on Wednesday evening in the hall. The annual reports of all committees were given.

Progress of a new hall once again seems at a stand still. Committees have worked very hard on this project.

Election of officers was held with John Heitman remaining as president. Mrs. Baden Bowerman is secretary for a second term, Dennis Fenske replacing Bill Vandermeer as vice-president. Mrs. Bill Roddick as social convener replacing Mrs. Bruno Jeske and Baden Bowerman as sports committee replacing Grant Pearce.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harricks report a most enjoyable week stay in Montreal and area visiting relatives of Barbara's whom they had never met before but wish they had many years ago.

Dodds-Round Hill coal to be mined

"Coal from Dodds-Round Hill will be mined". That was the message passed along to about one hundred people attending the first annual meeting of the Dodds-Round Hill Farmers Protective Association held last night (Wednesday) in the Round Hill School.

Delivering the message was the Honorable William J. Yurko, Minister of the Environment, who was guest speaker for the occasion. Mr. Yurko told the gathering that the coal energy buried in the ground was simply "too valuable to be left in the ground. If its not mined next year or the year after, it'll be mined sometime in the near future".

Mr. Yurko illustrated his point by telling the crowd that the crop value taken from the land for the next one thousand years would not equal the energy value of the coal if it were removed over the next 20-30 years.

Telling the association that it was likely another power producing plant would likely be sought within the next year, Mr. Yurko indicated that removal of coal in the Dodds-Round Hill region would be one of the cheapest operations in the province and because of this would have to be given serious consideration.

During his talk and in the question period that followed, Mr. Yurko stressed the energy value of the coal and was quite emphatic in stating that it would be removed".

Offering some advice, Mr. Yurko suggested that land owners could follow either of three courses of action. (1) He could be a willing seller as has already been the case with a number of farmers who have sold their land to Calgary Power already. (2) The land could be expropiated and (3) some kind of leasing arrangement could be made so that the land could be mined and then returned to its owner for agricultural purposes.

If Dodds-Round Hill is selected as the site of the next power generating plant, Mr. Yurko assured his listeners that stringent reclamation would be enforced. He predicted that grasses could be grown within a five year period and full productivity would be had in about ten years.

Mr. Yurko was introduced by Murray Finnerty, Progressive Conservative candidate for Clover Bar in the next provincial election. Also in attendance was the sitting member for Clover Bar, Dr. Walter Buck along with the Camrose Constituency member, Gordon Stromberg.

Fifteen people were elected to serve as directors for the Dodds-Round Hill Farmers Protective Association for the next year. At a meeting of the directors, an executive will be elected.

Named as directors were Charlie Quail, Harry Stauffer, Dick Kayne, Fred Gothridge, Myron Kozack, Cal van Lauber, Gordon Teske, Dennis Stelchuk, Tom Nahirniuk, Becky Stelchuk, Robert Anderson, Kevin Quail, Joe Voeglin, Leroy Forre and Bert Neave.

Prior to last night's meeting, the association had a membership of sixty-four persons with a number of new members being signed last night.

Buck backs government

The budget of the federal government once more brought up the matter of Provincial Jurisdiction.

Dr. Walt Buck, the M. L. A. for Clover Bar, has indicated that he fully supports the stand of the provincial government on the oil issue. "Until the B.N.A. act is changed or amended, we are being had by Ottawa" the M.L.A. stated.

The entire legislature voted to give Albertans full support in its dealings with the matter, and so, party wise and individually we believe resources belong to the provinces.

The M.L.A feels that both levels of Government must sit down and iron out a solution. At the same time, while we are negotiating, Western Canada should be entitled to a more favorable freight rate agreement, Buck stated.

Devonian Caravan to visit Beaver centres

Grace Phillips

The Caravan sponsored by the Devonian Group of Charitable Foundations will visit Tofield on Friday, December 6. The Caravan Exhibit consists of three trailers, each featuring its special exhibit.

The first trailer, called "The Jewel Box of Nature" has a spectacular collection of 500 mineral specimens selected for their unusual size, shape, and color. A rock cycle chart accompanies the samples of sedimentary, metamorphic, and igneous rocks. Also on display are gem stones cut and faceted gems, replicas of famous diamonds, fluorescent minerals, varieties of quartz, and items illustrating man's use of these materials through the centuries.

Sixty mounted specimens of wildlife set in their natural habitats are featured in the second trailer. Animals and birds of the Arctic, cave-dwelling species, and a conservation section displaying vanishing and extinct species are some of the special attractions.

An art gallery displaying a colorful blend of West Coast and Eskimo art compose the exhibits in the third trailer. Wood, bark, stone, tusks and bones are the materials used to demonstrate the clever and thoughtful use of natural materials.

In addition to the times set aside for school children, the three trailers will be open on Dec. 6th from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. On December 7 and 8, they will be open for adults from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. The general public is given a cordial invitation to visit the three trailers in the caravan during the hours set aside for them. Students, of course, will have the opportunity to visit the displays during school hours.

The Caravan will also be visiting Ryley, Viking and Holden. It will be in Ryley on December 10, in Viking from December 12 - 14, and in Holden on December 16th.

CHRISTMAS FRUITCAKE

Holiday fruit cakes are served with pride and spoken of as the finest food one can offer at Christmas. Fruitcakes range from the very dark ones containing brown sugar, molasses and many spices to those called light or golden, made with granulated sugar, light-coloured fruit and no spices.

Agriculture Canada reminds us that perfect fruitcake requires that we follow the recipe carefully. Line your pans carefully. Paper clips may be used to hold the paper in place while you pour in the batter. To keep the cake from browning too soon or too much cover it with a heavy piece of greased brown paper. Never fill the pans more than three-quarters full.

Fruitcakes are always baked at a very low temperature (250 degrees to 270 degrees) for a long period of time to allow heat to penetrate the heavy mixture. Before you start your cake, make sure the pans will fit in the oven and arrange the racks to allow free air circulation along the sides and among the pans. Preheat the oven to the required temperature.

Fruit cakes keep very well as they are often made weeks ahead of time. Storage improves their flavour. Heavy fruit dark cakes should be made two to four months before serving. Dark cakes, with mostly raisins and nuts and very little glazed fruit, should be made two to four weeks before serving. Light fruit cakes blend flavours and mellow in two to three weeks.

There are probably as many different fruitcake recipes as there are households. Good luck with yours.

Land use... Do you care?

Shortages of recreational land . . . urban expansion . . . foreign ownership of land . . . maintaining the family farm . . . Effective land use means careful consideration of these and other land related topics.

Your view is needed!

Under Alberta Government auspices, a Land Use Forum has been established to provide for study and recommendation on the basis of citizen involvement. Through upcoming public hearings, every interested Albertan should be heard and all verbal, or written submissions will be considered before developing a meaningful and long term land use policy.

Prepare now to make individual or group presentations at hearings in your area.

Decemb'r power prices increase

Calgary Power Ltd. last week received approval from the Alberta Public Utilities Board to institute interim rate effective January 1, 1975.

Customers will be refunded any difference between interim rates and those finally approved by the Board.

New rates will mean a monthly billing increase of about $1.64 to the average residential consumers and about $1.37 to the average REA consumer. The increase will appear on bills issued after January 1, based on consumption of electricity from December 1, 1974.

The customer will continue to receive the benefit of the 11 per cent provincial discount. The provincial discount is the refund to the customer of income tax paid by Calgary Power Ltd. by the Provincial Government.

The PUB decision allows Calgary Power to collect an average 17.6 per cent rate increase sought by the company which is needed to offset the effects of inflation, the high cost of borrowing money and the high cost of environmental protection measures taken by the company. Calgary Power requested the interim rates at a preliminary hearing November 12 in Calgary.

The Alberta PUB pioneered the use of interim rate relief to recover projected service costs during the period of months spanned by rate hearings.

The Board ruling clears the path for formal rate hearings scheduled to begin March 3, 1975.

The company spokesman said energy projections indicate electric requirements in Alberta will double within the next eight years. This means that Calgary Power within this eight-year period, must build the same generating capacity constructed in the previous 63 years, 1911 to 1973.

Have you ever tried to break a bad habit? You set your mind to it, twist your willpower to the last turn, and think you have it licked — when suddenly, there it is again! . . . Experiences like this speak of the gap between what we are and what we ought to be.

This is a book all about how to bridge that gap.

Oxfam suggests give-a-meal before Xmas

Oxfam in Western Canada is again organizing a region-wide "international awareness fast" to occur just before Christmas. On Thursday, December 19, 1974 all Western Canadians will be asked to give up at least their evening meal and send the money saved to Oxfam. The money raised will be used to purchase Western Canadian agricultural products for famine relief in the eastern states of India.

According to Grant Rowan, Oxfam Western Regional Director in Winnipeg, the campaign hopes to collect over $200,000. "The fast is designed to promote awareness of the fact that millions of people around the world go hungry every day. It seems appropriate that at Christmas time we should share some of our agricultural wealth with people who are less fortunate. Monies donated will be used to buy Western Canadian food products and ship them to the food-short eastern states of India where we estimate that 30 million people may be at risk of starvation."

Donations may be sent to Oxfam at Box 12,000 in Vancouver, Victoria, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon or Winnipeg.

Area authors address junior high students

Grace Phillips

Mrs. Barbara Villy Cormack of Sherwood Park and Mrs. Magda Hendrickson of Camrose spoke to the Junior High students in the Tofield School on Friday.

This event was in celebration of Alberta Book Week as both ladies are authors.

Mrs. Hendrickson was born and raised in Bardo, just south of Tofield. She was co-author with Mrs. Ragna Steen of "Pioneers of Bardo, Alberta" and has recently written a book of fiction, "This Land is Our Land" the scene of which is Bardo.

Mrs. Cormack has written fourteen books "The Red Cross Lady", the biography of Mary Conquest was one of her first. "Westward ho' 1903" is the story of the Barr Colony and "Perennials and Politics" is the story of the Hon. Irene Parlby. Mrs. Cormack presented the latter two books to the Tofield School Library.

Mrs. Hendrickson regaled the students with the early history of Bardo and renewed acquaintances with the latest generation of Bardo students.

Mrs. Cormack told of the difficulties and pleasures of the writing of books. Her first novel written at the age of nine, was carefully typed out by her father so that she might have a permanent record of her first literary effort.

Rachel Collins welcomed the speakers, Keith Fenseth introduced Mrs Hendrickson, Stuart Allan introduced Mrs Cormack and Laura MacNutt thanked the speakers.

Tea was served to the authors by Mrs. Feshaug and Mrs. Phillips before they left for their respective homes.

Tofield's ATA seeks more education funds

Grace Phillips

With president, Anne Taylor in the chair, the Tofield sub-local of the Alberta Teachers' Association held its regular November meeting on Tuesday. A communication from Barnett House, Edmonton, stated that in celebration of Education Week in 1975, Alberta students in Grades IV, V AND VI will be asked to participate in an essay contest.

Again the amount of provincial funds made available to the school districts came under discussion. It was suggested that extra funds are necessary for buildings and equipment as [illegible] as for teachers' salaries. The parents and teachers are urged to write individual letters to their M.L.A., Dr Walter Buck at Fort Saskatchewan and to the Minister of Education, the Hon. Lou Hyndman urging that education receive a larger percentage of the provincial budget.

The Beaver Local trophy is at present in the possession of the Tofield sub-local, the Viking sub-local has challenged Tofield to a volley-ball game the first week in December for the trophy.

Discussion regarding the annual staff Christmas party occupied the rest of the meeting. After several suggestions had been made and discarded, it was agreed that the affair would take place on Saturday, December 14, and would consist of curling games, after which those participating would adjourn to the home of Mrs. Florence Ingram for a party.

Ryley church has 25th anniversary

St. John Mary Vianney Church at Ryley celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary on the 22nd of November with an evening Mass, buffet supper, program and social evening with many attending from the other churches in the Holden Parish.

Mass was concelebrated by Rev. E.F. Purcell, the founding priest, Rev. J. Leczinski, one of the priests who assisted Father Purcell when he was at Ryley, and Rev. T. Rataj, the present priest of the parish. Father Rataj gave the sermon and Father Leczinski congratulated the parishioners on the anniversary.

Following Mass, a buffet supper was served by the Ryley CWL and the women of the other churches in the parish, Holden, Polska, and Bruce.

The program which followed was under the chairmanship of Walter Kropielnicki, who after a few words about the anniversary, read some letters of congratulation, and then welcomed the main speaker of the evening, Father Purcell.

Following Father Purcell's speech, Father Leczinski gave a short talk, and then Mrs. E.H. Brown presented a history of the church and its progress in twenty-five years. During the program, tribute was paid to the priests here during that time, Fathers Purcell, McCorkle, Leczinski, Nowakowski, McCarty, Scriven, Adam, and Rataj, and to the work of the CWL and the men of the parish, to the catechism teachers and the choir, for their contribution to the progress of the church over this period.

The program was followed by a social evening.

CHRISTMAS IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT.

So often these years, we hear people saying, "I just can't get into the Christmas spirit", "It's not the same as it used to be", "Christmas came and went and it didn't even seem special this year!"

We blame all sorts of outside forces for this lost feeling — everything is so commercial, the stores put their decorations up too early, we are too busy at work, no-body visits like they used to, no little children to get excited over Santa's coming.

If we take a truthful look at ourselves and the hectic lives we lead maybe we'll find an answer. There's an old adage that says "You get out of something as much as you put into it." Could it be we haven't been putting enough into it?

Despite good intentions a month ahead of time, to bake favorite treats, to make decorations, to have extra friends over, December often slips by before these good intentions become actions. Why not do instead of just think about it this year.

Make some special decorations - paint a manger scene poster to put on your refrigerator door, make a giant cardboard tree to hang near the entrance and leave felt pens for your guests to autograph it as they come, write a note in each card (don't you hate receiving the sincerely Ruth and Harry ones), put on the Christmasy records while you keep up the daily chores, pick up the phone and invite your friends over; make a festive table centre; get a Christmas corsage for your coat or dress.

What makes Christmas Christmas for you? Sparkly snow, decorated tree, church service, carols, friends exchanging visits, seeing distant family?

Whatever makes Christmas Christmas for you - make it happen this year.

District Home Economist,

As I see it

Walt Buck, M.L.A. Clover Bar

The entire Legislature supports Alberta in its battle with Ottawa over Provincial rights related to natural resources. The oil issue is rather unique in that, unlike uranium, it affects all Canadians and thus is also the Federal Government is taking such a strong stand in the matter. However, in my opinion, unless the B.N.A. Act is changed or amended the resources should belong to the Provinces and I support this position.

Last spring I felt that Alberta had been 'out-negotiated' in its meeting with Ottawa. We received not what we had wanted but what we were offered.

A.T.A. Meeting

I have met with A.T.A. executive from the County of Strathcona and the County of Beaver to discuss the teachers' concerns re the direction of educational financing. All groups have indicated that we face a possible shortage of teachers in the near future. At the same time the school trustees are receiving an insufficient amount of money from the provincial government to meet rapidly rising costs. These matters I will bring up in the Legislature in the spring.

COLCHESTER MEETING

I wish to compliment school board chairman, Mrs. Ferguson and Reeve, Tom Reed for setting up a meeting to discuss the location of a new school in the area.

The discussion was well attended and the people in the area indicated that they felt a location 4 miles due east of the present school was an excellent choice.

It was rewarding to attend a meeting that was so informative.

LAMONT AND TOFIELD

On Wednesday and Thursday I attended the annual bazaar and tea at the Lamont Auxiliary Hospital. It was satisfying to see the handicrafts produced by the patients in the hospital.

The annual Mennonite Church ladies, chicken supper was a great success. Thanks ladies, for all the fine hospitality and the fine food.

Please address all comments and problems to Box 1020, Fort Saask. or phone collect 545-3000.

Alex Barlow of the Pine district, who had been a patient in the Tofield Hospital for several days, is out of the hospital and is staying with a friend in Ryley for awhile.

Members of the Holden Senior Citizens Group are holding their December meeting, on the third Thursday evening, December 19th instead of the usual date of the fourth Thursday, December 26th. A Christmas program is being arranged.

Mrs. Mae Budd and her mother, Mrs. Prediger, who is their visitor for several days, were Tuesday afternoon guests with Mrs. Beth Campbell.

Albert Johnson is in Edmonton the past week, where he attended the Social Credit Convention, also visited with his family.

Mrs. Beth Campbell was pleasantly surprised last Sunday evening when her son, Bill Campbell of Sydney, Australia phoned her to wish her "happy birthday". Mrs. Campbell was also talking with her daughter-in-law, Susanne and two younger grandsons. Mrs. Campbell is expecting her son and family to return from Australia sometime in the new year, where they have been for the past four years. Upon their return, they will be making their home in Montreal, Quebec.

This Christmas we suggest that you shop around for gifts for a very good reason: inflation is pushing prices high enough as it is. Why pay more than you have to? We did some comparing and found several cases such as this $5.00 difference on a $10.00 toy. So, this Christmas, shop around, compare prices and compare quality.

Skate-A-Thon planned to aid Tofield Arena

by Grace Phillips

Leo Rurka, and Robert Lysio physical education teachers at the Tofield School, have announced that there will be a second "Skate-A-Thon" held in aid of the Tofield Arena.

In 1973, the students of the Tofield School raised $2000.00 for the heaters in the Arena, and it is hoped to better this amount this coming year.

The students are holding this skate-a-thon to show their appreciation to the Tofield Agriculture Society for providing them with and granting them the use of the Arena.

All students will be canvassing for pledges between Dec 13th, and Jan 8th. Pledges will be redeemed between Jan 12th, and Feb 28th. Receipts will be issued upon payments of the amount pledged.

On the afternoon of January 12th students in grades 1, 2, and 3 will be skating for one hour. While students from the senior high school will be attempting a four-hour skate.

On the afternoon of January 19th, students in grades 4, 5, and 6 will skate for two hours and the junior high school students will skate for three hours. The public is cordially invited to come and watch while cheering on their favorite competitors.

Prizes will be awarded on the following basis:

1. Students earning $25 to $49.00 will win a prize of their choice valued at approximately $5.00.
2. Students earning $50.00 to $74.00 will win a prize of the approximate value of $10.00 of their own choosing.
3. Students earning $75.00 to $99.00 will be awarded a prize of their own choice worth approximately $15.00.
4. Students earning $100.00 or more will win a prize of their choice valued at about $25.00.

The top money earner in the skate-a-thon will win a tape recorder valued at $50.00.

Proceeds from the skate-a-thon will be donated to the Tofield Agricultural Society for the maintenance and improvement of the Arena and a public address system.

Community response to the 1973 skate-a-thon was terrific. The students and organizers hope with the continued support of the public, that the results will equal or surpass those of 1973.

Members of the staff of the Tofield School are donating a specific sum each in lieu of being canvassed by several hundred students. The money thus collected will later be divided among the participants to be redeemed at the arena concession for anything the students choose.

Program Supervisor is considered by County

The Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board held its regular meeting on November 27th with George Knudallen in the chair.

A copy of the "unapproved" minutes were forwarded to The Mercury for publication following a motion suggested that the public should be better informed of the Board's activities. However, in the motion for approval, Mr. Baker was given the authority to censor the minutes before they were forwarded.

A recommendation that the Board consider the hiring of a full-time Program Supervisor was tabled to the next meeting, to give members more time to consider the matter.

Surveying of Camp Lake has been completed and an application for approval forwarded to the Provincial Planning Board after which it will be presented to County Council for final approval.

Verbal reports on recreational activities in Tofield, Holden, Bruce, Viking and Kinsella were given by Andy Heiberg, Bruce Budd, Henry Field, Jack Fountain and Ivy Mollier.

Repairs to the Holden Theatre Building was discussed. Materials for this work has been donated by Bruce Budd while some assistance is available from the Village of Holden. It was decided that the repairs should be done by the Holden Recreation Board as the building is not yet owned by the Regional Board.

Regular business was attended to and various reports and letters were received for informational purposes.

In attendance at the meeting were Henry Nachtigal, Andy Heiberg, Henry Field, Rudy Koppel, Bruce Budd, Charles Mathews, Jack Fountain, Len Josephison, Jean Hogg, Ivy Mollier, George Knudallen, Charles Sears, Eugene Ewasiuk, George Baker and Marlene Podoborozny.

Xmas edition is next week

The next edition (December 19th) of The Mercury will be the annual Christmas issue.

Advertisers and correspondents are asked to take note of this fact, so that none will be overlooked.

As has been the practice in recent years, there will be no publication of The Mercury between Christmas and New Year's.

Tofield Christmas card extends annual greeting

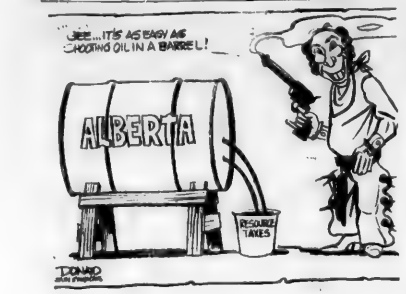
The Tofield Community Christmas Card is now on display in the large window of the Community Centre.

The names of the donors to this card will have their names added to the list already begun.

For several years now, residents of Tofield and district have taken advantage of this method of wishing their nearby friends the compliments of the season.

Donations to the Community Christmas Card may be left at the Tofield Co-op or at Everitt's Foodland. Receipts for the donations received will be issued by the treasurer of The Tofield Community League, Hans Christensen.

The sooner your name is on display, the longer your friends will have to enjoy your greetings.



Viewpoint

We're more than a little troubled, in fact, we're quite dismayed, at the tenor of a series of advertisements recently initiated by the Consumers Affairs branch in the Alberta government, and probably the one that really hit us was one comparing the prices of the same toy in two different stores, one at $9.98, and identically the same toy, in another store at $14.98. As they said, a $5.00 difference on a $10.00 toy. And they urged shoppers to shop around

All of which is good. Shoppers should. But they should do a lot more than just check price tags. Because a great deal more can be involved.

Our concern is that the provincial service is helping to create the impression, whether intentionally or not, that most storekeepers are rip-off artists, and you've really got to have your wits about you to avoid being taken.

And we make two admissions here. First is that this is far from correct as a general principle, and second is that no responsible government, or governmental agency should be creating such an impression. Where merchants are guilty of dishonest merchandising, there are ample laws already to handle them. And where they're guilty of poor pricing, the shopping public will mighty soon take care of them in a different way.

But to put the whole thing on the price tag is far too simple. There are some stores which offer no selling service, work on a cash basis, and offer no refunds, no after sales service. On the other hand, the store that provides clerks to explain how things work, that will charge, maybe even deliver, and services what it sells, or offers exchanges, incurs considerably higher operating costs.

There are well known cases, too, of stores offering low prices when they have only a limited number of items for sale, yet setting the pace for all their competitors. There are products that go like hotcakes in one community, yet flop in another. They may even succeed or fail depending on timing. Yet the flop must be gotten rid of in some way, and usually it's by slashing the price. Every retailer knows how unpredictable the market can be, and many a "bargain" results from his misjudging a product.

The Canadian took the trouble to check out the actual Tonka toy so unhappily contrasted by Consumers Affairs, and found that at $9.98, the toy is a real less leader. In other words, it's bait to get you into the store, and try to lead you up with other goods at much higher mark-ups. So the government should point out that it's good to know when you're paying too much, but equally important to know when you're paying too little.

There are suggestions from some Consumers that a survey of prices be published on a regular basis, much as was done recently in an experiment in Ottawa, which admittedly levelled out prices. What this inevitably has to lead to, however, is one set, regulated price . . . If the merchants do it, they're accused of forming a combine, so it must be done for them by the government, which makes it legal. In the first place, we cringe at the thought of so much regulation, so much more government involvement, and so much more officialdom and red tape. And secondly, if the government gets involved, then it must inevitably assure some sort of guaranteed profit level, such as is done today in the field of regulated public utilities. And we seriously doubt if that would lead to real competition, real penny sharpening, or real savings for the public.

Has anyone seen the price of milk go down under regulation? Or of eggs?

Dear Sir

I have read with some disdain your coverage of the proposed Dodds-Round Hill Power Plant and strip mine and of our Round Hill-Dodds Agricultural Protective Association. It is ironic that one has to read the Edmonton Journal to get a fair reporting of both sides of the issue. You have reported quite well what Mr. Yurko, Minister of the Environment said in his address Nov 27th at Roundhill which in short was that the Dodds-Roundhill coal will be mined sooner or later. One thing you left out though which is quite important. Mr. Yurko also told us that whether or not the coal will be mined sooner or later will depend on the reaction of the local people. In all fairness there had already been much legitimate and honest reaction in the community.

Also over and against Mr. Yurko's stand are the statements of Dr Horner, Minister of Agriculture At a previous meeting in October a letter from Dr. Horner was read in which he stated that no strip mining will occur in the Dodds-Roundhill area in the near future, if ever. Dr Horner is strongly opposed to strip mining of agricultural land He believes that mining technology may soon be available which will make strip mining of coal obsolete You can read more of Dr Horner's position in the Nov 29th Edmonton Journal

So the advisability of going ahead with massive strip mining of coal is not obvious The pressures that some who will be financially enriched bring to bear on governments, to go ahead with such developments without due consideration to social and environmental repercussions are already inordinate Therefore at the best the aims of the Round-Hill-Dodds Agricultural Protective Association is to do its utmost to come up with information from all possible sources to protect people [illegible] from thoughtless action

The priorities of this association are to protect farm land, to guard land from mismanagement to prevent undue social and economic and environmental upheaval in the community. It [illegible] attempt to [illegible] land our world. Happy Homemaking
By BARBARA BAKER

When packing for your camping trips, fill used margarine containers with breakfast cereals. The plastic covers keep the cereals dry and crisp and the containers can be used as bowls as well.

Before you begin your spring window washing, take a long-handled dry mop and go over the windows to remove the loose dirt and dust. This saves on window spray and cuts down the time spent on washing.

When you finish ironing, put your hot iron in a cold oven until cools so it is out of the reach of your children.

When giving someone a home permanent, use an old toothbrush to apply the waving lotion. This will keep your fingers dry as well as distributing the lotion evenly over the hair.

If the granulated sugar which you have stored in an unopened bag becomes hard before the bag is open, just let it drop to the floor once or twice. Drop about a foot or two and the sugar should loosen.

Ministik news briefs

Mrs. Jim Reddick

Several from the community attended the Christmas bingo at Hastings Lake Hall on Friday evening.

Mrs. Pat Paterson, Mrs. Geo. Kleinschroth and Mrs. Annie Oliver were Camrose shoppers one day last week.

Lorraine Davenport, who is a member of Mrs. McBain's Eth nic dance group of Ardrossan, recently danced in Norwood School in Edmonton, in the Central United Church Hall, at Beaumont and at Two Hills.

Guests with Mrs. S. George last week were Mrs. Fred Hostetler and Mrs. M. Lauber of Tofield and Mr. and Mrs. Bill George, Bob George and Mr and Mrs. Bill Usher, all of Edmonton.

Skating on the local lakes has been a delight these last two weeks with many skaters enjoying glasslike surfaces on Cooking and Ministik Lakes.

This luxury has been long looked for, as in recent years surfaces were either laden with snow or very rough

Plans are going ahead very favorably for the childrens annual Christmas party with children and parents co-operating very well.

Free the criminal

Reflections over weekend reports convinces us that criminals are free and the law abiding citizen is captive to the criminal. It is no longer true that crime does not pay, if you are talking about earthly rewards

Canada's prison ombudsman is reported to have said that many prisoners as possible should be released from prisons in Canada as soon as possible. The reason she gives for this is that the prisoners are bored! So — what's news? What is the purpose of imprisonment? And what is left as a penalty for criminals in Canada?

Capital punishment has been outlawed in Canada. The lash and paddle have both been outlawed in Canada as recently as the beginning of this decade. Now there's a move on foot to release all prisoners. In this affluent society the small fines that are being levied by the courts often encourage breaking the law because the criminal makes more than the fine costs. Cattle rustlers are not being imprisoned nor fined heavily. One is faced with the question of what is coming next. How can anyone live safely and in possession of his own goods if the administration of law and the laws themselves make it safe and profitable to be a criminal?

We are concerned that the of types of penalties for vice and crime. We are concerned that penalties meted out by the courts are so small in comparison with the nature of the crime and the affluence of the times. We are concerned that the morale of the law enforcement officers will deteriorate drastically if charges are so easily dismissed by the courts or the penalties are so small as to make the crime profitable. We are concerned most of all that it now appears to society that governments and courts, through laws and the administration of those laws, are placing the criminal in a very advantageous position and those who obey the laws in a position of great disadvantage. There is no doubt in our minds that there is something rotten in Canada and that our present system of government and justice are encouraging crime. This is wrong

It is to the credit of our country that we make certain a person is innocent until proven guilty. On the other hand there is a great injustice done to the innocent if the system makes it too difficult to charge the guilty and penalize him properly when he has been found guilty. Therefore we would urge that in the concern for justice to all in Canada, that our system of justice be reviewed and that some definite steps be taken to curb the ever increasing volume of crime in our country. All of this should be done with an eye to the future, making provision not only for the safety of law abiding citizens but also with some consideration for making provision in rewarding those who have refrained from breaking our laws. It should never be more profitable in any way to commit a crime against the nation or an individual

Those who live by the law and pay their just dues to the state have a right to be free from the ravage the upright citizen. In no way should crime be encouraged. Let's do our best to free the innocent from fear of the criminal, rather than free the criminal from penalties

New rapeseed strains given green light

Two new rapeseed varieties are expected to be licensed soon. Both are low in erucic acid and are part of Canada's on - going rapeseed improvement program.

One is an Argentine type, destined to replace the "stopgap" variety Zephyr. It appears to be superior in yield and oil percentage and significantly shorter in the stalk than Zephyr. Its date to maturity is about the same as Zephyr. Seed stocks are being multiplied this winter should be sufficient pedigreed seed next spring to plant all the required acreage in the prairies.

The other new variety is a Polish type that is intended to eventually replace Span. It appears to be superior to Span in both yield and percentage of oil. It matures in approximately the same number of days. The seed supply of this variety is not as favourable as it is for the new Argentine variety. Only about 50,000 pounds are expected to be available from the 25 Alberta producers who were among the 60 prairie growers who multiplied the Polish type seed last summer. It was grown under contract to the Canada department of agriculture. When it is licensed, ownership will be transferred to the multipliers for distribution. Limited stocks are being increased this winter in California, but they are intended for experimental crushing purposes only.

Based upon the same acreage as was grown this year, Alberta's Polish type rapeseed requirements in 1973 will be in the neighborhood of six million pounds. With only seed available, there will still be a big demand for certified Span next spring. However multiplication next year should ensure ample supplies of the new variety to meet Alberta's 1973 Polish rapeseed requirements.

First forest nursery in British Columbia was established at Green Timbers in 1930, the second at Qunsaw in 1934.

36% of Alberta farms file income tax returns

Thirty-six percent of Alberta's farms filed income tax for the 1970 tax year, according to the figures supplied by Statistics Canada. This was about the same percentage as Ontario (38 percent) and Saskatchewan (37 percent). By comparison sixteen percent of Quebec farms filed returns, 20 percent in Manitoba and 17 percent in B. C.

Turning to dollars reported as income by farmers filing income tax statemnets, Ontario has the large share (34 percent). Other provinces figures were Quebec 7 percent, Manitoba 6 percent, Saskatchewan 20 percent, Alberta 19 percent, B.C. 5 percent.

Actual tax paid by farmers can also be calculated. Ontario paid as much as any two other provinces, nearly 41 percent of the total. Alberta's figure was 21 percent, Saskatchewan's was 20 percent, B. C 6 percent, and Manitoba 5 percent and Quebec 3 percent.

Tax paid per farm filing returns was highest in B.C. ($882) Ontario was $819, Alberta $665, Saskatchewan $507, Manitoba $417, Quebec $219. While the income tax obtained from Maritime province farmers was not great in total, the tax paid per farmer filing returns for Newfoundland was $706, New Brunswick $530, Nova Scotia $417 and B. C. $365.

If the income tax paid by farmers is calculated as an average for farms in the province, remembering that most farms did not file a return and presumably some which filed were not taxable, Ontario emerges as the heaviest contributor. The tax paid for 1970 represents an average of $312 per Ontario farm, B.C. $267, Alberta $248, Saskatchewan $192, Manitoba $120, Nova Scotia $77, P.E.I. $75, Newfoundland $60 and Quebec $36. oFr Canada the number of farms filing returns was 116,034. Income reported on tax forms totalled $630,832,000. Taxable income was $329,401,000. Tax paid amounted to $72,546,000.

Public asked for ideas on property break-up in divorce

Rural Albertans particularly are being asked how they think the property of husbands and wives should be legally distributed if the marriage is dissolved by death or divorce.

Opinion-seeking questions have been set out in a pamphlet prepared by the Institute of Law Research and Reform at the University of Alberta. Responses to the questionnaire, and briefs related to the Institute's more detailed "Working Paper on Matrimonial Properties" are being requested by the Alberta Women's Bureau, a provincial government body under the jurisdiction of Hon. Helen Hunley.

The pamphlet suggests that Alberta's law reform agency wants to hear citizens' views on matrimonial property distribution "before it asks the government to change the law."

Personal opinions can be expressed by responding to the questionnaire's hypothetical case where "Marsha and John, who could be a couple in your neighborhood . . . no longer get along well and decide to part ways."

Legally John is entitled to the property they have acquired since he has earned the money to pay for it, but the Institute invites respondents who think Marsha should get a share, to "help us decide how to make the law fairer."

Many of the questions centre on the status of the family home. If John owns the family home and wants to sell it now that he and Marsha have separated, should Marsha and the children be allowed to stay in the family home if they cannot rent a house like it nearby ? one question asks.

Another supposes that the family home is owned by John and Marsha together and is actually a farm, which the couple will divide in half. "Should Marsha get half of the home quarter, the whole farm or the house and yard only?"

If John and Marsha's marriage ends with the death of one partner, should the survivor be entitled to all the property or only to a share equivalent to that which would have been awarded if the marriage had been ended by divorce ? is another response-provoking question.

Copies of the pamphlet are available by request to the Alberta Women's Bureau, Legislative Building, Edmonton.

"Will that be cash or charge?"

Before you answer that question when you go shopping this Christmas, remember this fact. The percentage rate on credit accounts now stands at about 20% per year. So charge accounts are, in fact, high interest loans. We want you to think about that . . . before you say, "Charge".

Peter Ward's Ottawa view point ...

City of contrasts ...

The red head with a Hollywood figure and face stood with us in the drizzle, explaining the construction of Leningrad's beautiful gold-domed St. Isaac's Cathedral.

She was a beautiful girl but she carried with her the toughness of a turn-of-the-century revolutionary.

"In our country it is a punishable offence for parents to teach their children religion," she said with pride. Swedlana was the official Intourist guide assigned to five visiting Canadian journalists during their three-day stay in Leningrad, and we took turns trying to make her 23-year old face crack into a smile.

Contrast red headed Swedlana with soft-spoken Natasha who had enthused us two days ago with the history and icons of Vladimir and Suzdal, 140 miles east of Moscow. Natasha confessed that old churches and icons were her passion and she was proud of the thorough restoration operations her government was performing to preserve the history of Russia.

"About half the people in our country are believers," she told us. "You'll find that those in church are mostly old people and young people, with very few from the middle years."

Natasha paused with detailed explanations before each artistic treasure. In Leningrad Swedlana ripped off the facts she knew -and she knew them all — without changing her tone. She kept her expression flat as she moved us quickly from room to room in the Winter Palace, pausing only five minutes in a gallery which boasted 20 Rembrant paintings, and hesitating only briefly before the works of Leonardo da Vinci. Swedlana's chill also contrasted with the warmth of Nina, the representative of Leningrad's Union of Journalists, who was our official hostess in the city.

Nina introduced us to our waitress at the Europa Hotel and explained that the woman was a hero, having gone through the World War II seige of the city as a member of the navy and then fighting with the troops right to Berlin.

Leningrad lost nearly half a million citizens during nearly three years of seige. The core of the city was virtually destroyed. When hostilities ceased, the city was restored, rather than re-constructed. The golden spires of Czarist times were erected and gilded again. The Winter Palace was built up again, stone by stone, and today, Leningrad has a city ordinance against new construction in the central core. It's an old and opulent city, rather like Paris - but on the outskirts, apartment blocks by the thousands stand on the reclaimed flats of the river Neva. A forest of construction cranes testify to the thousands more apartment blocks rising annually.

The place is crawling with tourists, some American, but most European, and there is little difficulty in finding gals plying the oldest trade in the world, particularly close to the "dollar shops".

If you have hard currency to spend, you can buy much cheaper in the "dollar" stores. Vodka paid for in Western currency costs you about $3 a bottle. The same stuff in rubles will set you back $14.

But we saw plenty of consumer goods in public department stores, too albiet at pretty high prices. After all, Soviets pay less than 10 percent of their monthly wages for housing and there's not many Canadians that can say the same.

Auto mufflers and tailpipes

Automotive mufflers and tailpipes made from Type 300 stainless steel are manufactured by Stainless Steel Silencers Pty. Ltd.

The corrosion resisting properties of the material enable the manufacturer to guarantee the mufflers and pipes against failure from internal acid attack or the results of corrosion from external causes, for as long as the original purchaser retains the vehicle.

Although stainless steel is more expensive than normal mild steel, prices are kept within reach of the average motorist by the use of the Multifit design which allows interchangeable ends and barrels.

Several different barrel types in two diameters and various lengths are used to cover the majority of automotive, truck and industrial uses.

The tailpipes are manufactured using patented welding and bending methods enabling the use of 24-gauge material.

Mrs Ellen Eaton

Your reporter wishes to extend sincere greetings for another very Merry Christmas and Happy and Prosperous New Year to all members of the Tofield Mercury and their staff and to all readers of the paper.

Ellen Eaton was an Edmonton visitor on Thurs. of last week, visiting her brother Johnston Campbell, who is making his home at the Grandview Auxiliary Hospital.

Russel and Mabel Ferguson were Friday evening visitors at the home of Russel's sister, Mickey and Charlie Niemetz.

Johnny Wood and Joe Learhuis from this district are in Edmonton at present attending the Unifarm convention.

Tuesday visitors at the home of Arnold and Deanna Nelson were Deanna's uncle, Peter and his wife, Vivian Blanchette of Maidstone, Sask.

John Nickle of this district returned Monday night from Vancouver where he had spent a few days visiting his father P.D. Nickle.

Mrs. Pat Glover and family of Tofield are receiving the sympathy of their friends and neighbours on the death of their husband and father, Norman Glover, who passed away on Sunday afternoon. Norman was well known to many near and far, having been raised in Tofield and in later years following the war, he was Tofield's postmaster for several years. Funeral services were held at the Anglican Church yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon with interment in the Tofield cemetery.

Also receiving sympathy is Mrs. Margaret Jensen and family whose father, Ole Sware also passed away on Sunday evening.

Multi-million heirs.

Calgary Power has many heirs. Albertans today and tomorrow stand to benefit from the millions of dollars Calgary Power must continue to invest - so that we can all enjoy the economic advantages of living in an energy-strong province.

But where does the money come from? The chances are that much of it comes from your investment in a pension plan, a mutual fund, an insurance plan or even your bank savings account. Many such firms see Calgary Power as a sound Canadian company and invest your money in our stocks and bonds. You may be one of the investors without realizing it.

Alberta's economy continues to grow and needs more power to sustain this growth. Calgary Power is expanding rapidly with new generating plant and other facilities to meet this growing demand. New plant requires major new investment. A strong healthy company helps maintain investor confidence and a willingness to invest funds in Calgary Power. In this way, the public continues to receive reliable electric service when needed and in the amount it requires.

The Homemaker...

YOUR WILL — AN ACT OF KINDNESS

A will should be made in contemplation of life. When set up properly it is the key to true enjoyment of your property while you are alive as it only takes effect upon your death.

It is wise to have a will, but some people need convincing as to its importance. Without a will there is no personal direction as to disposal of the person's estate after death. If we die without a will, legal expenses will be incurred which might swallow up the little we do own.

A good will does three things.

1. It satisfies the owner that his wishes will be carried out.
2. It avoids legal expense and delay.
3. It overcomes resentment among the beneficiaries. Of these three the last is perhaps the most important.

Human nature being what it is, a family never really knows one another, until they share an estate. Parents do an uncommon act of kindness to their children, not only by designating how the bulk of the estate is to be shared, but by carefully stating who is to receive their smaller personal [illegible]

There is always the emotional aspect of sharing parental belongings. Adults remember the contents of their parents home long after they move into places of their own. Some have a sentimental attachment for such things. Other recognize economic value. Still others could care less.

Meanwhile parents who do not define their wishes in straight forward terms, leave not only a legacy of property to be administered by strangers, but often a legacy of ill-will to drift among their grown children.

There is particular need for women to have a will of their own. It is mandatory in this age wherein husbands and wives are vulnerable to all the hazards of motor travel. If a woman doesn't have a will she should never drive with her husband. The legal complications following an accident where the husband and wife die together, can have phenomenal implications for survivors.

Think about it - an act of kindness.

We hope that those of you who attended the Wills and Estate Planning meeting enjoyed the program. If you are interested in Family Law a booklet "Family Laws for Albertans" is available for 25 cents from: Women of Unifarm, 9934 - 106 Street, Edmonton, Alberta. T5K 1E1

BULLETIN

THE UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES ACT
BILL78

The Honourable R. W. Dowling, Minister of Consumer Affairs, introduced Bill 78 — The Unfair Trade Practices Act — for First Reading during the last week of the Fall Session of the Alberta Legislature. Mr. Dowling stated that it was his intention to solicit the views of all interested parties in respect of this Bill prior to its re-introduction in the Spring Session of the Legislature. The Bill is aimed at stopping deceptive and unfair practices that hurt both the unsuspecting consumer and the reputable businessman. While the proposed legislation provides for a Director of Trade Practices to handle consumer complaints and investigate potential unfair dealing, the courts are given the role of deciding on whether a practice should be stopped and ruling on matters of consumer redress. Copies of Bill 78 are being distributed and further copies may be obtained by telephoning (403) 229-3450 in Edmonton.

Accordingly, if you have any views to express in respect of Bill 78, you are invited to forward your written comments to:

Honourable R. W. Dowling
Minister of Consumer Affairs
228 Legislative Building
Edmonton, Alberta

prior to December 20, 1974

IN MEMORIAM

HARRISON, ROSELLA — In loving memory of our wife, mother and grandmother who passed away December 20th, 1969:

Her weary hours and days of pain,
Her troubled nights are past;
And in our aching hearts we know,
She has found sweet rest at last.

—Ever remembered by husband John, daughter Barbara, and g[illegible]ren, Lyna, Harry, Doug and Bradley. 16p-2303

KLAWITTER — In memory of our mother and grandmother who passed away December 20th, 1970:

And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.

—Ever remembered by your children and grandchildren. 16c-857

ZOOK — In loving memory of our dear parents, Mrs. Mary Zook who passed away December 19th, 1950, and Mr John Zook who passed away January 15th, 1969:

They always leaned to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late;
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate;
Their thoughts were so full of us,
They never could forget;
And so we think that where they are,
They must be watching yet;
Waiting till we come home to them,
Anxious if we are late;
Watching from Heaven's window,
Leaning from Heaven's gate.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by their loving children, Ida Marie, Kenneth, Phoebe, Jane and Raymond. 16pc858

IN MEMORIAM

RODDICK — In memory of my loving husband, James A. Roddick, who passed away December 15th, 1967:

Like falling leaves the years slip by,
But loving memories never die;
They live with us in memory still,
Not just today, but always will.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by loving wife, Dolly. 16nc

CHRISTMAS '74

May you, wherever you are in this golden hour, know joy. May your heartthire be one reminded with those near and dear to you, the happiness of your children re-echo the gladness heaven sends forth in this time of the miracle of Bethlehem.

May the faith the humble shepherds found in the starlit stable be yours in fullest measure; the exultation of Mary and Joseph light your heart with the glow of divine love.

May you gather together in bright bouquet love, charity and tranquility of spirit, for he who possesses these holds the key to riches beyond measure.

May all your dreams in this splendid hour reach fulfillment, and may all the paths you walk be lighted with peace, not only today, but in all the days of the year to come.

-Loretta Bauer Buckley.

May we at Alberta Agriculture wish you the merriest Christmas and the happiest holiday season.

Year from Alberta Agriculture.

NEW YEAR'S EVE REVERIE

Tonight I would be quiet for a while,
No raucous horns . . .
no screeching jabber . . .
Only by firelight, now review the file
Of hoarded treasure held in memory
All of the rich year's golden store, the brief deeper tones of pain
Stand out against the embers in relief
Hold close the year that will not come again
Then on the living ashes still aglow,
Another log, a leaping tongue of flame,
And all the unknown way that we must go
Is warmed and lighted as the way we came Builders of dreams, we hold these moments dear . . .
Magic . . enchanting. This might be the year

It was nice to hear on the news that Camrose was their first hockey game in Sweden 11-1. And we in Ryley are proud to have one of our boys, Elston Solberg, on the Camrose Vikings Hockey team.

A nice crowd turned out for the Vesper service at the United Church. The Ryley C.G.I.T. girls and Explorer group took turns in presenting their part in the Candle Light service. Lunch was served in the church kitchen.

On Friday night, a whist drive was held in Shaw School with five tables going. The prizes for the evening went to: guests, Herman Jensen; and ladies, Mrs. Ida Hunka.

Ryley home coming games were held in the gym Saturday. The Ryley High School won first and the home coming boys won.

Ryley Lions Lottery Winners:

Ryley Lions Club sold one hundred tickets at $0.00 each. $500 goes to a community project and $500 goes to winners in the lottery.

Same product, different stores

This Christmas we suggest that you shop around for gifts for a very good reason. Inflation is pushing prices high enough as it is. Why pay more than you have to? We did some comparing and found several cases such as this $5.00 difference on a $10.00 toy. So, this Christmas, shop around, compare prices and compare quality.

Tofield gets seniors' home

Tenders for the construction of a senior citizens' home for Tofield are expected to be called earlier in 1975

Announcement of the building of the home was made by Murray Fimmerty, Tory candidate for Clover Bar, following a meeting in Edmonton with the Hon. Dave Russell which was attended by Dr. W. H. Freibury, Mayor of Tofield and members of the Tofield Golden Club.

The proposed home will be built by the Alberta Housing Corporation and will contain 40 one-room apartments. The structure will be built on a site left to expand to 60 units in the future. It will include common and service facilities and meeting rooms, which is important to the elderly.

It was understood that land for the site was provided by the village within the town limits. More details are expected to be announced early next year.

Mrs. Jim Reddick

As your local news correspondent, I wish to extend Christmas Greetings to all the staff members of the Tofield Mercury, fellow correspondents whose columns I enjoy each week, to friends and neighbours far and near. Also, the happiest and most rewarding of the New Year, 1975. God bless you all.

Services at St. Judes Roman Catholic Church will be held at 10 a.m. rather than at 9.00 a.m. on Christmas Day.

The annual Hall Board meeting was held last Wednesday evening with a good turn out. Albert Horrocks was elected to the board, replacing Haden Bomersun who had done his term of five years.

The Community League meeting was also held Wednesday evening and a vote was taken for a new hall. It was decided a new one would be built regardless of a very large debt. The tender is to go to the lowest bidder as chosen by Associate Engineers of the County of Strathcona J.D. Mercrest, councilor for this division of the County, spoke at did Dante McPhail, regional planner. Murray Fimmerty, newly chosen P.C. candidate for this constituency was also in attendance.

Members of the family of Jean and Russell Rowland have been painting and preparing their newly acquired home for occupancy, they hope by Christmas time.

ANOTHER OLDTIMER PASSES

Funeral Services were conducted in the United Church in Tofield on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 14th, for the late Archie Ferguson.

It was a full military service with H. Denham Legion Chaplain, in charge, with Rev. Walker assisting.

Archie came to the Ministik area from Scotland in 1907 with his parents, two brothers, Andrew of Minstik and Matthew, now of Tofield, and five sisters.

He filed on a homestead here adjoining that of his father's in 1914, he answered the call overseas to defend his country with the 32nd Edmonton Regiment of the 49ers seeing active service all through. He returned home and was employed by McGregor Telephone Co. but, at the same time retaining and improving his home.

County has statement on schools, buses

At its meeting on Tuesday, December 10th, the School Committee of the County of Beaver requested that an article be placed in the local papers to answer some of the common questions regarding the County of Beaver's policy of not closing schools on days that the school buses cannot operate.

During the 1974-75 school year there are 198 possible school days. This includes the teachers' convention (2 days); teachers' workshop (1 or 2 days); the first day of the school year, September 3rd, which was a staff meeting day; and the last two days of June when students do not attend because teachers are marking tests, preparing records and completing report cards. This leaves us with a possible 180 or 181 days on which pupils receive instruction.

If a school system could be certain that buses would not operate for more than two days a week with a clear conscience close the schools. However, it has no such assurance.

The School Committee has felt an obligation to provide each day possible of education for each of its pupils. If a pupil shows up at school he or she deserves to receive the benefit of [illegible] teacher, and the opportunity that society has provided for the pupil. This became especially crucial for high school students in the semester system where one day missed now is the equivalent of two days in a school that is not semestered. The School Committee has held the view that our students must compete at N.A.I.T., S.A.I.T., universities, and for job opportunities with students from schools in urban and other systems which do not close. Those students who can and do attend our schools on stormy days have the right to get the education that is available to them on that day.

The School Committee is responsible for the expenditure of huge sums of public money. During the current school year it costs approximately $19 000 per day to operate the County of Beaver school system. If the schools are closed the only money that would be saved is 40 percent of the bus drivers' wages and the fuel to operate the buses — a total saving of about $700.00 per day. The School Committee has felt that it is better to attempt to get as much benefit as possible from the money that it must spend. If the schools are open then the potential remains for pupils to attend and to get the benefit of instruction. This opportunity remains there for every pupil who resides in a town, village, hamlet and for rural pupils who live alongside roads that are open where the parents can bring them to the school. It seems unfair to deny that opportunity to these pupils simply because all pupils cannot be there on that day — especially when our percentage of attendance is about 92 percent even on nice days.

If you have any comments regarding this matter Dr. N.C. Gounod, Superintendent of Schools would appreciate hearing from you.

Beaverhills hockey revises its schedule

Tuesday night Leskiw sparked the Smoky Lake Imperials to a 6-5 win over the Ryley Flyers in a Beaverhill league game played in Tofield.

Ryley trailed Smoky Lake at one point in the game by four goals and managed to get within one goal of tying the game. It marked the first victory for the Imperials over the Flyers since they entered the league. It also marked the second straight loss for the defending league champs. Coach Bob Dueck faces a major rebuilding job as only six out of 18 of last year's players are back from last year. Ponich, Potiuk and Owschann rounded out the scoring for the Imperials, while Stoke led the Ryley attack with two goals. Solo efforts came from the sticks of Craig Solberg, Aaron Beattie and Wade Magneson.

On Saturday, the Mundare Sabers played their first game in the league and didn't get too pleasant a welcome as the Tofield Satellite demolished them 14-6. It marked the first time some of The Sabers were on skates this year.

Meanwhile, the same night, the Lamont Nuggets took out the Smoky Lake Imperials 5-2. The league resumes tonight (Thursday).

The schedule has to be revised as several centres are having problems getting ice with the weather conditions as they are.

Following is a revised schedule in part:

Dec. 19th—
Mundare at Smoky Lake

Dec. 21st—

IN MEMORIAM

SADOWSKI — In loving memory of our dear Uncle Joe, who passed away December 22nd, 1973:
A heart of gold stopped beating,
Hard working hands at rest;
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by his nieces and nephews: Steve and Lillian, Dick and Susan, Bill and Sylvia, Victor, Allen and Nellie, Lloyd and Lena (Warwa), Johnny and Lil, Albert and Donn. 17p-862

SADOWSKI — In loving memory of my dear brother, Joe, who passed away December 22nd, 1973:
You could not say good-bye to us,
You could not clasp our hand,
But God has taken one we loved,
To His realm so grand.
So many things have happened,
Since you were called away.
What we would give to see your happy face,
To hear your voice and to see your smile,
That meant so much to us.
